Solidarity Day Buoys Abernathy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Buoyed by the success of the Solidarity Day rally, Rev. Ralph David Abernathy has pledged to keep the Poor People's Campaign going "until justice rolls out of the halls of Congress."

Throngs of people of all ages and origins turned out to swell the crowd to over 50,000 yesterday as Abernathy, Mrs. Martin Luther King Jr. and others sounded the call for help for the needy.

The visitors—more than half white—provided badly needed financial help, along with the moral support of the middle class and of labor groups.

This set a new direction for the campaign, which has been plagued during its six weeks by bickering and discontent—to say nothing of misery in the mud of

'Shocked' Supervisors Veto West Marin Court Closing

By WAT TAKESHITA

But shocked supervisors quickly reinstated the judge and the $11,132 needed to operate the court for the next fiscal year.

The shocker came at the end of yesterday's 10-hour budget hearing the supervisors were dumbfounded to learn that the county administrator had provided no appropriation in his recommended budget for the justice court.

"This type of recommendation should have come on the regular agenda," said Chairman Ernest N. Kettenhofen. "I'm critical of not being forewarned."

County Administrator Alan Bruce pointed out that the recommended abolition of the justice court was included in his budget by message in the front portion of the proposed budget for 1968-69 which had been in the hands of the supervisors and the public for about three weeks.

Kettenhofen and the other supervisors, looking a bit sheepish, agreed that Bruce was correct. "We didn't do our homework," admitted Kettenhofen.

Supervisor Thomas T. Storer said he was "utterly opposed" to deleting the justice court because the people of West Marin want it.

Supervisor John F. McInnis agreed. He said his district is at the opposite end of the county, but he has been approached by citizens who want the court to remain.

The board unanimously restored Judge Baty's bench, and also agreed to continue the pay for Constable Michael McLean. The county administrator had recommended the deletion of the constable's pay as well.

Constable McLean, who draws a token pay of $70 per month, also won assurance that a pay raise would be considered by the supervisors. Since the constable is an elected official, the supervisors want to make sure a pay raise is granted legally. They took the matter under submission to consult the county counsel.

• Austin J. Thompson, director of the county human rights department, and the supervisors reached agreement yesterday on a department budget for fiscal 1968-69 of $47,293, up $21,643.

Administrator Bruce had recommended a 1968-69 human rights budget of $41,893, while Thompson wanted $48,042.

Thompson's request included $8,250 for human rights programs, $5,750 more than Bruce recommended. The supervisors, noting the urgency of the department's work, compromised and voted $5,400 for the projects.

The programs will include youth involvement, conferences with news media on dealing with the human rights issue, educational projects and a human rights newsletter.

The new budget also provides hiring of a youth worker in the second half of the fiscal year. Thompson also is scheduled to hire a field representative at a salary range of $683-$829 a month.

Thompson was supported at the budget hearing yesterday by four members of the human rights commission, who outlined accomplishments and goals of the group, and by seven young persons in the audience.

Supervisor McInnis told the commissioners it was "fantastic the way you get results" but asked them to understand "the problem we have with money."

Thompson had also sought an increased appropriation for supplies, but was turned down. The supervisors agreed, however, to study Thompson's request for a raise for secretary Ilys J. Hernandez.

Approval of the human rights budget and those of other departments left the county tax rate as of yesterday at $2.327. The rate, which supervisors have pledged to freeze at this $2.30 level, has fluctuated in budget discussions as high as $2.33.

Recorder —Noel T. Giacomini won his fight to retain 11 employees, whereas the administrator had recommended cutting the number to 10. The recorder's new budget will be $147,335, higher than the administrator's recommendation of $141,170. The current budget is $124,711.

County Pound — $204,108 approved as recommended. This year's budget is $172,566.

Coroner-Public Administrator —Dr. Donovan O. Cooke had his budget lopped by about $5,500, but managed to squeeze out an added investigator by a 3 to 2 vote. This brings the total staff to five and one-half. His request for the other half a secretary was turned down.

Supervisors Kettenhofen, McInnis and Peter H. Behr voted for the added investigator, over the protests of Storer and William A. Gnoss. Both Storer

Bay Plan Asks More Recreation, Beaches

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

The long-awaited master plan for San Francisco Bay for the next 50 years was released yesterday by the Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

The preliminary version is to be heard by commissioners during the summer, adopted by early fall, and submitted to the Legislature in January.

Then it will be up to the Legislature to act on it, and to consider whether to set up a new agency to continue controls on bay fill. If the controls expire, it will be open season on bay fill when the 1969 Legislature adjourns.

The most controversial recommendation of the proposed plan is that tideland property owners will not be compensated for not being permitted to fill. Commissioners already have adopted this concept, and the feasibility of the plan hangs on whether it will be upheld in an inevitable court test.

The most expensive proposal in the plan is that the present four miles of the 276-mile bay shoreline being used by the public be expanded to 65 miles. The cost of this proposal is not estimated in the preliminary plan, but will be in the final version.

"All the waterfront land needed for recreation by the year 2020 should be reserved now," the plan says, "because delay may mean that needed shoreline

Congressmen Pressing Mail Order Gun Ban

LBJ Signs Handgun Controls

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House Judiciary committee today approved, 29 to 6, President Johnson's bill to ban mail order sales of all firearms, including rifles and shotguns.

The action was in line with a plea for stronger gun controls made by the President yesterday when he signed into law the omnibus crime control bill containing a provision outlawing mail order sales of any handguns. (See related gun stories, page 5.)

The Senate Judiciary Committee had been expected to also approve the bill today but postponed action until next Thursday. Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., a strong advocate of tough gun controls, made the move for postponement, partly because three supporters of the measure were absent.

BILL'S PROVISIONS

It also would limit over-the-counter sales of guns to residents of the state where the store is located, set 21 as the minimum age for purchasing handguns and ammunition for them and set 18 as the minimum age for buying rifles and shotguns and their ammunition. It also would prohibit interstate shipments of ammunition.

OTHER EFFECTS

The measure also would:

Outlaw the sale of destructive devices such as grenades and bazookas.

Require dealers to keep records of sales of firearms and ammunition.

Forbid possession of firearms by a list of individuals including felons, mental defectives, narcotics addicts, and even veterans who do not receive an honorable discharge.

In signing the anticrime bill, Johnson called its handgun controls only a halfway step toward curbing violence caused by firearms. He urged Congress to move quickly on the broader measure.

SLIGHT MOVEMENT NOTED IN PARIS

Clifford Optimistic About Paris; Bans Servicemen From Discrimination Rentals

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Defense Secretary Clark M. Clifford said today there is "some movement now" in the U. S.-North Vietnamese talks in Paris.

Clifford told newsmen he was "hopeful" American and North Vietnamese negotiators in Paris would be able to work out a dignified and honorable settlement of the war.

"I think we have some bits and straws that indicate that there is some movement now, no matter how slight," Clifford said.

"I believe both sides are there to try to arrange an ultimate disposition of the conflict," Clifford said.

He said there were "bits and straws" indicating some hope.

In an effort to bolster their negotiating position at Paris, Clifford said the North Vietnamese have been making an "extra effort" in the war.

Urged Congress not to scrap or seriously delay plans for the $5 billion "thin" antiballistic missile system, saying if the Russians "develop and deploy a workable ABM system and we do not do so, I believe that we will be at a disadvantage."

Predicted that the controversial F111A fighter-bomber will resume flights soon in Southeast Asia and—if nothing goes wrong—will probably return to combat.

On housing discrimination, Clifford noted the Defense Department began a campaign a year ago to eliminate this.

In July 1967, he said, only 61 per cent of apartments and trailer court units near military bases were open to all service families, regardless of race.

Tax Hike Vote Seen Late Today

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House today rejected a move to sidetrack the tax hike-spending cut bill and drove toward passage of the measure probably late in the afternoon.

The initial test for the bill came on a motion by liberal congressmen to send the package back to committee and substitute a tax reform measure in its place. The move was rejected 321 to 86.

The $15-billion-yearly package of income and excise taxes, coupled with a mandatory $6 billion federal spending cut was expected to sail through and go to the Senate for probable passage tomorrow.

If approved it will be the first income tax increase since the Korean War for purpose of financing another conflict and to help curb inflation.

The bill carries the 10 per cent surcharge on personal and corporate taxes requested by President Johnson, coupled with an extension of automobile and telephone excise rates which had been scheduled to drop automatically on April 1.

Also included is a requirement that corporate taxes be paid earlier.

The 7 per cent levy on autos, which was to have gone to 1 per cent, would continue through the fiscal year starting July 1, as would the 10 per cent excise on telephone bills, which was to have dropped to 2 per cent.

Congress has insisted upon the spending reductions as its price for boosting taxes in this election year.

Hanoi Split Hinted Over Saigon Raids

PARIS (UPI) — Diplomatic sources said today several North Vietnamese leaders have criticized the Viet Cong shelling of Saigon as having backfired against the Communist cause by arousing world opposition.

The reliable sources close to the Hanoi-Washington talks said the leaders, including Defense Minister Vo Nguyen Giap, were seriously concerned over the outcry the shellings have produced among public opinion. Even U.N. Secretary General U Thant has denounced the Saigon bombings as "barbarism."

Giap reportedly went so far as to threaten that if the Viet Cong continued its bombings of the South Vietnamese capital, Hanoi should slow down its delivery of 122mm rockets to the South.

North Vietnamese diplomatic officials denied there were any differences between their government and the Viet Cong leadership.

Their delegation was reported by the reliable sources as worried over Thant's unprecedented blast at the terror shellings of Saigon which received prominent attention here. Thant hitherto has avoided any open criticism of the

Publicity Impact Argued In Murder Trial Hearing

By JOANNE GRANT

Testimony on the motion for a change of venue in the case of Dennis C. Novotny, 22, one of three men accused of stomping to death a San Rafael resident in the course of a robbery Dec. 6, opened this morning in Marin Superior Court.

One of the three accused, Claude (Frenchy) LeBas, admitted to the Marin County Grand Jury he had participated in the killing of Wesley L. Marshall, 68-year-old San Rafael gun collector in Marshall's apartment. On Feb. 5, LeBas pleaded guilty to murder in Marin Superior Court and is now serving a life sentence.

The third accused, John Arceo, 31, of Fairfax, is to have separate hearings later.

The motion asks that the trial be moved to San Francisco Superior Court on grounds of unfair news coverage.

Dr. David Geisinger, a psychologist in private practice in San Francisco and Marin counties, testified this morning that the impact of articles printed in the Independent-Journal on the case is "likely to be one which possibly will cause the community to feel incited, excited and prejudiced against" Novotny.

He called some of the articles "decidedly inflammatory in certain respects," and cited a Jan. 30 article which reported the confession of LeBas to the grand jury, implicating Novotny.

Dr. Geisinger said the size of the Marin community "has an

Convicted Killer Fails To Obtain New Lawyer

The penalty trial of convicted murderer Kenneth Allen Preston was delayed in Marin Superior Court today when the young motorcyclist said he wanted a new lawyer.

The 20-year-old Santa Rosa youth was defended during the trial's guilt or innocence phase, which ended with his conviction Friday, by Edwin Verzyl of Sacramento.

After an hour-long conference in chambers this morning, with Preston, Verzyl and Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales in attendance, Judge Joseph G. Wilson announced that the penalty trial would begin this afternoon with Verzyl continuing as defense attorney.

The penalty trial, expected to last four or five days, is to provide testimony and evidence which the jury of eight women and four men must use to decide if Preston is to die in San Quentin's gas chamber or serve a life sentence in prison.

The panel convicted Preston of slaying Curtis Ackley, 27, and his wife, Shirley Ackley, 34, in their Santa Venetia house trailer Jan. 12.

The Ackleys were murdered when they returned to the trailer that night to find burglars stealing their gun collection, money and jewelry.

Curtis Ackley, his hands taped behind him, a pillow slip over his head, was executed with four shots just behind the left ear. Shirley, her eyes taped, her head wrapped in clothing, was shot twice, strangled, stabbed, tortured and raped.

Preston and Johnny Lee Sommerhalder, 24, both members of the Grim Reapers, a Santa Rosa motorcycle gang, were charged with the double murder. Sommerhalder is to be tried separately, beginning in the week of July 1.

Greek Chief Shuffles Aides

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Greek strongman George Papadopoulos dismissed his Cabinet today and within two hours reappointed most of its members.

Dimitrios Patilis, the minister for Northern Greece, was given the additional title of second deputy premier. The other changes were in the ministries of justice, communications, social welfare, merchant marine and labor.

Bonn Warns Kremlin Over Berlin Squeeze

BONN (UPI) — Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger warned the Soviet Union today new Communist harrassments of lifelines to West Berlin could discourage Western attempts to accept tension-easing agreements with Moscow.

In Berlin last night, East German border guards turned back a West Berlin truck because its cargo papers did not call the Soviet zone of Germany the German Democratic Republic. They also barred a German newsman from driving to the West without giving him a reason.

Western officials said the halting of the truck was not considered serious in itself but demonstrated the East Germans' ability to act as they please in dealing with Berlin traffic.

Kiesinger told the West German Parliament (Bundestag) the government is discussing possible retaliatory measures with the United States, Britain and France. He said they will be taken up at a NATO ministers' meeting in Iceland at the end of this week.

Paris Seeks To Rescue Commerce

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaule's government today launched an emergency financial rescue operation to bail out thousands of French businesses near failure because of strikes and crushing pay raises.

The full cost of the crippling strikes still has not been computed, officials said, but Premier Georges Pompidou said recently that at their peak the walkouts cost the nation $2 billion weekly. Some lasted six weeks and are still going.

Ike's Heart 'Irregularity' Said Waning

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Doctors reported today that former President Dwight D. Eisenhower continues to suffer some heart "irregularities" but that they have decreased in frequency over the past 24 hours.

Maj. George H. Foster, spokesman for Walter Reed Hospital, said the five-star general has experienced no further chest pains and has shown no signs of heart failure.

"Gen. Eisenhower has had another comfortable 24 hours," Foster said in a brief statement approved by Eisenhower's doctors.

He said "some irregularities of the heart rhythm has continued to be present but have decreased in frequency" since yesterday's report. "There has been no further chest pain and no signs of heart failure have occurred.

India Protests

NEW DELHI (UPI) — India accused Red China in a formal protest yesterday of giving military training to rebellious Nagaland hill tribesmen fighting for independence from India.

'Paper Gold'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has signed a bill giving U.S. approval to a new international "paper gold" reserve currency intended to relieve some of the strain on the dollar.

The drawing rights on the international "paper gold" reserves could ultimately reduce the demand for gold and dollars as a medium of exchange in the steadily expanding world economy.

Officials have said the reserves would help functioning of the international two-market system for gold set up earlier this year after speculative raids on the dollar and a rush of gold buying.

The bill Johnson signed authorizes U.S. officials to vote for a charter amendment to the International Monetary Fund providing for the new reserves, a sort of currency for use among central banks in the world.

Travel Gap

WASHINGTON (AP) —The Commerce Department says an unfavorable balance of U.S. tourist travel payments rose to more than $2.1 billion last year with much of the gap traceable to Canada's Expo 67.

The increase in the gap of Americans' travel expenditures abroad over foreigners' expenditures here was 30 per cent above 1966, the department said, and included an "extraordinary" rise in American spending in Canada.

It said spending in Canada was nearly $1.1 billion, a jump of nearly 60 per cent over 1966.

In all countries, the department said, a record number of American travelers spent nearly $8 billion last year.

Voyager Lost?

HOMESTEAD, Fla. (AP) — Concern rose today over the fate of lone sailor Hugo Vihlen, unsighted since Tuesday when his six-foot sailboat was on the final leg of a 4,500-mile solo ocean voyage from Africa.

Heavy seas, severe rain squalls and winds gusting to 50 miles per hour hampered efforts to locate the 36-year-old pilot-sailor yesterday but conditions were expected to moderate today.

Diamond Check

LONDON (UPI) — Scotland Yard today investigated the disappearance of nearly $100,000 in diamonds from a mailbag being shipped by air from Hong Kong to London.

Somber Words

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — James Brown, the screaming singer of the soul song set, is home from a Vietnam tour with somber words about the morale of U.S. troops he visited.

"Morale there is way down," Brown said. "With the problems we're having in this country, many of the fellows said they felt safer in Vietnam than at home.

"I was jumpin' around on the stage just like the old days," said the singer, who wore irridescent blue-green coveralls to his news conference. "Them colonels and generals couldn't imagine what was going on."

Then Brown turned serious.

"But the fellows feel that people back home are against them," he said. "I'd say 60 per cent of the young kids said they would rather stay over there than come back home, because of all the racial troubles."

effect on the spread of rumor and talk."

Under cross-examination, Dr. Geisinger conceded, he did not know the circulation of the Independent-Journal; did not know if any weekly papers in Marin printed the story; and did not know the extent of the coverage given the case in San Francisco papers, and on television and radio.

He said he had never heard of the case before being asked to read the newspaper articles by defense attorneys.

Dr. Geisinger, in response to questions by Deputy Dist. Atty. Gary Thomas and Judge Samuel W. Gardiner, said his practice was limited to individuals and small groups and that he had never testified in court about mass psychology before.

Novotny's attorney, Michael Lewton of San Francisco, also called Allan G. Howells, circulation manager of the Independent-Journal, to testify this morning.

Howells said the audited average daily circulation in central Marin residential areas was 35,208 for the six-month period ending March 31. He said the 1968 estimated population of the area was 160,000.

Circulation in the balance of Marin, with a 1968 population estimate of 44,000, was 7,600 for the same period, Howells testified.

Lawton said he also called Hugh Turner, manager of radio station KTIM, but that he was on vacation.

CLIFFORD

Now, he said, 83 per cent are open to all members of the armed forces—a gain of 247,000 units.

(A Hamilton Air Force Base spokesman said today that 93 per cent of all apartments and trailer courts around the base were open to all personnel. Lt. Robert Swartz, assistant chief of the joint office of information, said the base had not received Clifford's order but would comply. He said, however, the base already had a policy against rentals from discriminating landlords.)

"We are gratified by the progress in the last 12 months," Clifford said. "But unfortunately there are still some landlords who discriminate on the basis of color against men who wear the uniform of their country. This is an intolerable injustice."

Therefore, he said, effective the end of next month all members of the armed services are being forbidden to sign a lease with operators of apartments or trailer space that practice discrimination.

TALKS

Viet Cong and of North Vietnamese strategic aims and methods.

The reported differences in the Communist camp apparently reflected apprehensions that the bombings have not produced diplomatic pay dirt for North Vietnam at the Paris conference. Instead, the bombings have given W. Averell Harriman, the chief U.S. negotiator, a distinct negotiating edge.

Meanwhile, Allied quarters were speculating whether the Hanoi delegation was imperceptibly agreeing to the key suggestion hammered at it by Harriman since the parley began May 13—secret talks.

At yesterday's ninth fruitless negotiating meeting, the two delegations again hurled fiery attacks at each other.

Youths Ask For County Civic Roles

The Marin County Board of Supervisors was asked yesterday to name young persons to policy-making positions in county government.

The request came from a group of seven youths who appeared before the supervisors to support the aims of the county human rights department.

The supervisors stopped short of supporting the appointment of young persons to commissions that run county government, but warmly endorsed the idea of greater participation by youth in Civic Center affairs.

Mary Trent, a resident of Hamilton Air Force Base who graduated this month from Terra Linda High School, spoke for her six companions.

"There are lots of young people saying that you can't get anything done through government because it's run by a lot of old fogies," she told the supervisors. "Well, we don't believe it."

She said she wanted to see youth participate more in government because "we need something to bring us all together." Miss Trent proposed that the supervisors name a youth as a voting member of the county planning commission.

The supervisors questioned the legality of a minor serving on such a body, although it was pointed out that a 17-year-old youth was named last year to the planning commission in the City of Santa Cruz.

"Don't fence us in," another girl pleaded. "Kids care what's going on. This is a chance to do something to show our responsibility."

Supervisor Thomas T. Storer said the board should "respond immediately" to the offer of help from the students. "We should accept this very fine offer," he added.

Storer proposed, with his colleagues' support, that County Administrator Alan Bruce seek positions for the young persons and report back to the supervisors Tuesday. It was left unclear whether the youths would be paid for any work.

Miss Trent proposed increased participation by youth in government after rising during budget hearings to support requests of Austin J. Thompson, director of the human rights department, for an increased budget the next fiscal year.

No New Leads In Marin City Arson Probes

No new developments in the Tuesday night arson investigation of two Marin City buildings were reported today by sheriff's officers.

Inspector Guido Battaglia said floor tile and wood pieces damaged in a blaze at an unfurnished three-bedroom home at 62 Buckelew Street may be sent to the State Criminal Identification and Investigation Bureau in Sacramento of analysis to determine what fluid was used in starting the fire.

He added, however, that officers are certain the blaze was liquid, probably gasoline, started with some flammable Firemen said the house "reeked" of a liquid.

Second fire was at the Oak Knolls of Marin office at 899 Drake Avenue. Firemen said the office had been ransacked, furniture had been overthrown, and several fires started by throwing ignited papers on the floor.

BAY

will otherwise be preempted for other uses."

The dramatic increase in recreation facilities will be needed, according to the plan, to accommodate a population estimated by the commission at 10.8 million by the year 2020, almost triple the present population of the nine-county Bay Area. Other agencies estimate population in 2020 anywhere from nine to 12 million.

Conceding that recreation "will be the most difficult type of shoreline development to finance," the plan says that public funds will be needed "on a sizable scale," perhaps through a regional bond issue.

The plan recommends that the new bay governmental agency to regulate the bay and its shoreline be part of a limited regional government, or a state agency similar to BCDC.

The annual cost of operating such an agency would be $400,000 to $500,000, the plan estimates. A property tax rate of one half-cent per $100 assessed valuation could finance the cost, it says.

The report, noting that 40 per cent of the bay has been filled in the past century, declares that the commission is "strongly opposed to needless, haphazard bay filling." The bay "should be regarded as the single most valuable natural asset of the entire bay region," it states.

Some bay filling, however, may be justified for port terminals, industry that needs access to deep-water shipping, airport expansion if no other sites can be found, and recreational facilities.

The plan does not estimate how much filling may be justified, but says 19,000 acres of additional waterfront land should be reserved for water-oriented industry.

Bay filling, the plan cautions, destroys the habitat of wildlife and fish, endangers the scenic beauty of the bay, increases the dangers of water and air pollution, and makes the climate less temperate.

In Marin, the plan recommends maximum preservation of the shoreline for recreation and wildlife, acquisition for a park of the net depot in Tiburon if it is not needed by the federal government, a major county park between Hamilton Air Force Base and Gallinas Creek, expansion of shoreline parks between the creek and point San Pedro, and a waterfront park at Black Point.

It also suggests a small boat channel along the shoreline between Gallinas Creek and the Petaluma River.

The plan envisions a scenic drive from San Quentin Point to Point San Pedro Road, with a bridge across the mouth of the San Rafael Canal.

It urges preservation of the Marin Islands near the San Rafael Channel, and no major commercial development of Angel Island.

Improved public transportation, instead of a second deck on the Golden Gate Bridge or a new bridge, should be sought, it says, suggesting commuter ferry stops at Sausalito, Tiburon and Point San Quentin.

Recreational ferry stops are proposed at Fort Baker, Tiburon, Angel Island, Sausalito, San Rafael, Gallinas Creek and Black Point.

The plan will be presented to the commission at 2 p.m. tomorrow in room 1194 of the State Building, 455 Golden Gate Avenue, San Frnacisco.

Americans To Cuba In Jet Hijack

CARACAS (UPI)—A Venezuelan DC9 jetliner on a "milk run" schedule between Miami and Caracas with 76 persons aboard was hijacked over the Caribbean last night and forced to fly to Cuba.

At least four Americans were among the passengers.

Cuban authorities confirmed the airliner landed at Santiago, on the eastern end of the island but refused any further information.

The DC9 was being operated jointly by Viasa, the Venezuelan government airline, and the Dominican Airline. The daily flight operates as Dominican between Miami, San Juan and Santo Domingo and as Viasa between Santo Domingo, Curacao and Caracas.

It was seized in flight on the Santo Domingo-Curacao lap. A Caracas radio station quoted official sources in the Venezuelan capital as saying four heavily armed men took over the plane.

House Launches National Redwood Park Legislation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House subcommittee on national parks began consideration today on legislation to establish a Redwood National Park in Northern California.

No action was reported following an hour-long meeting behind closed doors.

Subcommittee Chairman Roy A. Taylor, D - N.C., and Rep. Waye N. Aspinall, D - Colo., chairman of the full Interior Committee, told newsmen Committee rules would not permit any disclosures of subcommittee deliberations behind closed doors until action is completed on the several pending park proposals.

The subcommittee set another meeting for tomorrow.

Minimum Gun Fee Requested

The gun registration fee of $2 per person, provided in a new ordinance voted by the supervisors Tuesday, should be lowered to a level just enough to cover the cost of registrtaion and no more, the Marin County Board of Supervisors voted unanimously this morning.

On a motion by Supervisor Peter H. Behr, the supervisors asked the county administrator to make a study and give "his present best estimate of the actual cost of registering the guns so that if the cost is below $2 per weapon, the ordinance will be amended to reflect the actual cost as best we may."

Behr said he wants to make sure that the gun registration receipt will not be used as a revenue producing measure in any way.

Building Permits Over $1 Million

The City of Novato issued 59 building permits last month worth $1,482,660, according to the city building department.

This compares with 50 building permits for a total value of $927,300 issued in May of last year and with 48 permits worth $784,250 last April.

The largest single building permit issued last month was for $169,000 for the Santa Rosa Savings and Loan Association building on Grant Avenue at Highway 101. The remainder of the permits were for residential construction.

U.S. Combat Deaths Pass 25,000 Mark

SAIGON (UPI) - - American combat deaths in the Vietnam War rose above the 25,000 figure last week, U.S. officials said today. The Communist death toll stood at 363,935 but Viet Cong and North Vietnamese deaths dropped sharply for the second straight week.

The spokesman said 324 Americans were killed last week and 2,325 wounded.

The Communists lost 1,613 dead last week, about half of the 2,134 lost the week before and down from the 4,737 the previous week. The South Vietnamese lost 286 men killed and 1,189 wounded.

Total American casualties of the war stood at 25,068 with 154,297 wounded. The casualties in the Korean War were 33,629 dead and 103,284 wounded. U.S. medical sources said deaths were lower because of advanced medication techniques and faster evacuation of wounded men.

No major ground fighting was reported today. Tension rose along the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) as U.S. Marines guarding the border reported sighting North Vietnamese helicopters during the night for the fifth consecutive night.

MARCH

the campsite at Resurrection City.

Abernathy's top aides moved promptly to take advantage of the new backing, scheduling "brain-busting" sessions to plan new demonstrations, and arranging for "education courses for the non-poor" at Resurrection City, where visitors have not been encouraged to date.

The day turned out clear and warm—prompting many in the crowd to wade in the big but shallow reflecting pool between the monument and the memorial.

The only incident reported was the stabbing of a boy by someone in a group asking to use his camera. He was not seriously wounded.

The turnout, estimated by Public Safety Director Patrick V. Murphy at 50,000 during its peak, heartened the march leadership which had estimated 40,000 in advance. Also encouraging was the presence of members of the United Auto Workers, the American Federation of Teachers and three presidential candidates: Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, and Harold E. Stassen.

There were housewives, students, children, hippies, Afro-Americans in costume, entertainers, 11 senators, 44 House members. Housing Secretary Robert C. Weaver, first Negro cabinet member, and Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz also were on hand.

Abernathy, King's successor as head of the sponsoring Southern Christian Leadership Conference, read a 29-page speech at the rally, ticking off a long list of demands and vowing to remain in the capital with his followers even if the government refuses to renew the permit for Resurrection City which expires Sunday.

One emotional high spot was the speech–and song—of Mrs. Coretta King, standing on the spot at the Memorial where her husband gave his "I have a dream" speech Aug. 28, 1963.

She read an excerpt from that speech: "Free at last, free at last—thank God Almighty, I'm free at last!"

She sang the spiritual "Come By Here, Lord, Come By Here." And she read a telegram from Mrs. Ethel F. Kennedy saying "my heart and my prayers are with you."

CORNICES CRUMBLING

Marin's somewhat dilapidated courthouse in San Rafael is beginning to lose its cornice, workmen discovered a few days ago, and two heavy cast iron ornaments were just barely hanging on, high above the entrance to the sheriff's office. Nationwide Gun Toll 79 Since Sunday

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Guns have taken the lives of 79 persons in the United States since midnight Sunday, an Associated Press survey showed today.

Of those, 41 were homicides, 28 were suicides and 10 were accidental deaths.

Three children were killed with firearms yesterday, two by other children and one by a former mental patient.

The Florida Highway Patrol said Joseph McCants, 29, killed 3-year-old Francis Lee Fortune after holding her and two other children hostage. Earlier, officers said, he had shot and gravely wounded a Graceville policeman. McCants had been in a state mental hospital several times, police said.

Seven-year-old Wayne Roye of Wake, Virginia, was accidentally shot to death by his 10-year-old brother, Philip, who police said apprently was playing cowboy with a loaded gun.

Paul Alvin Witcher, 7, was shot and killed in a rural section of Franklin County, Virginia. Sheriff's police said a 14-year-old relative, Johnny Ray Witcher, was playing in the basement of his home with a rifle he thought was unloaded. He fired through the window, hitting the younger boy in the head.

Demands for gun control legislation have been increased by three assassinations, the most recent being that of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Coroner Andrew J. Toman of Cook County (Chicago) said yesterday that more persons died from gun wounds in the county during 1967 than died in automobile accidents.

Deputies Urge Clausen Caution On Gun Ban

Twenty-six members of the Marin sheriff's department have appealed to Rep. Don Clausen, R-First District, to "think carefully" before voting for legislation which would control firearms.

Taking an implied swipe at the courts, the letter from sheriff's personnel warned, "additional laws will not correct those areas of laxity which do not prosecute present gun laws."

The 26 signers specifically opposed laws which would control firearms "in the hands of normal sensible citizenry."

The petition started circulating Tuesday, the day the Marin County Board of Supervisors passed a law requiring that all firearms of persons in the unincorporated area be registered beginning Aug. 2.

The letter to Clausen agreed with legislation "to control the sale of firearms by mail or the sale of firearms to those certain elements of society which may be found ineligible to own firearms."

There the agreement stops.

"We, individually and as a group, strongly disagree with any legislation which will require all persons to register their firearms or restrict the ownership" the letter continued.

The letter predicted, "That regulation . . . is only going to make enforcement of any gun control law more difficult and less likely to be effective."

The letter also said: "Present laws and regulations are effective only when enforced by law enforcement up to and including the courts."

"A zip gun is not legal but it is not controlled by the proposed legislation, nor are crossbows, stolen guns, switch blade knives, etc.," the letter noted.

Woman Injured By Collision

A San Rafael woman was injured Tuesday when an auto in which she was riding collided with another car on Mission Street in San Rafael.

Mrs. Roxie Miller of 17 Francis Street, San Rafael, was treated at Marin General Hospital for bruises of the scalp and back, and then released.

She was riding in a car driven by Edith Lee of 21-A Floribel Avenue, San Anselmo, whose auto collided at 7:43 p.m. with one driven by Edgar M. Sliney of 52 Oak Mountain Drive, San Rafael. Sliney, westbound on Mission, was turning south onto Tamalpais Avenue when the accident occurred. San Rafael police cited him for failing to yield the right of way.

Larkspur Considers Gun Control

The Larkspur City Council said last night it intends to consider enactment of a gun control ordinance, similar to the one adopted by the county Tuesday, at its July 3 meeting. (See other Larkspur-council stories page 7.)

At the urging of Councilman William G. Fleckles, the council passed a motion "expressing intent to consider at the next meeting a gun law which would be satisfactory to the police chief and city attorney."

The law passed by the board of supervisors will require registration after Aug. 2 of all firearms maintained in the county's unincorporated areas with Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos.

Larkspur councilmen said that if the cities are going to pass gun laws, they should be uniform. Councilman Neil R. Brixon said this will be discussed at the meeting of the Marin County Council of Mayors and Councilmen Wednesday.

"I don't know what you're going to accomplish with this sort of law, but if this is what the people want, I think we should give it to them," Brixon said.

Two Radios Stolen

Dr. Robert Cary of 329 Summit Drive, Corte Madera, told police that while he was at work yesterday someone stole two radios and a speaker from his home. Police said entry into the house was made by prying open a bathroom window.

Trustees Of New Tomales District Elect Officers

The oaths of office were given to the new trustees by Dr. Virgil Hollis, Marin County schools superintendent. The other trustees installed, were Bruce B. Daniels, LeRoy R. Erickson, Robert E. Gallagher and Mrs. N. Louise Passalacqua.

The board selected Charles McCully, deputy superintendent of schools for Marin County, as the acting superintendent of the new district. He will also screen applicants for the position of superintendent of the new district, Hollis said.

McCully will work under contract between the new district and the county superintendent's office, according to Hollis. This contract will be based on a per diem basis until the new superintendent is selected, the per diem rate to be based on the new superintendent's salary, Hollis said. Also allowed will be the per diem cost of a secretary and travel time, according to Hollis.

The new district will borrow money from Marin County to operate on until it receives its first taxes in December 1969, Hollis said.

The board requested the superintendents of the component districts to serve as a screening committee for the selection of a name for the new district. They are to submit a maximum of five names from each district, for consideration of the board at its next meeting.

The board selected 8 p.m., the first Wednesday of each month at Tomales High School for its regular meetings.

The new district, which will not become official until July 1 of next year, was created at the June 4 primary election with the unification of the Tomales High School District with the West Marin and Tomales Bay Elementary districts in Marin County and Bodega Bay and Watson elementary districts in Sonoma County.

$2 Million Mill Valley Budget Carries 1.8-Cent Tax Rate Drop

Doing some last-minute cheese paring, the Mill Valley City Council last night approved a tentative 1968-69 city budget of approximately $2 million calling for a $2.307 property tax rate.

That tax rate is 1.8 cents below this year's rate, and more than $1 below the rate first mentioned when City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer presented budget proposals.

HIGHER BUDGET

Although the tax rate is lower, the budget is approximately $200,000 higher than this year's $1,800,529. With last night's council changes, Balmer did not have an exact dollar figure for the new budget, but did have the tentative tax rate.

The proposed $2.307 tax rate will produce $738,149 in property tax revenues compared to $730,566 last year at the higher rate, according to Balmer.

City employees were granted a 3.5 per cent pay increase, 1 per cent more than Balmer had recommended. The extra per cent, costing approximately $8,000, was added at the recommendation of Councilman George Wickham. Wickham said the 3.5 per cent would more nearly meet the cost of living increase since the last adjustment in January.

BRIEF FLURRY

There was a brief flurry when Wickham and then Councilman Robert H. Andresen received proposals to lop off a high level head or two among city employees, but other councilmen again turned down the proposals.

Wickham repeated his proposal that the city hire a full-time engineer who would also run the department of community development (planning and building inspection).

Rodric L. Robinson objected to "vagueness" in Wickham's proposal, and suggested he draw up specific comparisons with other cities showing where Mill Valley is spending too much money.

"I don't think anything I'd say would change your mind,'' Wickham replied.

SEES NO NEED

Andresen said the city has no great planning expenses scheduled this year, and said he saw no need to consolidate the departments at present.

Andresen then suggested that the post of Harold E. Soule, assistant to the city manager, was superflous. "I think the city manager would be better off with a full-time secretary," instead, he said.

Andresen emphasized that his criticism was not a reflection on Soule, who he said has done a good job for the city. But, he said, a memo from Balmer outlining the job's duties showed nothing that could not be handled either by a secretary or by the city department heads.

ASSISTANT STATUS

Balmer said Soule's duties had to be handled centrally and not parceled out among department heads. "Proper operation of the city requires an assistant to the city manager," he said.

"Let's get real sticky about it," Wickham said. "If he (Soule) does all this, (as outlined in the memo) what's left for the city manager to do?"

Nobody answered the question and the council moved on to approve the budget.

The council approved an additional 1.5 per cent pay increase, making a total of 5 per cent, for two library assistants to bring the positions into line with the city's scale. The raises will cost $318 a year.

Councilman Jerome C. Hauke initiated a $15,000 cut, 5 per cent of the budget for services, materials and supplies.

APPROVES CUT

Balmer said he would "gamble we could save that amount" by central purchasing and other savings made possible by a $7,200 accounting machine included in the new budget. The council then approved the cut.

At Wickham's suggestion the council added $10,000 to the capital projects budget to be a floating reserve for any unbudgeted project that appears urgent during the year.

The council saved a penny on the tax rate, though nothing on the budget total, by charging half the salary of a new groundsman authorized to the gold course fund, which is self-supporting from fees. The other half will be paid by the parks and recreation department.

Marijuana Charge Brings Innocent Plea

Judge Harold J. Haley scheduled jury trial for the week of Sept. 9. Blackmore is accused of selling one eighth of an ounce of marijuana to an undercover narcotics agent on Feb. 14.

GUESS THIS LOCATION

In February, the county placed the top two signs on this pole on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard to see if all capitals or the upper-and-lower case sign is more readable. The only public reaction came from second and third grade classes at Wolfe Grade School. The second sign was best, they said. Then the county added the lower, larger-lettered sign and the children reacted again—choosing the latest addition. James Robertson, Marin County traffic engineer, says that's the sign he likes best too. It will stay. Some day the county will remove the top two signs.

Larkspur Library Bond Election Held Doubtful

Larkspur city councilmen, the library board and City Mgr. Kent B. Bathurst last night all rejected the notion that Larkspur should plunge into its first bond-issue financing in 20 years to build the city a new library.

Members of the library board said they don't want a bond issue now because they fear a failure would severely affect the city's chances of ultimately building an 8,500-square-foot library for about $250,000.

Councilman Neil R. Brixon said: "I'm always fearful of bond issues. It's nice to have some alternatives."

Bathurst outlined other choices.

The city could expand the library in its present location from 2,600 feet to about 3,600 feet by adding on to the back of the building, he said.

Dan Coleman and Associates, engineering consultants, will soon study the 14-acre Tiscornia property, between Magnolia Avenue, Doherty Drive and Bon Aire Road, for a possible planned development. They will consider sketching a two-acre civic center development into the plans, Bathurst said.

More room for the library could be found inside city hall if the police and administrative offices were moved into leased buildings elsewhere in the downtown area, he said.

The city could, on a pay-as-you-go basis, buy land adjacent to city hall for ultimate expansion of the civic center complex, he said.

The first step would be to purchase the office building next to the firehouse and move the police department there. Next step would be to buy the Larkspur Automotive Garage, which could be remodeled into a library.

"The cost of this would be slightly higher than building on a completely new site, but it could be done on a pay-as-you-go basis over seven or eight years," Bathurst said.

"A bond issue could still be passed, but only if the groundwork were properly laid and citizens had shown a desire for it. I am not now in favor of a bond issue," he said.

Larkspur Employees Get Increase In Pay; Executive Pay Hike Hit

The Larkspur City Council, by a 3-2 vote, last night granted an across-the-board 7.5 per cent salary scale pay raise to city employees, but denied a request that department heads and administrators receive 10 per cent hikes.

Total payroll this fiscal year is $318,605, including non-recurring expenses of $6,000 for recreation program personnel and $12,000 for part-time help. Effect of the increase on that payroll total calcualtion of routine step increases for some personnel and other budgetary matters, City Mgr. Kent B. Bathurst's office reported today.

On the motion, opposed by Councilmen Earl J. O'Grady and Benton A. Sifford Jr., the council ruled that the city's officer staff will get the same raises as the rank and file.

Bathurst argued against the vote, saying "there should be a wider spread between the salaries of those in the ranks and the officers. It's very important that we keep this structure in mind."

Councilman Neil R. Brixon said, "We also have to keep in mind what the people of Larkspur can afford to pay year after year."

In other budget revisions, councilmen agreed to pay all members of the department of public works $75 a year in clothing allowance, on the condition that the street crewmen dress uniformly.

They agreed to pay $10,000 next fiscal year to begin replacement of the city's fire alarm system.

Fire Chief George Bartram reported the city is now operating with half of its alarm boxes out of order since a Pacific Gas and Electric Co. crew accidentally shorted out the system on the south end of town Sunday night.

Thirteen alarm boxes were destroyed and cannot be replaced, Bartram said. Boxes are still working in most of the city's commercial district, he said.

Councilmen voted that the chief should have a pickup truck instead of a sedan for his chief's car. They voted against purchase of extensive radio equipment for police, fire and street crews.

The council is to consider a final budget and a salary for Bathurst at its July 3 meeting.

The Larkspur City Council Also:

PERMIT — Approved an encroachment permit for Neils Schultz to run a drainage channel parallel to South Eliseo Drive between Lyon Restaurant and Larkspur Fire Station No. 2.

CONTRACT — Awarded a $101,252..07 contract to A. J. Bresnan Co. of San Rafael for widening of Magnolia Avenue in the North Larkspur area and increasing the size of the sewer line in that area.

TREES — Authorized Bathurst and City Atty. Robert W. Elliott to go to court if necessary to prevent George Brockman from cutting down six redwood trees for an apartment complex at 461 Cain Street.

PURCHASE — Agreed to purchase a sliver of land for ultimate widening of Magnolia Avenue from Ione Lyons at Bon Aire Road and Magnolia for $8,500.

Ross Hospital celebrates an Anniversary and looks for its babies

Ross Hospital's obstetrical department was delivering several hundred babies a year. Perhaps you or your children were among them. Our "O.B." closed in 1953, but we're just sentimental enough to wonder how many "Ross babies" are still living in Marin. Who is the oldest? The youngest? For these two people we have a special award. And, for everyone born at Ross General, a worthwhile anniversary remembrance.

Summer Travel Time Is Here

By MOLLY MARIN

Is everybody traveling? Nearly, it seems, and the others are having parties.

One of the more unusual groups who are traveling this month is that led by Mrs. Karl Botermans of San Anselmo. A teacher of Spanish at Ross School, Dorotea Botermans left Tuesday morning with six Ross Grammar School students who are studying Spanish for two weeks' tour of Mexico. In the group are Cecilia and Bill Cavalier, children of the William Cavaliers of Ross; Mary Dorinson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Malvern Dorinson of Ross; Tom Guerin, son of the Thomas A. Guerins of Ross; Michael Mayer, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence A. Mayer of Kentfield; and Will Morris, son of Dr. and Mrs. William J. Morris of Kentfield.

They'll visit Mexico City, where they will attend the Ballet Folklorico and visit a Mexico City grammar school, among other activities. The group will take a tour to the Shrine of Guadalupe and attend a Charro festival. Monday they will go by bus to Tula, San Juan del Rio, Queretaro and stay at San Miguel Allende. Their travels will also take them to Guanajuato, Morelia and San Jose before returning to Mexico City for a few days prior to their flight home.

NANCY DERWENT GIBSON was presented by her parents at a tea Thursday in their home in Washington, D.C. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Gibson (Florence Anderson).

Nancy was graduated from Westover School and will continue her education in England next year. She will be presented at a coming-out debutante ball Dec. 23 at the Mayflower Hotel in Washington.

She is the granddaughter of Berrien T. Anderson of San Rafael and a niece of Mrs. Henry H. Wilkins and Boris H. Kusta of Ross and Berrien J. Anderson of Bozeman, Mont.

MORE SHOW biz personalities are making their headquarters in Belvedere (the Righteous Brothers (Bob Hatfield and Jim Walker) have taken a home on Corinthian Island for the duration of their run at Mr. D's in San Francisco. They will be in Belvedere until the end of June.

MRS. H. T. ROGERS and Miss Barbara Hubler of Sausalito left this week for a summer tour of the Orient.

Conducted by Dr. Alonzo Baker, professor emeritus of the University of the Pacific, the tour offers graduate credit in international relations. Miss Hubler, who teaches at the Richardson Bay School in Sausalito, is making these arrangements.

First stop on the tour will be the Philippines. Other places visited will be Borneo, Sarawak, Singapore, the Malaysian Peninsula, Cambodia, Thailand, Hong Kong, Taiwan, Okinawa and many cities in Japan.

Unable to leave business then, Mr. Rogers will remain at home, and the Rogerses will take their main vacation later.

MRS. JONAS VON ROSEN, formerly of Belvedere, has retired from her position as assistant on the dean's staff at Stanford University, where she had charge of graduate women students. Mrs. Von Rosen left Tuesday for six months in Europe. She will visit Stanford campuses in Europe, and will also tour western Europe, Spain, the Scandinavian countries and Turkey. She will visit relatives in Denmark, and tour the Greek Islands before returning home in time to spend Christmas with her daughter, Mrs. F. J. Bertrand, and her family in Tiburon. She will make her permanent home in Tiburon. Pat Bertrand and two of her sons will take a pack trip to Canada later this summer.

A PARTY for their college-age friends will be given by Mr. and Mrs. Donald M. Detrick Sunday afternoon at the home of Don's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Detrick in Kentfield. A barbecue and swimming party is planned by Don and his bride, the former Candy Kane of Philadelphia, Pa. The couple have just returned from the University of Oregon and will be in Marin for the summer.

BACK IN Belvedere is Mrs. Merriam Howells, who is spending her summer at the home of Mrs. Robert Lord on the Lagoon. Mrs. Howells, formerly Ann Treadway, has been living in the East Bay.

MR. AND MRS. George Cagwin and their baby daughter Tania returned Monday to Mill Valley from a month's visit in England with Mrs. Cagwin's mother, Mrs. Ivor Davis, in Bexhill. They also traveled to other places in England, visiting some eight or nine castles, other relatives in Bedford and the Duke of Bedford's estate. They also saw some plays in London.

Inez Storer Heads Art-In-Action

By JOAN LISETOR

Mrs. Thomas T. Storer of Point Reyes is chairman of the art-in-action section of this year's Marin Art and Garden Fair. And currently she is supervising the building of booths for the 39 exhibitors who will demonstrate their crafts during the 23rd annual Marin County Fair, which opens July 3.

When construction is completed and the paint has dried, decorations carrying out the Japanese theme will be hoisted. Lamps, fish and paper lanterns in gold and black will adorn the booths.

During the fair the exhibitors from the nine Bay Area counties will give continuous demonstrations in the artistic fields of leather craft, sculpture, stitchery, painting, ceramics, silk screen, jewelery making, portrait painting, weaving, welding and a workshop making musical instruments.

A special feature of the fair will be Sumi brush painter Dr. Chuera Obata. The 83-year-old University of California professor emeritus was Inez Storer's teacher when she was an art student in Berkeley.

Inez is an accomplished artist and has been exhibiting for 14 years. She also studied at the Los Angeles and San Francisco Art Institutes. A few years ago she decided she wanted to teach art and has just completed the necessary education courses at the College of Marin. She will teach there this summer and continue her education at Sonoma State College in the fall.

Inez and her husband, Marin County Supervisor Thomas T. Storer, have lived in Point Reyes for nine years. They have four children: Elena, 12, Lisa, 11, Christopher, 9, and John, 8.

Fair manager Marcelle B. McCoy says of Inez, "She is wonderful to work with, so imaginative and such a hard worker."

Inez has run into a few problems coordinating her portion of the fair. The correct amount of space must be allotted to each participant, depending upon the size of his exhibit, and still stay within the specifications of fair designer George Murata. Shielding people from the direct sun during the hot July days of the fair has been another problem, which has been solved with some help from the many trees at the Art and Garden Center.

Hectic days are ahead for Inez. When the fair opens she will act as liaison between the art-in-action exhibitors and the fair committee.

"My main concern is keeping everybody happy," she says.

INEZ STORER, chairman of the art-in-action section of the Marin Art and Garden Fair, checks the plans during construction of the 39 exhibitors' booths. The Art and Garden Center is being transformed into a Japanese garden to carry out the "Bridge of Kyoto" theme for the county fair. Japanese garden designer, George Murata, has designed the fair to be held July 3 through 7 in Ross. (Independent-Journal photo by Jim Kean)

They're Off For A Summer At Caniya

Two experienced, young Marin campers, both 11-year-members of Camp Fire Girls, are leaving Wednesday to begin new jobs at Camp Caniya in the Sierra Nevada.

The girls, Margo Reichard and Laurie Fulkerson, spent four weeks of the past two summers as counselors-in-training at the camp. A recent ruling by Camp Fire officials prevents girls under 18 from acting as counselors, and since both are 17, special positions have been created for them.

Margo was just graduated from Redwood High School and has become an expert in nature craft, having camped out with her family since she was very young. As a nature craft specialist, she will take the campers on hikes, teach basket weaving and lead classes in nature study. Margo will use her few days off between camp sessions to camp out on her own in the Tahoe National Forest, where Camp Caniya is located. She is looking forward to spending the entire summer out-of-doors and earning a little money for expenses when she enrolls at Fullerton Junior College in the fall.

Laurie has been backpacking with her family since she was five-years-old. In addition to the two summers she spent as a CIT, she has attended Camp Caniya for four years. She looks forward to seeing the people at the camp she has grown fond of through the years. As assistant of camp crafts she will prepare food lists and take care of cooking utensils. Laurie was graduated from San Rafael High School this month and will attend Pitzer College in Claremont.

Returning to Camp Caniya for a second year as counselor will be Jackie Crisp of Corte Madera. Jackie was graduated from Redwood High School and has just completed her second year at the University of California at Santa Cruz. Also returning for a second year is Kathi Magruder who, will be a unit director. She attended College of Marin for one year and has been working in a San Francisco insurance office. Both girls were also Camp Fire Girls and attended several sessions at Caniya as campers.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Pride Turns To Disappointment With Change In Parents' Love

DEAR HELEN:

Many people feel a passing sympathy for the teen or small child who writes to an advice column saying her parents fight all the time and she's worried.

I was one of them. I still remember how proud I was of my parents, and I never much worried about the kids who had miserable family lives, except to be glad it wasn't me.

I was the girl with "nice parents"—until recently. Our house used to be full of fun. Then the bubble broke. My parents started fighting and seeming to hate each other.

My life has been miserable ever since. Sometimes it gets so bad I can't stand hearing them. So I lay on the bed, close my ears and cry.

It's too late to do anything about my family, but I'm only sorry I didn't care more when I read those other letters. I hope everyone who reads this thinks how it would be in a house where two people hate each other. They can't help me, but maybe if they think of it long enough, it won't happen to them.

SORRY LATER

DEAR SORRY:

I hope your parents read your letter—and feel more than a passing sympathy for the daughter they're hurting far worse than they hurt each other! Perhaps it might jar them into realizing that if things were good once, they can be again. A qualified counselor could probably show them the way.

H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm wild about this boy, and he says he loves me, but he can't get this other girl out of his mind. He comes to see me almost every day. But on the off days, he goes to see her. He's tried forgetting her but it doesn't work. He knew her before he knew me. I want him for myself alone. Shall I put my foot down, or kick him out?

UNLUCKY IN LOVE

DEAR UIL:

Neither. You're not married or engaged, remember? And half a guy is better than none.

H.

DEAR HELEN:

I thought of a "quicky" to tell a fresh boy if he wants to know your measurements: Say, "36-24-36—13—The last is my arm measurement around the muscle!"

HELPER

DEAR HELEN:

What do you say to a boy who wants to help you put on your nylons?

SARA

DEAR SARA:

Tell him, 'That's a 'no-no'!"

H.

DEAR HELEN:

We have a friend who tells the wildest lies. In one day her boyfriend aged from 15 to 23. Then a few days later she broke up with him, and gave back all his presents, "thousands of dollars worth." At that time he was 21.

She bought a ring at the fair but showed it around as a genuine diamond costing $500. What makes her lie?

NON-BELIEVERS

DEAR NON:

She probably has such a poor opinion of herself that she tries to be somebody else and succeeds in getting ridiculed. A counselor could help her discover her own worth. You kids could also if you'd stop leading her on and try to understand.

H.

Social Problems For Senator From Maine

Senator Margaret Chase Smith complains that being a woman senator brings more social than political problems.

"This does not stem from being a woman; it stems from being a widow without a husband to be my escort to official social affairs," the Maine Republican said in a magazine article:

"For example, while the White House always invites a senator's wife when inviting him to dinner, as an unmarried woman senator I am never accorded the courtesy of having an escort invited to accompany me."

Senator Smith noted, "The only exception to this procedure was during the time President and Mrs. Kennedy occupied the White House. They were thoughtful enough to include in their invitation any escort of my own choosing."

She revealed that having an escort to White House affairs means more than just the feeling of ease and security of being accompanied by a man. It is also a much safer feeling to have an escort when leaving the White House late in the evening, in view of the extent of crime in the streets of Washington.

As one of the nation's few congresswomen, Senator Smith admitted to some comical, if awkward situations.

"Several years ago, when I was a member of the House of Representatives, I received an invitation to the VFW's Salute to Members of Congress Banquet. About a week later, I received a letter of apology withdrawing the invitation because the banquet was strictly stag."

"Fortunately," Senator Smith recalls, "the VFW later abolished this policy of discriminating against women members of Congress."

Good Buys This Week On Poultry, Meat, Fresh Fruits, Vegetables

WASHINGTON (UPI) — USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service reports that meat and poultry, a growing list of fresh vegetables, and some fresh fruit are in good supply in food stores and supermarkets for weekend shoppers.

BROILER-FRYER chickens and turkeys head the list as being the most abundant meats. Beef roasts and steaks and ground beef are all in the abundant class in most areas. Pork items in best supply are pork roasts and smoked picnics, followed by bacon, chops, and ham. Fish fillets and steaks and fish sticks and portions are fish buys to watch for, according to the U.S. Department of the Interior.

Green beans, cabbage, corn, cucumbers, lettuce, onions, and potatoes should be abundantly available in all areas. Watermelons should be, too, in most areas, and peaches and strawberries in some areas.

IN THE WEST:

Prices are higher this week in all West Coast markets on fresh pork cuts, especially loins which are now up in Portland and in California. Sliced bacon has dropped in San Francisco, and smoked hams are down in the Bay area and in Los Angeles.

Wholesale cuts of beef are generally steady to somewhat higher in all markets; changes include a rise on loins in Portland and an increase in ribs around Los Angeles.

Spring lamb has moved up in San Francisco.

Fruits in best supply are apples, bananas, grapefruit, oranges, and strawberries.

Fish and sea food items that should be abundant in the West are dover sole, salmon steaks, canned tuna, rockfish fillets, halibut steaks, ocean perch fillets, and oysters.

Sophistication

Little girls are knowledgeable when it comes to fashion and designers cater to this know-how with styles that have real sophistication. Cottons that interpret the new silhouettes include canvas, printed in bright stripes and dots, flower-printed faille, pique and checked gingham. In a party mood is a lightweight leno cotton used for a raised waistline dress with its sash tied high and trimmed with ruffles.

Worldwide Standards For Foods

Someday the consumer in any part of the world will be assured that major food items he buys will be safe, sound, wholesome and properly labeled.

During the fifth general session of the United Nations in February the Codex Alimentarus (food code) commission completed its work on proposed standards of identity for 11 major food items.

If enough participating nations accept the standards, they will be adopted and published by the commission.

The United States, a member of the commission, would not accept the Codex standard for a certain food unless it paralleled an existing standard of quality, identity and composition. The standard would be reconciled with the existing standards of the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture or the Food and Drug Administration, or partially accepted or totally rejected by the U.S., the Dept. of Agriculture reports.

The Codex standard for a certain food would likewise be accepted or rejected by other member countries as well.

The idea is to have worldwide standards for naming all ingredients, additives and hygiene during processing.

Foods now having standards developed include canned tomatoes, canned green and wax beans, peaches, applesauce, grapefruit, sweet corn, five types of sugar including glucose syrup and lactose, fruit juices, cocoa products, chocolate, fats and oils, fish and fish products, meat and meat products, frozen foods, milk and milk products.

When enough countries accept the standards, trading among the nations would be simplified, since each will be buying and selling the same basic product, although they won't necessarily taste the same.

STRIKE SETTLED — Actress Dale Brown, who had been in a road company show until the Actors' Equity strike, is back among the working class today. The three-day halt of shows at 19 Broadway theaters and of nine road companies was settled early today.

Lindsay Irons Out Pact; Broadway Lights On Tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay announced today a settlement of the three-day strike by Actors Equity that darkened 19 Broadway theaters and nine road company shows.

After meeting through the night at Gracie Mansion with negotiators for the union and the League of New York Theaters Lindsay said at 6 a.m.: "Performances in the Broadway theaters will be resumed tonight."

NEW CONTRACT

Lindsay, appearing drawn after the long night's ordeal, said the contract will run for three years and calls for wage rates of $145 a week the first year, $150 the second and $155 the last year.

Appearing with Lindsay at the news conference were Angus Duncan, executive director of the union, and producer David Merrick, spokesman for the theater group.

Duncan said the contract had been approved by the Equity council and would be explained to the membership this afternoon but said no ratification vote was needed to open the theaters tonight.

Merrick said it was "very likely there would be a rise in theater prices," but said he did not know how much of an increase would be needed.

'ALIEN ACTORS'

Lindsay, who summoned both sides to meet him after the union urged him to intervene, said "satisfactory agreement was reached concerning the use of alien actors"—another major issue in the strike.

The union had been seeking a two-and-one-half year pact with a minimum weekly wage of $200 as well as guarantees against hiring foreign actors to displace Equity members from roles.

The league had offered a $165 minimum for a four-year contract but had refused to offer concessions on the alien actor issue. Duncan said the new pact offered protection on the alien actor issue and provided for a third-party mediator to handle hiring disputes.

BUSINESS SLUMP

The strike which stemmed a $1 million-a-week flow in box office receipts also caused a general slump in the bar, restaurant and taxi business throughout the theatrical district.

Not affected by the walkout were the off Broadway shows which reported booming business.

Three Broadway shows—"I Do! I Do!" "How Now, Dow Jones" and "Joe Egg"—closed permanently during the strike which affected 800 performers and more than 4,000 stagehands, musicians, electricians and other non-acting personnel.

Business Firms Leaving City

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Some 100 business firms leave San Francisco every year, and Mayor Joseph L. Alioto's proposed $25 million gross receipts tax is liable to spur the trend says economist David Bradwell.

Speaking for the Greater San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, Bradwell said yesterday that the levy must be reduced to $17 million.

He told the board of supervisors finance committee that the departure of businesses is "not a flight, but a steady drain of corporate citizens."

Bradwell declared that attempting to raise $25 million with the business tax "is in excess of what is safe and would erode the business community."

Sonoma-Marin Fair Dates Set

The Sonoma-Marin Fair, billed as the largest junior agricultural fair in Northern California, will run from June 27 through June 30 at the Petaluma fairgrounds.

Feature event of the fair will be a parade, with floats, horses, bands and antique cars, through downtown Petaluma to the fairgrounds June 30.

There will be entertainment at 8:30 p.m. each day at the Gardenway Theater at the fairgrounds. Featured entertainer June 29 will be Pat Buttram of the television show Green Acres.

Forced Landing

DEARING, Ga. (AP) — A Navy helicopter carrying 10 persons made a forced landing in a wooded area last night after a power failure, officials said. No one was injured. The helicopter was not damaged in the landing, which occurred on a flight from Allison Naval Air Station at Pensacola, Fla., to Shaw Air Force base near Columbia, .C.

New Nicotine Scale Released On Cigarettes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government's second batch of cigarette tests rates Marvels still the lowest in nicotine and tar content.

The Federal Trade Commission said nonfiltered Raleighs still had the most nicotine content, but that four brands—Brandons, English Ovals, Fatimas and Bull Durham—moved ahead of Chesterfields as leaders in tar content.

The first test of 59 of the most popular brands was completed last year. The second report yesterday concerned 68 of the less popular brands. Both test series were made with automatic smoking machines.

Surgeon General William H. Stewart told Congress last summer "there is evidence that tar —the general term for smoked solids minus moisture —is many times more potent in its cancer producing properties than any of the substances isolated from it."

The 1964 report showed that tars extracted from cigarette smoke regularly induced skin cancer in mice and that cigarette smoke impaired the cleansing mechanism of the bronchial tract.

The cigarettes tested by FTC were ranked according to type, package and length as smoked to a butt-length of 23 millimeters or to the length of filter and overwrap plus 3mm if this was in excess of 23mm.

Marvels, equipped with filters and sold in a soft pack at a length of 70mm, had a tar content of 3.9 milligrams and .12 mg of nicotine.

Nonfiltered Raleighs sold in the soft pack at a length of 85mm had 27.8 mg of tar and 1.98 mg of nicotine.

'Mame' Will Reopen Tonight As Actor's Strike Is Settled

By GARY TISCHLER

(Editor's Note: "Mame," the hit musical at the Curran Theater in San Francisco will resume tonight with settlement of the Actor's Equity strike. The following column was written yesterday, prior to this morning's word from New York. See strike story also on this page.)

Big Black, the king of the African Kong Drum, will be in concert at Berkeley's Hertz Hall tomorrow at 8:30 p.m.

Lola Montez and her Spanish Dancers will be in the 30th Anniversary Midsummer Music Festival at Stern Grove at 2 p.m. Sunday.

A five-evening jazz festival covering Dixieland through Avant Garde will be held at the Both/And Club as part of the Rolling Renaissance, the underground festival of the arts, Monday through June 29.

The Andy Williams Show, featuring Andy Williams, Peter Nero and the Osmond Brothers, will be presented at the Civic Auditorium in two performances Wednesday at 6:30 and 9:30 p.m.

Indrani, a festival of Indian dance, drama and music, will be at the Nourse Auditorium tomorrow and Saturday at 8:30 p.m., featuring the Dancers of India.

Sunday Parade To Climax West Marin Junior Show

A 120-unit parade, including marching bands, drill teams, clowns, horses, antique cars and floats, will mark the 19th annual West Marin Junior Livestock Show in Point Reyes Station Sunday.

The parade, beginning at noon, will last one and one-half hours as it marches down the main street of the West Marin community, according to parade chairman William Thomson of Inverness.

A public barbecue, held at the Red Barn, will immediately follow the parade, Thomson said.

Nine bands and drum corps will provide the beat for the marchers. They include the 12th Naval District Band from Treasure Island, the state champion Blue Devils Drum Corps from Concord, the St. Mary's Chinese Girls Band from San Francisco and the 50-piece Las Gallinas Sanitary District Non-Marching Band.

The livestock show, a three-day event, will open at 7:30 a.m. tomorrow with a showing of exhibits in Foresters Hall.

A livestock showmanship contest will start at 1 p.m. Saturday with young owners showing their animals. The show and judging will be at the Lions Club building and adjoining land at the north side of Point Reyes Station.

Other events include a 4-H fashion show, exhibits of horse showmanship, food preparation, electricity, vegetables, flowers, forestry and agricultural mechanics.

Mariani Elected President Of Firemen's Group

Kentfield Fireman Robert Mariani has been elected president of the newly organized Marin Chapter of the Professional Fire Fighters Local 1775, AFL-CIO.

He was elected at a meeting last week after Edward Parnell of Tiburon, temporary president, resigned, according to Ralph Craven of Marinwood.

Mariani had been temporary vice president and that post will be filled at a later meeting, Craven said.

Walter Pardee of San Anselmo is second vice president and Craven is secretary-treasurer.

In other business at the first formal meeting, members agreed on a $1,000 group life insurance policy for all active members.

The Marin chapter was organized at meetings on May 9 and 10 and was recognized on June 1. Craven said members of the union, which now total 20, will work to level disparities in pay, benefits and working conditions for firemen throughout the county.

VANDALS DEFACE RAILING

Motorists entering Mount Tamalpais State Park from Stinson Beach on Panoramic Highway find this message painted on a guard rail: "Kill all cops, priests, nuns, judges, generals, politicians, capitalists, racists." Park Ranger George E. Holmboe said this is the first vandalism of this type reported this year, although other damage attributed to youths has led to plans to close the state park at night. Some painting of signs on redwood trees has also been reported.

Tour Boat Landing Dock Wins Approval

A landing dock for Harbor Carriers, Inc., tour boat operators, in downtown Sausalito was approved by the Sausalito Planning Commission last night.

The dock will be located on Madden and Lewis property directly north of the Spinnaker restaurant on the sandspit, commission secretary Miriam Ansell reported.

A use permit for the landing was granted with several conditions including: The right of the city to review the operation at any time; requirements that the company must furnish data to the city on the number of passengers and trips to Sausalito, when requested, and that it must notify the city at any time if the number of trips is to be increased.

Also no advertising signs allowed but a landing sign will be permitted; plans for the floats and docks are to be approved by the architectural advisory board and the city engineer, and no loud speakers or amplification systems for the operation will be allowed without an application to the city.

Attorney Hugh G. Lawrence, representing Harbor Carriers, told the commission the company plans to operate one boat a day at the landing for three months only, mid-June through mid-September. The tour boat will arrive in Sausalito at 11:15 a.m. daily from San Francisco and leave at 4 p.m. Lawrence said.

A variance application for the same operation was withdrawn after City Atty. Lee Jordan ruled the city must approve the operation because it was a common carrier approved by the state Public Utilities Commission. The city can only regulate the location of the landing dock, Jordan said.

Later in the evening, the commissioners agreed to recommend that the city council amend the zoning ordinance to allow transportation facilities as a conditionally permitted use in all zoning districts.

The Sausalito Planning Commission also:

DENIAL — Denied a conditional use permit application by Robert Winkelmann for an automobile repair garage at 200 Caledonia Street.

ENCROACHMENT — Agreed to recommend that the city council approve an awning encroachment for Afro-Asian Gifts, 686 Bridgeway, with the requirement that it be a minimum of seven feet above the sidewalk.

Tax Lien Halted; Holiday Magic Pays

A federal tax lien filed against Holiday Magic, Inc. of San Rafael for failure to pay $197,768 in 1967 corporation income taxes has been withdrawn with payment of the amount due.

C. S. Chapin, U.S. Internal Revenue officer in San Rafael filed the lien with the Marin County Recorder's office. Withdrawal of the lien on payment of the taxes was recorded last Thursday.

Supervisors Retain Court, Clash Over Coroner's Budget Cutting

and Gnoss argued that since other departments like the veterans service office were refused added employees, the coroner should get by with a total staff of five.

When Storer started to run down the coroner's budget item by item and suggesting cuts down the line, Kettenhofen flared: "All five of us will vote. You're not going down the list and tell us what to cut." "As long as I'm sitting up here, Buster, I'm going to express my views," stormed Storer.

"Don't Buster me," replied Kettenhofen.

The supervisors approved the coroner's budget of $75,900, lower than the $81,470 recommended by the administrator. This year's budget is $60,708. The public administrator's portion of the coroner's budget was approved as recommended — $22,870. This year's budget is $15,873.

Superior Court — Judge Joseph G. Wilson fought for and won $2,600 for law books for the judges but failed to induce the supervisors to go for new furniture for the judges chambers and ante-rooms in the new hall of justice. "This borders on the penurious," said judge Wilson. The superior Court budget approved was $181,873, higher than the $179,273 recommended by the administrator.

Municipal Court — Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. and court clerk Edna Lemke fought for and won two added clerical employees on a 3 to 2 vote, but they also lost the fight for new furniture. They said the clerks process a million dollars of public funds per year, and the present backlog is such that about $35,000 remains unprocessed.

Both Storer and McInnis agreed that a case had been made for one added employee but they refused to go for two. The other three voted for the two new clerks.

In the fight for new furniture, Judge Goldstein charged that the judges are being treated as "second class citizens" by being asked to use old furniture in the brand new hall of justice. The judge asked the supervisors to visit the courts and see if they would furnish their private offices or offices in the civic center with the same type of furniture.

Gnoss agreed that the new furniture appropriate for the hall of justice should be installed, but the others refused to go along.

Recovered Car Stolen Again

Now you have it; now you don't.

That was the story today of a stolen car, according to Novato police.

Officer Richard A. Longshore at 2:08 a.m. found a car at the Lu Sutton School at 1800 Center Road, Novato, which had been stolen on June 15 from San Francisco. The car belonged to James R. Hill of San Mateo, according to police.

Anthony James Valim, part-time employee of Nave's Garage, towed the car to the garage, but failed to put it inside the locked area.

Later this morning when police went to check the car, they found that it had been stolen again.

A Neutral Pueblo Plan Reported

SEOUL (AP) — A South Korean news agency said today that the United States has proposed to North Korea that the Pueblo crew be turned over to neutral nations for an investigation to determine whether they violated North Korean waters.

The Dongwha news agency quoted diplomatic sources as saying that the United States wants the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission in Korea to conduct the investigation.

U.S. authorities would not confirm the report. In Washington, State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey said yesterday that the United States made "certain proposals" to North Korea concerning the captured intelligence ship and her crew on May 28, but so far North Korea has not responded.

The Dongwha report said the United States also told North Korea it would express "regrets" to the Communist government if the investigation by neutral nations proved that the Pueblo violated North Korean waters.

Guilty Verdict To Burglary

Robert Henry Gonzales, 18, was convicted by a Marin Superior Court jury yesterday of burglary of a building at 17 Canyon Oak Drive, San Rafael.

The jury deliberated only two hours. Judge Samuel W. Gardiner scheduled judgment for 10 a.m. July 10.

Gonzales, of 757 Kerner Street, San Rafael, burgled a building occupied by Barbara Larkey on Sept. 2. Deputy Dist. Atty. Gary Thomas prosecuted the trial. Gonzales was defended by Robert I. Conn, deputy public defender.

A co-defendant, Brooks Liggatt, 18, of San Jose, was certified to juvenile court as a minor.

START OF A LONG SUMMER—Mrs. Catherine Broadway, who completed 25 years of teaching last week, is starting her last summer-long vacation. After the quarter century of teaching elementary school children, mostly in San Rafael, Mrs. Broadway has retired to travel, fish and cultivate her garden. (Independent-Journal photo)

TEACHER REFLECTS

First Graders All 'Sweet Characters'

Members of the over-30 generation might do well to talk with Catherine Broadway before they begin complaining about the evils of the younger generation.

Mrs. Broadway, who is enjoying her first week of retirement after 25 years of teaching Marin's children, sees little real difference between this generation and its predecessor.

"The children haven't changed that much. They've always been sweet little characters," said Mrs. Broadway, who began teaching in 1942 with Tomales School's class of kindergarten through eighth grade youngsters.

She moved the next year to Short School in San Rafael. She also taught in Coleman and Laurel Dell Intermediate in San Rafael's city schools system, but spent most of her years with the first graders at Short School.

Children today are more mature and easier to teach than they were a quarter century ago, Mrs. Broadway said, "but of course they have so much more now, with television and school books that are much more up to date and interesting."

As a first grade school teacher, one of her basic tasks has been to give San Rafael's children their first lessons in reading.

"It's easier today to teach them how to read. We have so many helpful devices. Of course, you can't tell that to a beginning teacher," she said.

Things which make first year reading easier include film texts written for readers and "even better pictures in the books," she said.

Mrs. Broadway, 48, and her husband, Arthur, who is also retired, have built a retirement home on Lake Copca in Siskiyou County. They plan to move there from their home at 62 Wood Street, San Rafael.

"We're great fishermen, you know. We have a house trailer and we're going to travel. We're going to tour the United States and we're just going to enjoy ourselves."

Edward Rousseau To Head Legion

Edward A. Rousseau of 929 Patricia Way, San Rafael, will be installed as commander of Wilkins Post 37 of the American Legion during ceremonies June 29 at the social hall of Blessed Sacrament Church in Santa Venetia.

Others to be installed are Bruce Porter, first vice commander; Yves Langlamet, second vice commander and historian; R. H. Miehling, chaplain; Roy F. N. Brown, sergeant-at-arms; Lily Whittle, judge advocate; John Sandretto, service officer; Frank Swift Jr., adjutant.

Hardcastle Suggests Novatan As Successor

Thomas D. Hardcastle, who last week announced he will resign from his directorship on the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District, today said he will recommend former Novato City Councilman William Jack Adams as his successor.

Hardcastle said he will resign in about one month, and will make his recommendation to the Marin County Board of Supervisors. The supervisors appoint Marin's two representatives to the 14,member bridge board.

"I should be replaced by a commuter," Hardcastle told the Independent-Journal. "Adams is not only a commuter, but he has proven himself as a public servant both in his position as a Novato city councilman and as a member of the Marin County Transit District," said Hardcastle, also a Novato resident.

"Adams' views are parallel to mine," said Hardcastle, a strong advocate of improved public transportation.

Hardcastle, a director since 1962, resigned because of the pressure of business.

Adams, 38, is an executive with a San Francisco insurance firm.

Fatal Sierra Collision Injures Tiburon Woman

A Tiburon woman was critically injured yesterday in a three-car pileup on Interstate 80 near Auburn in which two other women were killed.

Susan Cannistraci, 39, of 710 Hilary Drive, was reported in poor condition today in Pacer General Hospital in Auburn. The hospital declined to reveal the extent of her injuries.

The victims were identified by the California Highway Patrol and Placer County sheriff's deputies as Duena Pounds of Fairfield, driver of one car, and her passenger, Judith Owens, 19, of Sacramento.

Also injured in the crash were members of an Ojai family, Gene Kirby, 34; his wife, Leona; their daughter, Lauri, 13, and their son, William, 7. The patrol said the Kirby children were in critical condition at a hospital.

Patrolmen said Duena Pounds lost control of her sedan and it crossed the road divider and struck the eastbound Cannistraci car head-on. Kirby's automobile, towing a house trailer, rammed the Pound vehicle, patrolman reported.

Car Theft Case Charge Dropped, But Not Checks

No petty theft charge will be filed against Robert B. Lane, 27, in the alleged theft of a car Sept. 23, Deputy Dist. Atty. Robert K. Birkie said yesterday in Marin Municipal Court.

Lane, of Mill Valley, was accused of grand theft by purchasing a car in San Rafael with a $418 worthless check, but Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. on June 12 found insufficient evidence to hold him following a preliminary hearing.

The magistrate held that there was sufficient evidence, however, to file a reduced charge of petty theft.

Birkie said investigation disclosed the car's value was only about $60. He said because of this and since Lane also is accused of two felony counts of passing worthless checks, the lesser charge will not be made.

Lane is scheduled for plea entry at 9:30 a.m. Monday in Marin Superior Court on the felony counts.

Innocent Plea To Concealing Property

Innocent plea by Roger Wayne Ploof, 18, to a charge of concealing stolen property was entered in Marin Municipal Court yesterday.

Preliminary hearing was scheduled for 9:30 a.m. Tuesday. Ploof, of San Rafael, is accused of having items stolen from Thomas Bronson of 138 Redwood Road, Fairfax, in his possession on May 27.

Panel Will Seek Street Policies

Belvedere Parks and Recreation Commission last night decided to make three requests of the city council in line with the commission's policy to press for better upkeep of city streets and lanes.

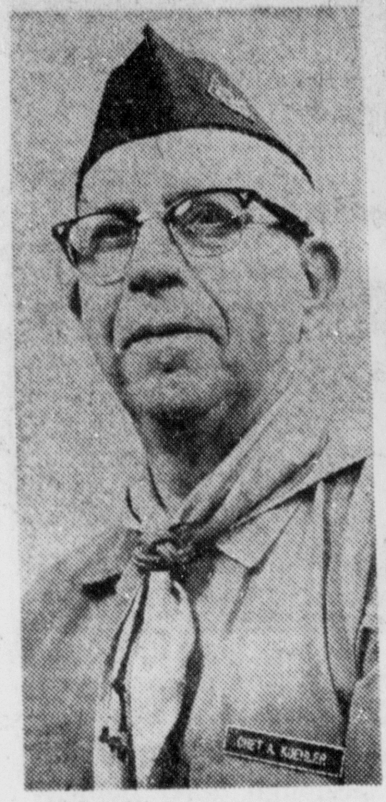
Commissioners will ask the city to write to residents, requesting that they trim unsightly weeds and shrubs encroaching on the sidewalk, which are "a menace to pedestrians and drivers," according to Mrs. Walter H. Buchen, secretary.

The council will be asked to refer all proposed replacements or new construction of walking lanes to the commission for review; also to allocate $1,000 this year to contract with the San Francisco architectural firm of Osborne and Stewart to draw up a master plan for Belvedere's parks, lanes and tidelands, Mrs. Buchen said.

EXECUTIVE RETIRES

Nearly 40 Years As Scout Leader

By GLENN BECKER



CHESTER A. KOEHLER
Ends long scouting career

It figures that a career as a Boy Scout executive that began in the stockyards of Chicago would turn out to be somewhat extraordinary.

That was where Chester A. (Chet) Koehler of San Rafael took charge of his first Boy Scout troops, and when he retired June 1 as executive of the Marin Scout Council's Miwok District, he had indeed fashioned a notable career in scouting. It had taken him to Los Angeles, San Francisco, Palo Alto and Flagstaff, Ariz., before he came to the Marin Council in 1964.

The actual beginning of Koehler's career as a Boy Scout was more conventional than his launching as an executive while in those smelly old stockyards.

"My parents belonged to the First Presbyterian Church in Burlington (Iowa), where I was born, and their parents belonged to it before them," recalls Koehler.

"They had a scout troop, Troop 12, and when I was 12 years old I joined this great troop. That day I went down and bought my first scout uniform for $7.50.

"I remember it as though it were yesterday. That was May 26, 1915."

"I remember it as though it were yesterday. That was May 26, 1915."

He left home after graduating from high school and eventually entered the Northwestern University School of Commerce in Evanston, Ill., north of Chicago. Working part time and studying part time, he was graduated in 1929.

He then took a job with Armour and Co. at the stockyards. He was in the personnel department and recalls, "You started at the bottom in those days."

After two years with Armour he moved to a new job with a securities firm, but he had already taken the plunge into scouting from which he would not emerge for nearly 40 years.

He had become scoutmaster of two troops in the stockyards sponsored by the Armour post of the American Legion. The troops were composed of boys who worked in the stock yards when they were not in school, a total of about 125.

Koehler was scoutmaster for five years when leaders in the scouting office in Chicago, impressed with his enthusiastic work with the stockyard troops, asked him to become a full-time professional.

"I capitulated," he said yesterday with a smile.

He became an assistant district executive in the Northwest District of Chicago, which served about 5,000 boys.

"It was the same thing as it is now," he says, "organization of new units, scouting activities, scout camping, training courses for scout leaders.

"Your job is to put on successful activities, raise money, recruit people into the program — all these things go into scouting. It is the same here in San Rafael."

Koehler's scouting work in Chicago brought him together at one time or another with the founders of scouting in England, Lord Baden-Powell, and in America, James E. West. His experience includes several years as senior scout executive in Chicago, in charge of Explorer, Sea Scout and Air Scout programs for boys aged 14-17.

In 1946, "I thought it was time to make a change. I made application for transfer to the Los Angeles staff and became assistant scout executive and activities director for the L.A. council."

He moved to San Francisco in 1948 and then to Palo Alto before a siege of bad health sent him to Arizona in 1961. He continued to help operate Boy Scout programs wherever he went, and in 1964 he rejoined an old friend from the Los Angeles council, Paul (Torchy) Dunn. Dunn had become chief scout executive of the Marin council; he remained in that post until he returned to the Los Angeles council in 1967.

Looking back on this long hike down the scouting trail, Koehler says, "I feel particularly fortunate to close my scouting career here in the Marin council, where you have a high caliber of leaders."

Now he is embarking on a new career of promotional work for the Marin Shakespeare Festival. This may seem equidistant from the stockyards and the Boy Scouts, and eons away from both; but Chet Koehler gives the impression he is prepared for it.

Marin Windfall Brings $142,725 Sales Tax Share

Marin County and its 11 incorporated communities have received a total of $142,725 as their share of the local sales tax from the state Board of Equalization.

The payments were explained by state board member Paul R. Leake as a "one time windfall that falls within the 1967-68 fiscal year and starts a new, earlier schedule of local tax payments to local governments which contract with the state board for their collection."

The largest payment of $65,000 was received by San Rafael, with Marin County itself in second place at $20,000. Corte Madera received $13,000, Novato $11,500, Sausalito $11,000, Mill Valley $6,000, San Anselmo $5,750, Larkspur $4,250, Fairfax $3,000, Tiburon $2,750, Belvedere $250 and Ross $225.

Sales tax payments throughout the state totaled $19.2 million.

Two Fined For Drunken Driving

Two men were fined in Marin Municipal Court yesterday for drunken driving.

Richard Warrington Newell, 51, of 211 South Ridgewood Road, Kentfield, was fined $345 and placed on a year's probation. California Highway Patrol arrested him on Highway 101 April 23.

Murder Trial Secrecy Left Undecided

The California Supreme Court yesterday declined to comment on a District Court of Appeal ruling against a judge who barred the public from a murder trial in Ventura County.

Clinger and Judge Lewis had petitioned the Supreme Court for a hearing on the decision by the Second District Court of Appeal.

The Supreme Court justices yesterday granted the petition, transferred the case to their court, then dismissed the proceedings as moot.

Effect of the court's action was to avoid appearing to take any stand on the issue. The justices could not have declared the issue moot unless it was before them. If they had simply denied the petition, they might have appeared to be upholding the lower court's decision.

The District Court of Appeal, in its decision, criticized Judge Lewis, saying:

"In effect, the court, in seeking the ideal solution to the problem of trial publicity jettisoned important safeguards of California law by conducting what amounted to a Star Chamber proceeding. . . ."

Chamber Will Seek Bus Stop At Gate Six

The Sausalito Chamber of Commerce Tuesday agreed to work for a bus stop at Gate Six in front of the Sausalito Bait and Tackle Shop, Frank Klineman, president, reported.

Klineman said he will write to the state Public Utilities Commission and Western Greyhound requesting the additional stop.

Nominated as officers for 1968-69 were Ray Roy, owner of the Bath and Boutique Shop in the Village Fair, president; George J. Elkington Jr., contractor, vice president; Clifford E. Christison, Wells Fargo Bank manager, treasurer, and Sandy Healey, secretary.

Ballots will be mailed to members within the next month, Klineman said.

The next chamber meeting will be at noon, July 16, at the Alta Mira Hotel.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Many New Amplified Aids Now Helpful To Hard-Of-Hearing

VAN DELLEN

Many aids help the hard-of-hearing overcome some everyday problems. These individuals are at a disadvantage when using the phone, viewing television, and listening for an alarm clock.

Dr. Richard L. Hughes of the Los Angeles Foundation of Otology recently described a collection of these devices in Modern Medicine.

An amplified phone has a dial in the handset that can be adjusted to increase the intensity of an incoming call. There also is a partable unit for the same purpose; it is pocket size, battery-operated, and can be clipped to any receiver. Telephone operators with impaired hearing can also be helped with a transistorized switchboard amplifier.

A flashing signal that a phone is ringing can be used by persons with severe hearing impairment. It is attached to an auxiliary control box that activates the visual signal. Beehive lamps are a variation of this. These small devices are placed on desk or table and also are popular among those who dislike the ringing of a telephone.

MOTHERS WITH young children may be interested in a sound-sensitive switch triggered by baby's cry. The unit is connected to lamps or vibrators that light or jiggle when the sound occurs. For those who need a loud signal, gongs or horns are available.

There are many devices to enhance television listening. Some deliver amplified sound through an earpiece. An induction loop system permits the person wearing a hearing aid to amplify sound. It is placed under the carpet or along the baseboard. Television pillows containing a coil that is attached to the loudspeaker also are available for persons who wear a hearing aid with a telephone switch.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.

MAGNESIA NIGHTCAP

J. C. writes: Is it harmful or habit-forming to take one to four magnesia tablets each evening?

REPLY

It is neither harmful nor habit-forming provided these tablets do not lead to irritation or diarrhea. On the other hand, why is magnesia needed? I hope it is not being used to relieve the early symptoms of a serious disorder that is being missed because distress is controlled temporarily by a simple remedy.

NUMBER OF CAESAREANS

Mrs. G. writes: Is it true that women who have thad three children by caesarean section cannot have any more babies?

REPLY

This is the general rule, but many women have had more than three babies this way without difficulty. Whenever a child is born via caesarean section, the uterus is opened. The ensuing scar is a hazard, especially when the womb becomes greatly enlarged.

DISTORTED FACE

A reader writes: Why do some victims of Bell's palsy heal completely and others are left with a disfiguring droop?

REPLY

This is the nature of the disorder. Complete recovery occurs in 9 out of 10 cases. In the remainder, the nerve degenerates, leading to a residual paralysis of the facial muscles on the involved side.

MORNING ACHES

Mrs. L. Writes: Every morning I awaken with aching legs. After I am up for a few hours they are all right. I do a lot of walking. What could cause this?

REPLY

Rheumatism behaves like this. It usually is troublesome on arising, but discomfort lessens as the day goes by.

PSORIASIS ON SCALP

A reader writes: Can psoriasis affect the scalp and no other part of the body?

REPLY

Yes, and occasionally this is the only area of the body that is bothered.

REAGAN ASKS SOME CONTROL OF FIREARMS

SACRAMENTO (AP) Gov. Reagan says he favors any firearms control "that will make it more difficult for the wrong person to get a gun."

But the Republican governor told his news conference yesterday he opposes proposed laws, such as registration, that "simply will result in needless harrassment of the legitimate citizen."

Gov. Reagan Cut Down On Promises

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Participants in California's first "Poor People's March on Sacramento" took this word home today from Gov. Ronald Reagan: "We are going to stop escalating the promises."

The "marchers" came to the Capitol yesterday by car and bus primarily from the Central Valley farmlands and run-down areas of San Francisco and Oakland to demand jobs, better schools, more opportunity.

The demonstration was planned as part of a nationwide "day of solidarity" with the Poor People's March on Washington.

"We have done everything we can, but we are not going to make the kind of promises that you have been fed by government for the last eight years—promises that could not be kept," Reagan told about 500 demonstrators on the Capitol's west steps.

The Republican governor was interrupted several times by shouts and jeers.

Tax Relief Bill Shows New Life

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan's $155 million property tax relief bill—given up as dead by supporters—showed new signs of life today.

Under pressure from county supervisors backing the measure, the Senate Finance Committee finally scheduled a hearing for Tuesday. Spokesmen for the supervisors said they may have enough votes for approval.

But the Republican governor didn't appear optimistic. He blamed Democratic Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh for inserting amendments in the bill earlier in the year "that made it completely impossible and unacceptable."

"I think this has been a betrayal of the people," Reagan told his news conference yesterday.

The amendments to which Reagan referred, however, were removed from the bill by a Senate committee last week.

As it now stands, the measure is generally in the form the governor introduced it.

It would give $155 million to California's 58 counties, to be passed on to taxpayers in the form of local property tax cuts.

Auto Tour Set

Tamalpais Porsche Club of Marin County will start a wine country tour at 12:30 p.m. Saturday from Burge's Drive-In restaurant across from Hamilton Air Force Base. Porsche owners attending should bring a box lunch, according to Dr. John T. Korn, club president. The tour will end about 6 p.m. at the Golden Bear Lodge, Kenwood, with a smorgasbord dinner.

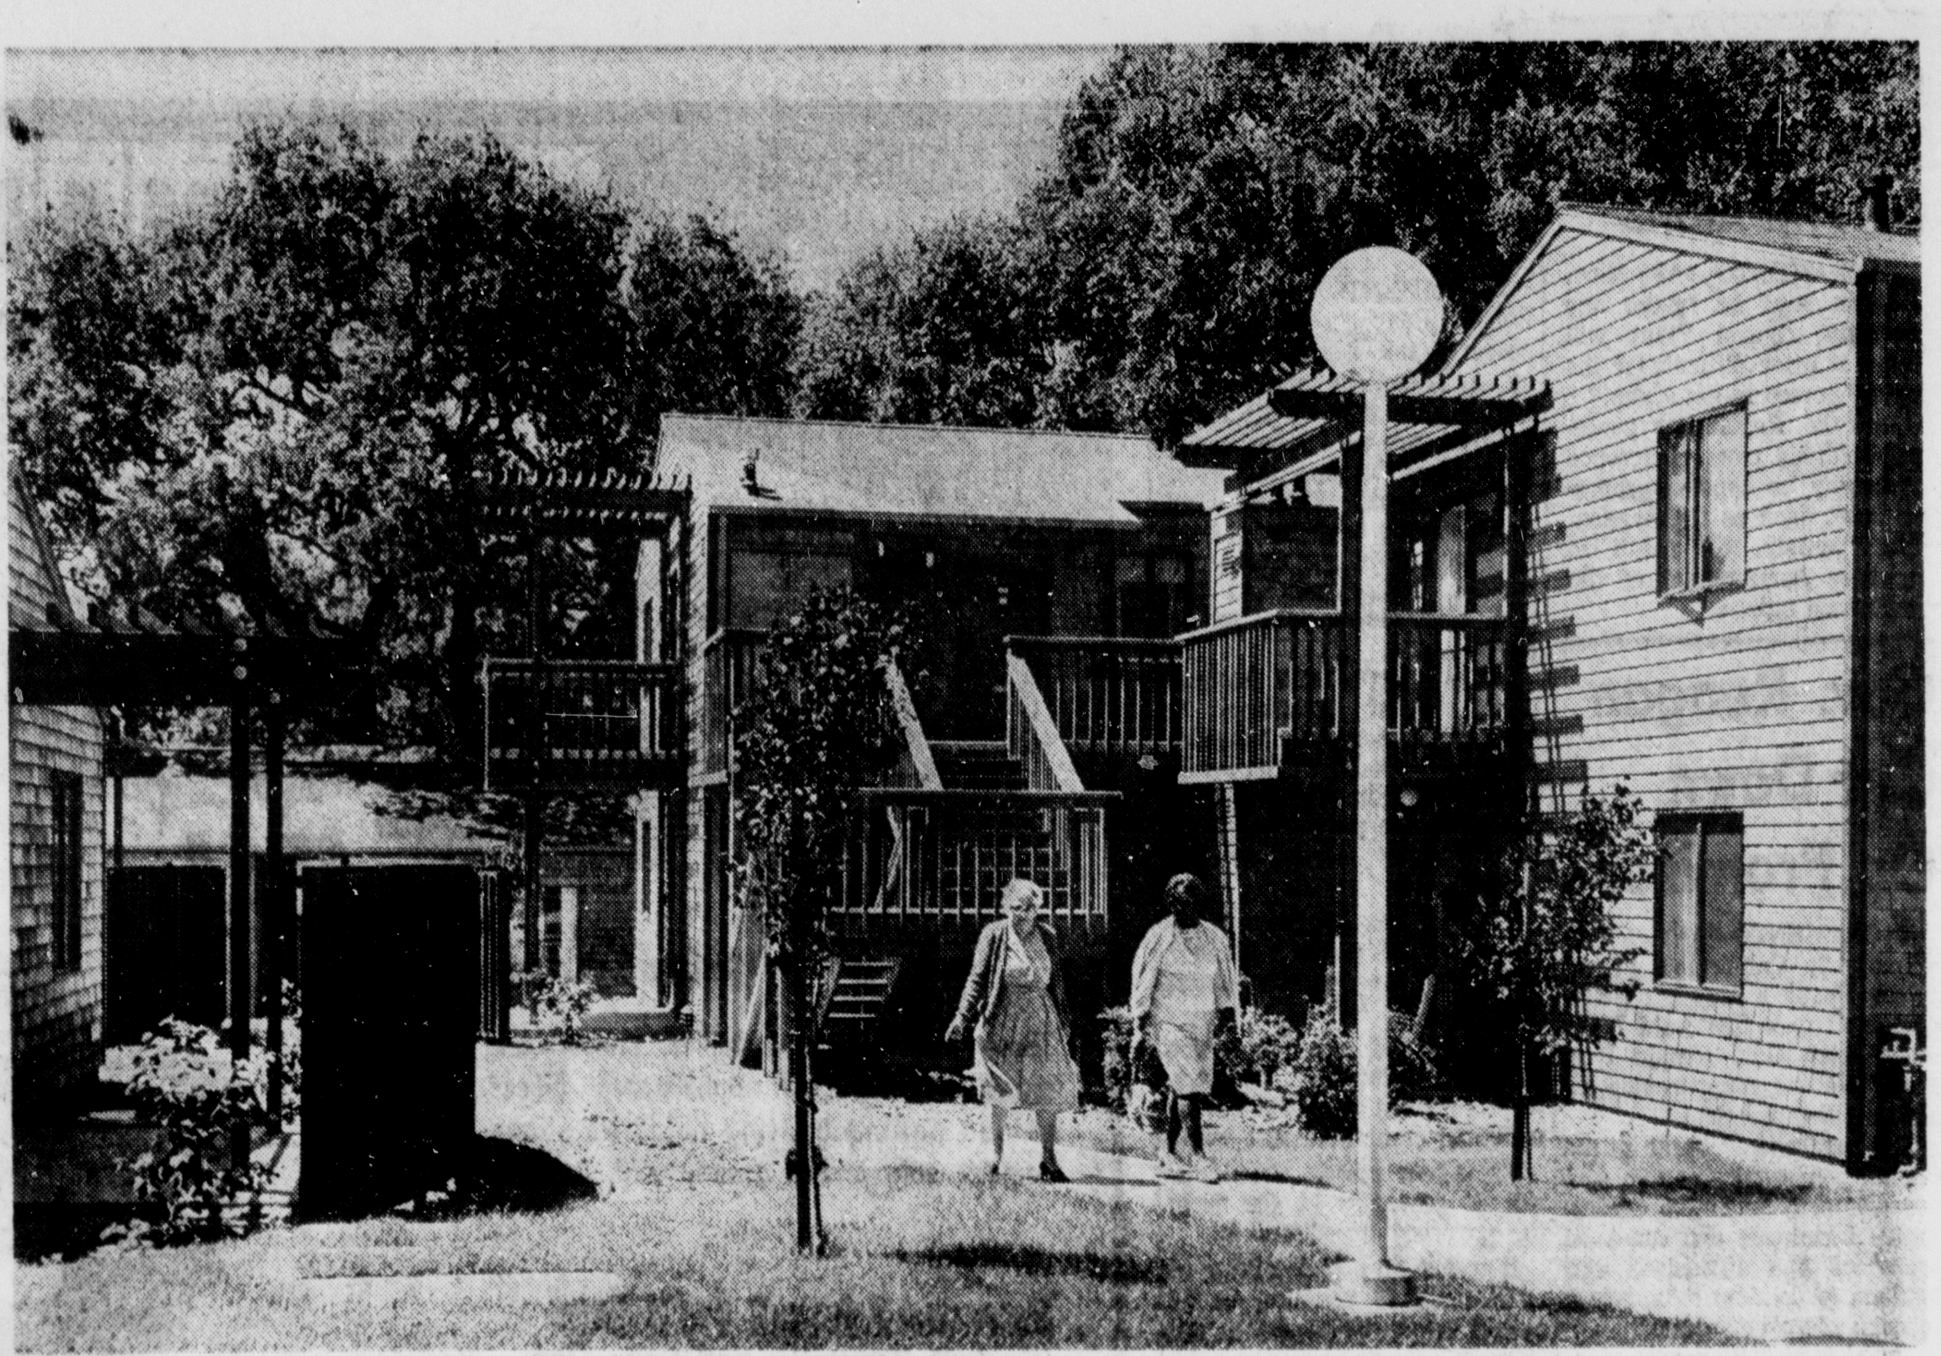
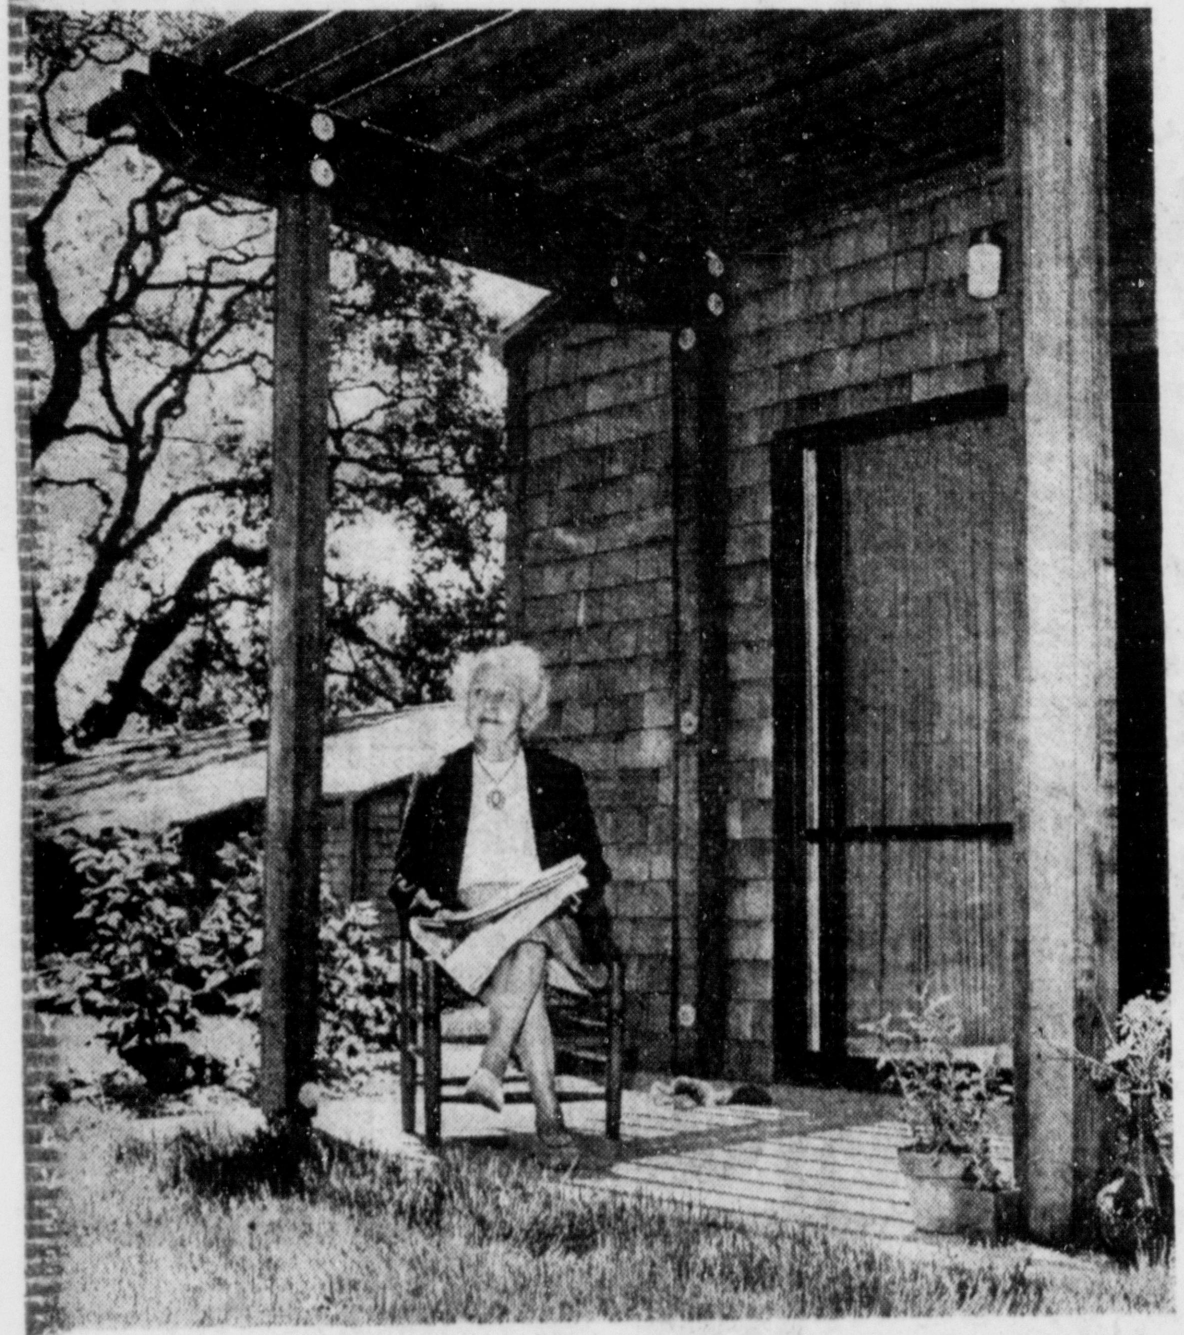
FIRST RESIDENT—Mrs. Evelyn P. Waldron plays with her dog as she sits on the front porch of her apartment in the Santa Venetia housing for the elderly. She was the first person to move in to the project when it opened this week. "I just didn't like it," she said of her former home in Fairfax. "Here I can watch everybody passing by."



LEISURELY WALK—Evelyn P. Waldron (left), resident of the new public housing project for the elderly in Santa Venetia, walks on the grounds with a friend, Cleo Simpson, Mrs. Waldron is proud that she was the project's first resident, having moved in June 1. "I was the first to pay rent and I got the first telephone," she said.



ON HER PATIO—Mrs. Muriel Burt looks up from her newspaper at the hills surrounding Santa Venetia housing for the elderly. If she couldn't live in the housing project, she said, her social security payments "would hardly be adequate."

New Homes A Haven For Elderly

Marin Housing Project Eases Budget Strains

By GLENN ANDERSON

Mrs. Evelyn P. Waldron, a retired postmaster from Oretech, near Klamath Falls, Ore., used to live in part of a private home in Fairfax at a rental of $75 per month, a sum she could barely afford.

Her financial problems were typical of approximately 20,000 Marin County residents over 60. More than half of them, in a study made for county supervisors three years ago, had an annual income of less than $5,000 and three-eighths of them received less than $3,000 yearly.

This month Mrs. Waldron was the first person to move into what is for Marin County a pioneer project — a modern 36-unit $590,000 housing project for the elderly, constructed with federal funds. Her rent is $31 per month.

Donald O. Stutsman, Marin County Housing Authority executive director, said the $590,000 for the Santa Venetia project was borrowed from the Housing Assistance Administration of the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The loan will be repaid, he said, by selling bonds which mature in 40 years. The bonds will in turn be paid off through annual federal grants made to the housing authority.

County voters approved the project in a 1964 referendum.

The residents pay 22 per cent of their gross yearly income or a minimum $29 per month rent, plus gas and electricity. They must have a gross annual income of less than $4,000 for a couple or $3,700 for single persons and cash assets of not more than $4,000.

Income from rent, Stutsman said, will pay the cost of operation, including payroll, utilities, maintenance, labor, insurance and payments to the county in lieu of property taxes. The excess, if any, will reduce the federal contribution to pay off the bonds.

The housing in Santa Venetia, the first project completed by the housing authority of a planned 200 units, represents an attempt to solve what is described as the most acute problem of the elderly in Marin County.

"Without a doubt the greatest number of requests for help we receive," said Edward T. Ryken, executive director of the Senior Citizens Coordinating Council, a non-profit private organization which aids elderly county residents, "is in the area of housing."

"When they retire," he said, their income is slashed in half. They can't maintain a big house any longer or pay the tremendous taxes."

The problem is especially difficult in Marin, according to Ryken. "There is less low cost housing here than elsewhere in the Bay Area," he said, "and the price tends to be higher. You are poorer than if you live in the core city and you're forced to pay more to be near shops and transportation."

Mrs. Waldron said she couldn't afford the $75 per month rent she paid in Fairfax and, like other residents, was enthusiastic about the Santa Venetia housing. "I just love it," she said, "it's marvelous."

A stroll with Mrs. Margery E. Prescott, manager of the senior citizens' housing, along a tree-shaded concrete walkway linking the 36 units, confirms the sense of urban comfort and rural charm.

All the buildings, including the 28 first-story and eight second-story apartment units, have rustic redwood exteriors and their own patios, offering views of surrounding hills, the housing project, a nearby school and of traffic on North San Pedro Road.

One climbs a stairway and into a spacious one-bedroom apartment, the walls freshly covered with white paint. There Timothy Kelly, who pays $54 per month for what is his first permanent home since retiring, has installed his own furniture, as all residents do, each apartment thus acquiring its own style.

Each of the 32 one-bedroom and four two-bedroom units contains a living room, a kitchen equipped with an electric range and refrigerator and a bathroom which has "grab bars" to lessen the likelihood of falls by residents.

Kelly said, "People don't realize we want to live in the community. Many of us have long lives before us." And, he said, "here we can afford to spend a little surplus on something besides rent."

He praised the way it is "easy to get acquainted" with other residents of the housing and "the little trails where you can stroll around."

Another resident of the project is Mrs. Hattie Mooring, a widow who formerly managed a San Francisco apartment building with her husband.

Before she moved to Santa Venetia, her home was a converted garage in a San Mateo home. She paid $70 per month for quarters equipped with a hot plate, sink and shower. "I wouldn't go back to that place ever," she said.

Mrs. Muriel Burt, a secretary employed at a Corte Madera insurance firm before she retired, is a former resident of the Hilarita housing project in Tiburon, built in 1941.

"This is really delightful," she said, "there is no comparison. The rent is about the same, but this is new and the surroundings are so nice."

The only difficulty the residents touched on was the problem of getting to shopping centers.

The council is exploring the possibility of bus service by a private firm, auto transportation by volunteers, or, if these fail, obtaining federal funds for bus service.

Ryken said, "We are all delighted with the project. The units are roomy, airy, well designed and well equipped."

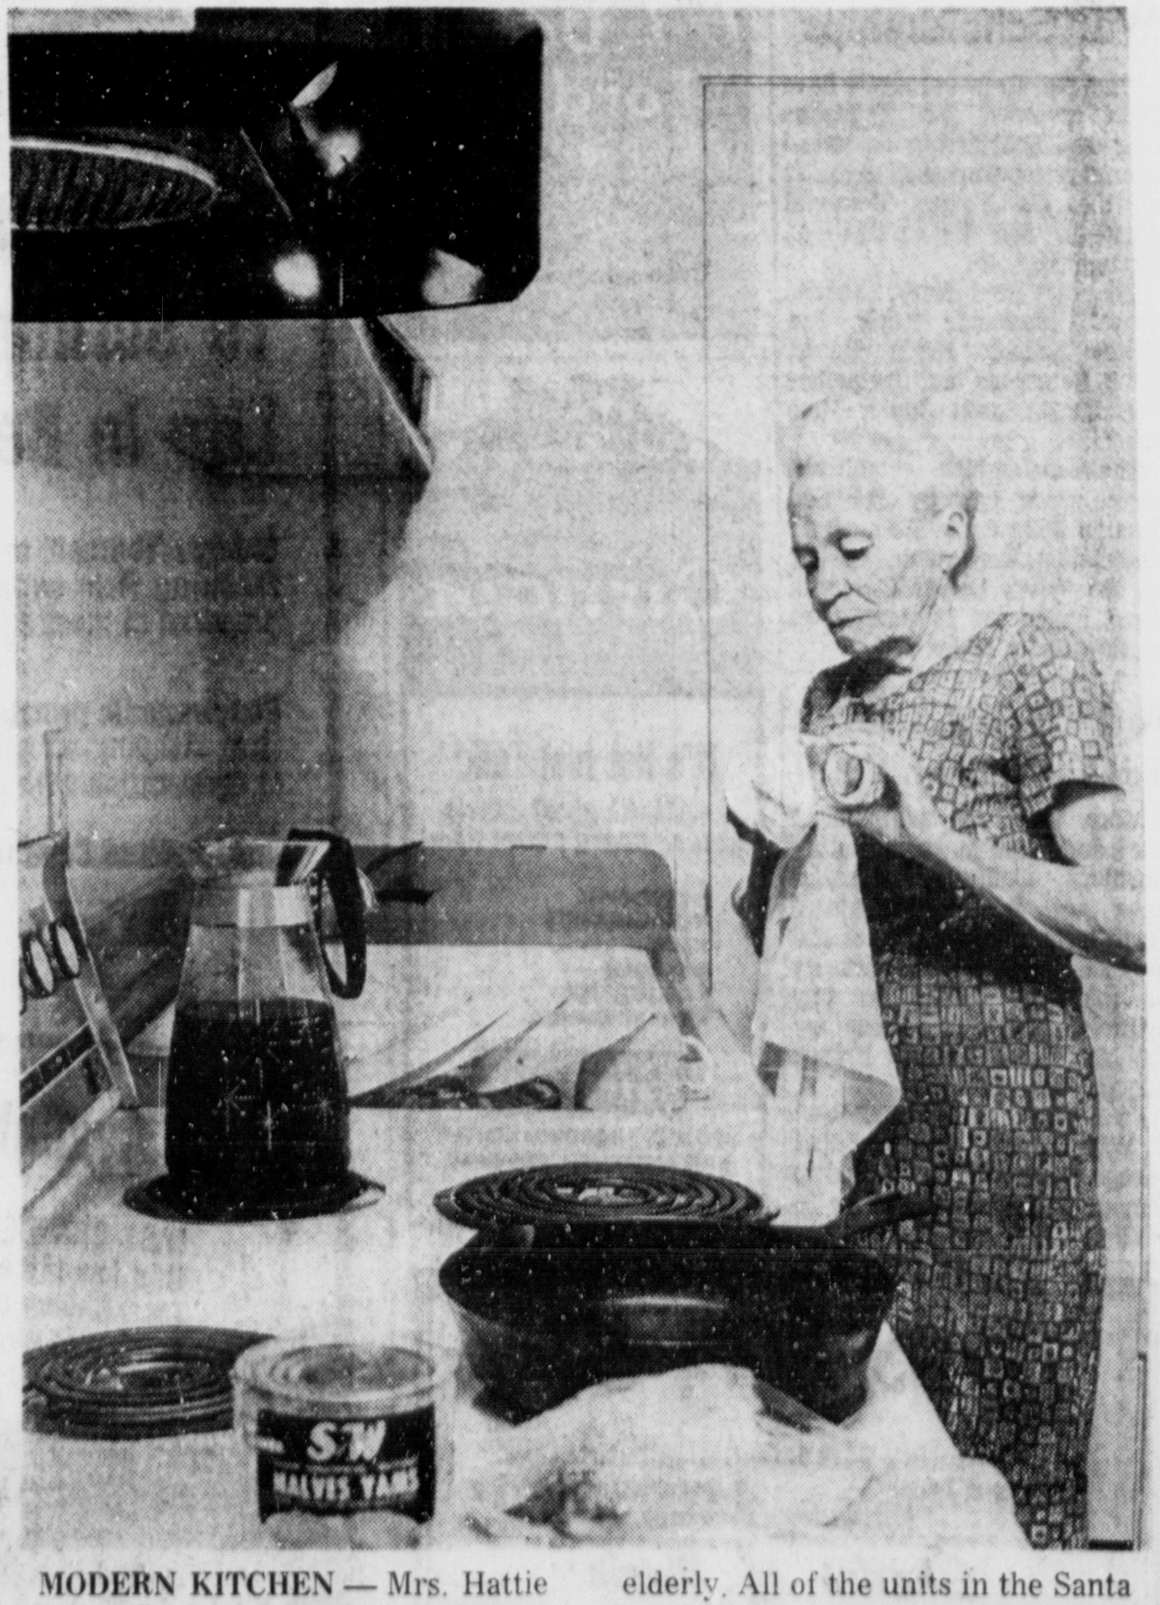
The 36 Santa Venetia units, turned over to the housing authority June 1, have now been filled, said Mrs. Prescott, and there are 13 persons on the waiting list.

Construction of a $430,000 28-unit project at Linden Lane and Montford Avenue in Homestead Valley is now underway, she said, and should be completed by February of next year.

It is hoped construction of a 40-unit housing project at Los Ranchitos Road and Golden Hinde Boulevard near Northgate Shopping Center, to cost an estimated $595,000 will start this summer, she said.

Beyond that, the housing authority is looking toward acquiring property for a project in the Novato area.

RECORDER — Timothy Kelly plays "Greensleeves" on an alto recorder in his apartment in new housing for the elderly in Santa Venetia. "I tried for a long time to find a place like this," he said, "but it was more than I could afford."



MODERN KITCHEN — Mrs. Hattie Mooring washes dishes in modern kitchen in the housing authority's newly constructed housing for the elderly. All of the units in the Santa Venetia project include new electric ranges and refrigerator freezers.

When Gown Is Disguise For Violence

The role of faculty members in the recent student uprising at Stanford University produced some plain talk that might well be directed to teachers in similar roles on other campuses.

The faculty's executive committee recommended, and the president and provost endorsed, punishment for student leaders in the sit-in that seized college buildings, and for those who earlier interfered with CIA recruiters on the campus. But the faculty majority voted to punish none of them.

Retiring Stanford President J. E. Wallace Sterling yielded to the faculty demand for amnesty for the troublemakers. But he had some sound advice for the professors and instructors in a subsequent campus conference address. Declared Sterling:

"THE FACULTY HAS MORE to do than to clarify its position on the permissibility of coercive tactics used by students. It needs to clarify its position as to any of its own members who participate in such tactics."

He noted that the American Association of University Professors this year re-endorsed its 1915 "Declaration of Principles" which held the profession has the responsibility "to purge its ranks of the incompetent and the unworthy," and had condemned demonstrators who disrupt educational activities on campus.

"The leading faculty organization in the U.S. has declared itself against disruptive tactics employed by either students or individual faculty members," said Sterling. "It remains to be seen whether as clear a declaration will emanate from the faculty of this and other universities."

HERBERT PACKER, Stanford's vice provost, put it even more bluntly in an address to the professors.

The faculty majority who voted to grant amnesty to the demonstrators, he said, "thought they were saving the university. And by their lights, they succeeded — for a few days or a few weeks.

"No one who listened to the victory celebration in the Old Union courtyard . . . or the rally in White Plaza . . . can be under any illusions about the reality of confrontation politics as a way of life on this campus from now on . . .

"And now that confrontation politics has been legitimated by the faculty, who will be allowed to protest that curriculum making is not, in the end, a student responsibility?"

Packer ended his address with this dire warning:

"SO LONG AS INFLUENTIAL members of the faculty continue to encourage or submit to the self-indulgence of those students who think that moral passion is a substitute for thought, hopes for the future must remain tentative and fragile."

How fragile can be gathered by remarks of a principal in the revolt, Steve Weissman, a Stanford graduate student who is a veteran of the Berkeley "Free Speech" uprising of four years ago.

Weissman said "confrontation politics" are "the kind of politics necessary to change America."

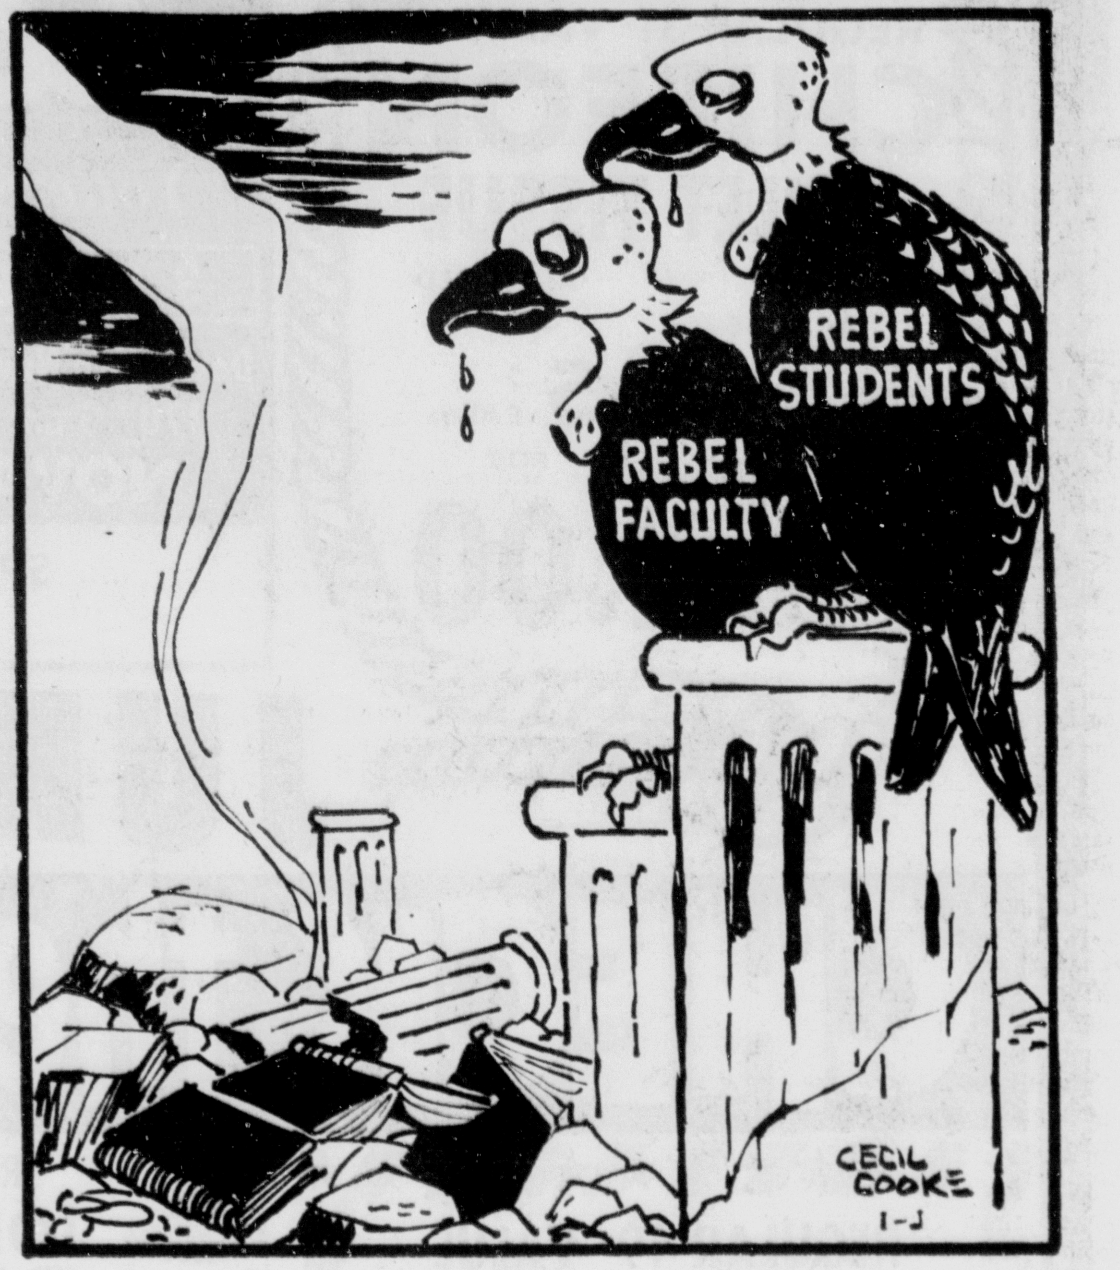
"We have to go after the heirarchy," said Weissman, "take power away from the trustees of this university."

Perhaps the kind of professors who back this sort of thing would find it more congenial to work amid anarchy. They might, that is, if anyone were willing to continue providing their pay checks.

Weed-Killer Danger

The U.S. Public Health Service recently warned that sodium chlorate, which is sometimes used in Marin as a weed-killer and defoliant, can be very dangerous.

Like nitrates, sodium chlorate is a good source of oxygen for accellerating a fire. Let weeds dry out after they have been treated with sodium chlorate and you have a highly inflammable material that ignites with only a little friction. It is also dangerous if it dries on one's clothing.



ROSCOE DRUMMOND

What's Right With America: Youth, Dedication, Soundness

WASHINGTON — The purpose of this column is to take a further look at What's Right with America.

This isn't to minimize our shortcomings. But everything isn't going wrong. Far from it; much is going right.

We submit that it is dangerous to overlook what is going right because the first ingredient of success is dissolving the mood of violence in the nation and in accelerating racial justice is faith that it can be done.

If too many Americans do not believe that our society can serve its goal, if they don't see that American democratic institutions are productively at work removing the blight of social and racial ills, if they don't understand that revolution-by-ballot is the best and workable way to do what needs to be done, than we risk leaving the field to revolution-by-violence. The end of that road is calamity and the beginning of authoritarian government.

THE TRUTH IS that the American system is animate, vital, and responsive and one of the best ways of making it more so is to realize What's Right with America, not just what's wrong.

We all know what tremendous progress has been made in the last decade and a half in furthering racial justice and equality of opportunity — so much progress that we can now begin to see the end from the beginning.

But there are some who suggest that the nation's youth has lost its way. There are signs that some have. Students are resorting to violence, trying to escape the draft and to elevate obscenity to a moral cult.

These things are happening, but the truth is that the students who are more interested in smelling flowers and smoking marijuana are a minute minority of American youth.

ARE THE YOUNG alienated over politics? Far from it. They are using the political process to give dedicated assistance to Senator McCarthy, as they did for Senator Kennedy.

Alienated over the war? Far from it. The desertion rate of American GIs in South Vietnam is less than it was in Korea and 50 per cent less than in World War II.

I believe we have today a most committed and compassionate younger generation. At one time in college the big deal was swallowing goldfish; today it is questioning moral values. That's good. How good? One answer is that more than 300,000 college students are today voluntarily helping the disadvantaged throughout the United States.

AND WHAT ABOUT the way the U.S. has managed its economy in recent years? Obviously all is not well with the dollar, with the imbalance of payments and inflation.

But on any comparative basis we have managed our economic affairs with skill and wisdom for the most part. None of the bleak predictions that large-scale unemployment would follow the end of World War II and that depression would be on us in the '40s, or the '50s, or the '60s, has come true; all have proved wrong.

Today the American free-enterprise economy is the most productive in the world with the highest gross national product, the largest per capita income. We have the highest employment and the lowest percentage of unemployment in the nation's history. And the longest period of sustained economic growth.

One of the reasons is that under the advocacy of President Kennedy, the leadership of President Johnson, and the support of most business leaders, Congress had the wisdom to cut taxes despite an unbalanced budget in order to give impetus to the economy when it was needed.

An now, when it is vital to restrian an over-booming economy, Congress is finally enacting, however tardily, a 10 per cent tax increase and trimming the federal budget.

I am not arguing nothing is wrong about the management of the economy, but the record is so good that it holds a promise of even better things to come.

Indeed, it seems to me that What's Right with America is the most untold story in the U.S.

$50 Million For Play —With Selective Taxes

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO, (CNS) — California legislators may someday learn that the people of the state are becoming weary of grandiose plans for new and increased spending programs, but to some of them the lesson is coming belatedly.

In the face of a situation which finds the public hard-pressed to meet the billion-dollar tax increase of last year, Assemblyman Edward L. Z'Berg, D-Sacramento, and the Assembly natural resources committee he heads have come up with a proposal for another $50 million tax bite.

Z'BERG WANTS to assess the public $50 million for a "California Local Recreation Fund." The money would be meted out to cities and counties for development of recreational facilities on a local basis.

Granted that cities and counties could use an additional $50 million for this purpose without batting an eyelash, and also granted that major recreational needs exist to keep up with the growing populations, the proposal seems out of allignment with the times. It can be compared to a family buying luxuries when there are insufficient funds in the bank account for the daily bread and butter.

HOW Z'BERG would increase taxes by and estimated $51.1 million each year is altogether amazing.

First, he would ask for a 3½ per cent tax on gross receipts from the sale of motor vehicle fuel (but would exclude commercial vehicles) from June 1 through Sept. 30. He would put on this gross receipts tax instead of adding to the sales tax, thereby circumventing the necessity of amending the Constitution.

Second, he would ask for an excise tax of 10 per cent on admission prices over a dollar to such sports as professional baseball and football but not on amateur sports, on horse-racing or boxing.

Third, a one per cent gross receipts tax would be levied from the sale of out-door sporting goods and equipment, but this includes a list of exclusions which makes one wonder what there is left to tax in this particular field.

Z'BERG CALLS his bill the "first significant step toward the long overdue goal of recognizing in public policy that recreation is a legitimate need of the people, with a priority at least equivalent to that accorded such other major, expensive programs as freeway construction, water development, education, mental hygiene, and welfare."

One can't argue with the fact recreation is important — particularly to the people with nothing else to do but play with the taxpayers' money.

Transform Guns Into Monument

I see in the Independent-Journal that people should turn in their guns, to be smashed or destructionated.

Would it not be a little better to save all the guns and weld them together into an art object that could serve as a memorial or reminder?

Two hundred thousand guns welded into an arch, could replace the Sather Gate in Berkeley.

Or perhaps a welded cross of guns to be a permanent cross on Mt. Davidson in San Francisco. Or maybe just a gun monolith to be placed with the Doughboy bronze from the courthouse lawn, wherever it may go?

Psychiatrist Holds Violence Necessary

One important aspect of the aftermath of Senator Kennedy's death has been buried under the avalanche of anti-violence sentiment. It has been simply assumed, except for the openly violent left and the slightly less overly violent right, that violence, per se, is evil. We are seeing the same kind of prudish attitude toward violence and aggressiveness that existed until recently about sex; violent feelings are concealed, shamefully admitted, or denied (and experienced) through enthusiasm for the anti-violence movement.

In all, public concern has shifted to the indiscriminate suppression of violence rather than to the expansion of constructive violent expression. Without regard for the evident willingness of many people to use violent means for political and social disruption and criminal acts, the political moderate and socially concerned are advocating further debilitation of their already emasculated capacity, leaving themselves prostrate before the politically and criminally violent.

As a citizen I am very concerned about the prevalent willingness to impair the individual's capacity to defend himself and to hamper the forceful maintenance of civil order under law. As a psychiatrist I would anticipate that further suppression of healthful and beneficial violent outlets will increase cruelty, sadism and explosively destructive outbursts.

Having finally overcome sexual prudery we now seem determined to similarly disrupt emotitional capacity by denying our violent urges rather than integrating them into constructive behavior.

'Love God In Man' Worth Attention

The Independent-Journal Saturday night editorial cartoon stands head and shoulders over those that appear during the week. Of course, the subject matter is different on Saturday evening — perhaps it's a subject that means more to me as a member of that segment of your readership who longs for real peace among men.

I call your attention to a letter printed in the June 12 edition of your paper. The heading was "The Only Answer: Love God in Man." This letter, obviously written from the heart of Mr. (Jack A.) Binns, could provide you and your staff with the basis for a most meaningful written editorial, perhaps this Saturday evening so that it will tie in with your editorial cartoon.

In any event, I do think Mr. Binns' letter had a meaning, which if carried to more people through greater publicity, would do much to bring peace in these troubled times.

SOME FACTS ABOUT SUICIDE

* Of any 10 people who kill themselves, eight have given definite warnings of their intentions.
* Most suicidal people are undecided about living or dying, and they "gamble" with death, leaving it to others to save them.
* Most people are suicidal only for a limited time. Once saved, they can often lead useful lives.
* Suicide does not run in families. It is an individual matter, and can be prevented.

The existence with which God has endowed us is conditioned by a constant series of decisions either for life or against it.

Those who have a basic reverence for self and others usually find ways to "cope" even in the face of what could be a crushing burden. Life is a right, a gift and an exciting responsibility.

"I have set before you life and death . . . therefore choose life."

(Deuteronomy 30:19)

Remind me to stop and think, Lord, about the treasure of life that You have given us.

LATEST NEWS from the hotdog industry is that the vendor who for many years sold his weenies mit sauerkraut alongside the docks in the Hudson River has now wheeled his parasol-topped wagon to new fields in the garment district. His reason for the shift: "Those darn longshoremen eat too much mustard." Why, he was asked, should longshoremen want more mustard on their hot dogs than any other class of workers? "Maybe," guessed the vendor, "they think it's caviar."

Chile Haven For Communists, But Keeps Them From Power

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

When Chile helped five escaped Communist guerrillas from Bolivia reach haven in Havana early this year fears were expressed among her neighbors that Chile was about to become a back-door base for Castro-style subversion throughout the continent.

Bolivia went so far as to bring charges before the Organization of American States that Chile had assisted in the attempted subversion of Bolivia by the guerrilla forces led by the late Che Guevara.

Chile denied the charge and declared she merely had granted safe conduct to the guerrillas as political refugees.

WHILE THE Communists never have been able to take power in Chile, a Communist-supported candidate did manage in 1964 to garner nearly a million votes against 1,400,000 for Eduardo Frei Montalva, a Christian Democrat and the eventual winner.

It has publicly foresworn violent revolution but has not given up hope of winning power via legal elections.

FREI WON office and United States support in 1964 on a reform program which promised "revolution in liberty."

Since then, inflation has mounted sharply under the impact of a sweeping land reform program and socialization of wide sectors of the economy with a subsequent sharp rise in public spending.

The result has been unrest among wage earners and enmity among rightwing voters who originally supported Frei but bitterly oppose his land reform program.

The Communists and socialists, on the other hand, accuse him of not moving to the left fast enough. Especially they demand nationalization of Chile's copper mines which are the basis of the Chilean economy.

THIS YEAR the Communists began flirting with the Radical Party, a middle-of-the-road grouping which once was Chile's strongest political party.

They would thus enlarge their popular action front with the socialists and with some defections from the leftwing rebels of Frei's own party have an excellent chance at winning the presidential elections in 1970.

At least that's the reasoning. It will take a considerable amount of doing.

Between the Radicals and the Communists there is a deepseated enmity going back to 1948 when Radical President Gabrien Gonzalez Videla outlawed the Communist Party and sent it underground for the next 10 years.

Among the Communists and their Socialist allies there also are deep-seated differences, although both are Marxist. The Communists are closely aligned with Moscow and its policy of co-existence. The Socialists are followers of Fidel Castro and advocate violent overthrow of the government.

The betting is now that the differences among the three are too great to be overcome.

Further Questions Keep Arising About Larkspur Home For Girls

Letters and phone calls continue to come from people who read Independent-Journal stories on the way troublesome youngsters are made wards of the court and the high cost of keeping them in institutions and group homes.

The first article told of a Novato girl who was being sent to the Marin Foundation Friends of Arequipa home in Larkspur, with her parents to be charged over $600 a month for her stay there.

A letter came the other day from a Larkspur resident, who said that she knows a girl who is at the same home.

"Imagine my surprise," the Larkspur woman wrote, "when I happened on this young lady in hippie style clothing hitchhiking a ride for her male companions."

IN THIS GIRL'S case, the writer thinks Marin County is footing the $634 a month tab for her stay at the home. It is the county's policy to have parents pay such bills to the extent that the county revenue officer feels he can collect them, but when no money is forthcoming from parents, the county pays.

Last December the Marin County Board of Supervisors negotiated a contract with the Marin Foundation to pay $11.416 a month to the foundation for 18 youngsters at the home. This breaks down to $634.25 a month and the contract also calls for the figure to drop to $575 a month after February, 1969.

The county payment is made whether or not the beds are filled. If youngsters from other counties are sent to the home, Marin County is to be reimbursed by the counties from which they come.

A COUPLE of weeks ago Larkspur Mayor Alfred J. Malvino and Vice Mayor Neil R. Brixon toured the home, which is housed in a new apartment complex on Cane Street. Brixon said there were only seven or eight girls in the home in the two units set aside for 12 girls.

He said the foundation was attempting to rent a third unit in which foundation officials had hoped to house six boys. This proposal was shot down by the Larkspur Planning Commission, which would allow only girls.

So the Friends of Arequipa have an expensive housing arrangement on their hands which is only about half full, and Marin County taxpayers are picking up the tab. County Probation Officer Walter Busher defends this by saying "it would be chaos" to fill such a home all at once, and that it should be done gradually.

THE FRIENDS of Arequipa have an interesting background. The group was formed in 1951 by Mrs. Roger Kent to assist a small tuberculosis sanatorium near Fairfax, called Arequipa. ("Arequipa," by the way, means "place of rest" in Peruvian.)

Later the sanatorium closed, but the organization continued, raising money for various charities. The in 1963 the Friends of Arequipa decided to start a group home for girls who, they felt, belonged neither in institutions or in foster homes.

The friends leased an old brown shingle house in San Rafael and begged furniture for it. About this time they also changed the name to Marin Foundation Friends of Arequipa. They started off with six girls, and the cost per girl was $390 a month.

In 1964 the supervisors wholeheartedly approved the home, saying that the county would save $3,480 in a six-month period by placing girls there instead of juvenile hall.

By 1967, when the foundation took on the Larkspur apartments, the cost had risen to $634 plus the money (estimated at $8,000) that the foundation hopes to raise each year.

Many readers have pointed out that universities and private schools are not this expensive, and possibly the Friends of Arequipa home is luxury neither the county nor youngsters' parents can afford, regardless of who gets stuck with the bill.

College Chaplain Named Chairman Of Draft Group

Rev. Charles Robertson, Protestant chaplain at College of Marin, has been elected chairman of the Marin Council for Draft Education, a group which is promoting draft education in public high schools.

Carol Shattuck was named secretary-treasurer, and Mary Mosteller, vice chairman.

These officers and four women who have been talking informally to teachers in their communities about draft education will meet at 8 p.m. July 9 at the home of Mrs. Shattuck, 111 Redwood Road, San Anselmo.

Plans for the fall will be discussed at that time, as well as progress in contacting educators about the possibility of having courses on the draft in the schools. Other members of the committee are Carol Place, Juanita Ingle, Gloria Jones and Carol St. Helen.

Chase, Scuffle Brings $95 Fine

A Tiburon man, James Lewis Green, has been fined $95 and placed on a year's probation in Marin Municipal Court for obstructing a police officer in his duties.

Green, 47, of 2300 Vista Del Mar, was convicted by jury April 10 of obstructing Sheriff's Deputy John O. Goff on July 30 after Goff chased him on Tiburon Boulevard for a suspected traffic violation.

When Green halted at his house, he and the deputy scuffled.

Tiburon Board Nods On Apartment Plans

Tiburon Board of Design Review Wednesday night approved in principle Kurt Heath's design for 39 apartment units adjacent to Marinero Circle, but referred Heath's application to the full planning commission for its opinion, according to Phil V. Scott, secretary.

A sign was approved at the intersection of Paradise Drive and Main Street for Harbor Carriers ferry service. Design for the third section of 54 units for Harbor Hill apartments on Harbor Oak Drive, was also approved, Scott said.

New Fringe Benefits To Hike School Taxes

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Many taxpayers are going to find their school taxes increased next November because of additional fringe benefits granted teachers and other school employees.

Throughout California, school boards within the past few weeks have agreed to provide increased health and hospitalization insurance for employees. Some have added dental insurance for the first time.

These benefits are reflected in the tax rate as one of the 30-odd "overrides" which school boards may levy without going to the voters for approval.

THE DEMAND for greater insurance benefits paid by school districts from tax funds has been pushed by both the major teacher organizations: the AFL-CIO California Federation of Teachers and the California Teachers Association.

The strategy was laid out plainly in the May issue of the Union Teacher, publication of the Los Angeles local of CFT. It pointed out that, although the Los Angeles Board of Education had balked at requested salary scale increases for lack of funds within the tax rate ceiling, "you can get a pay increase through additional fringe benefits for which there is no limit on the tax rate."

This has also been pointed out to its local chapters by CTA.

TO PROVE that health and hospitalization insurance for teachers should be increased, local committees have been furnished with figures from the California Department of Labor showing that employers' contributions to various union welfare funds in California average around $27 per month per employee, while school district-paid hospitalization insurance seldom exceeds $12 per month.

This "apples and oranges" comparison seems to have worked well, school trustees seldom pointing out that union welfare funds provide recreation centers for union members, homes for the aged, money for investment in bonds and real estate, etc.—not to mention various types of investment which create scandals from time to time. Some school districts have accepted the argument at face value and increased taxpayer-paid health benefits to around $27 per employee per month.

HEALTH INSURANCE, as mentioned before, is just one of about 30 purposes for which school districts are permitted to levy "override" taxes above the ceiling set on their general operating levies by vote of the people.

All these overrides, however, will expire June 30, 1971. After that, there will be no need for them. For, under the Unruh Education Act of 1967, there will be no ceiling on school tax rates after that date.

School districts will thus join counties in having complete taxing freedom. Cities and virtually all other districts are subject to limits on their levies which cannot be exceeded without approval of the electorate.

FAILY LIFE EDUCATION: Last week, this column discussed the "family life education" being pushed throughout the nation as a vehicle for early sex education, and some of the objections to it in California school districts. Since then, the permanent joint committee of the National School Boards Association and American Association of School Administrators has announced its unanimous opposition to adding "family life education" to school curricula.

Instead, said the 12-member committee, sex instruction should be included as part of "a comprehensive program of health education in grades K through 12."

Said its report: "School boards, administrators, and curriculum staffs of school systems throughout the United States are being pressured to offer courses in sex and family life education. . . .

"The school curriculum is already overloaded. . . . There is neither time nor justification for separate courses in any of the categorical areas advocated by specialized interest groups."

A really well-cared-for Le Sabre Convertible that we sold new to local professional man and his wife and has been used almost exclusively by the wife around Marin County.

Light blue with matching vinyl interior that defies the fact that this car is four years old. Fully equipped including power steering, power brakes, automatic, radio, heater and w/w tires. Low mileage car with lots of pazzazz and years of life in it.

PRESIDENT-ELECT — Dr. Gerald D. Dorman of New York City has been named president-elect of the American Medical Association. The vote yesterday at the AMA convention in San Francisco was by acclamation. (UPI Telephoto)

AMA, For First Time, Declares Marijuana Is A Dangerous Drug

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—For a younger generation increasingly going to "pot," the American Medical Association is warning about the dangers of marijuana, but prescribing lighter punishment.

The powerful medical group, speaking for 250,000 doctors, joined the antimarijuana crusade for the first time in its 117-year history yesterday. It labeled marijuana a "dangerous drug" and argued against its legalization but called present penalties for use "harsh and unrealistic."

The AMA said marijuana, even the weaker variety generally used in the United States, posed a "serious public health concern" similar to alcohol, but was potentially far more harmful to the individual.

"We will be attacked by the hawks on one side, the doves on the other and even the sparrows will be disturbed," predicted Dr. Dana L. Farnsworth, chairman of the Council on Mental Health.

With occasional or "spree" use of marijuana, "the medical hazard is not so great," the AMA said, "although even such use when it produces intoxication can give rise to disorders of behavior with serious consequences to the individual and to society," the AMA said.

"And, while it is true that now only a small proportion of marijuana users in the United States are chronic users and can be said to be strongly dependent on the drug, their numbers, both actual and potential, are large enough to be of a public health concern."

While the doctors stopped short of recommending an absolute abolition of punishment for drug use, they said "legislators, law enforcement officials and the courts should differentiate in the handling of the occasional user, the frequent user, the chronic user, the person sharing his drug with another and the dealer who sells for a profit.

"Of particular concern is the youthful experimenter who, by incurring a criminal record through a single thoughtless act, places his future career in jeopardy," the AMA said. "The lives of many young people are being needlessly damaged."

Farnsworth, head of Harvard University Health services, Cambridge, Mass., presided at a joint news conference called by the AMA's Council on Mental Health, Committee on Alcoholism and Drug Dependence and the Committee on Problems of Drug Dependence of the National Research Council. The full statement will appear in the July issue of the AMA Journal, along with an editorial titled, "Marijuana Thing."

Marijuana is "certainly a dangerous drug because of its effect on the central nervous system and the fact that it can cause psychosis," said Dr. E. Leong Way, a pharmacologist at the University of California Medical Center.

Doctors Outline Stand On Federal Intervention

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The American Medical Association winds up today a policy-charting convention at which it emphasized two beliefs.

1. The federal government can make possible the private financing of better health care.

2. It should keep hands off the program's operation.

The policy-making AMA House of Delegates, in a lengthy session yesterday, voted that:

No federal funds should ever be allowed to subsidize "any one form of medical practice" such as group clinics.

Overemphasis of any one phase of the national medical program, such as Medicare, "will lead to distortions and breakdowns in the system."

"The blame for rising medical costs lies squarely on the governmental programs rather than on the physicians" and "the public image of the American physician has suffered to a point where it must be actively defended."

Alcoholic Held Real Menace On Highways

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Not the social drinker but the chronic alcoholic is the real menace on the highway, says a physician who has made a three-year study of fatal accidents.

Dr. Melvin Selzer told a news conference at the American Medical Association convention today, "the unrecognized danger is the driver who drinks to excess and who usually has emotional or mental problems—the alcoholic.

RISK RISE

"Of course, the risk of accident rises the more drinks you have, but the emphasis on social drinking is obscuring a much greater peril, the addict to alcohol who may have an ordinary traffic record right up to his first—and last—major accident."

Dr. Selzer, a psychiatrist at the University of Michigan's Highway Research Institute, studied the personal history of 96 drivers responsible for fatal accidents and found 36 to be known alcoholics.

"The presence of a large number of alcohol-addicted drivers in this group suggests why the problem of the 'drinking driver' has not been resolved,' 'he said.

EMOTIONAL PROBLEMS

Dr. Selzer said alcoholics tend to have overwhelming emotional and personal problems and that this may be as important as intoxication in causing accidents.

He spoke at a program on automotive injuries at which Dr. Seymour Charles of the Physicians for Automotive Safety, Newark, N.J., charged that cars have become "the major instruments of violence and aggression in our violent society."

Dishwasher Detergent 'Dangerous'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The most dangerous household product a child is likely to swallow is electric dishwasher detergent, a Salt Lake City pediatrician and poison expert told the American Medical Association yesterday.

The granules in the detergent are extremely caustic and have, on occasion, caused complete destruction of the stomach, said Dr. Alan K. Done, professor of pediatrics and director of the poison information and therapy center at the University of Utah Medical Center in Salt Lake.

Other products likely to produce hospitalization after a child swallows them are ammonia, household bleach and pipe cleaners, Done told the symposium on adverse reactions.

Juan Is Man In A Hurry

The hard-throwing right-hander of the San Francisco Giants runs to the pitching mound from the dugout. He takes only eight warmup pitches and signals the umpire he's ready.

What's the rush, Juan? He was asked after beating the Philadelphia Phillies last night 5-1 for his 13th victory of the season.

FAST GAME

"I try to make the game fast," said Marichal. "I get there quick." Marichal says his rushing act dates back to 1959 when he played for Springfield in the Eastern League.

Manager Andy Gilbert fined any player who didn't touch first base after hitting the ball, even if it was a line drive to the pitcher. "I guess I never forget this," Marichal said.

Marichal also appears in a hurry to reach the magic 20-game victory figure for 1968, maybe even 30.

No pitcher has won 30 since Dizzy Dean of the Cardinals in 1934. The closest was Robin Roberts of the Phillies with 28 in 1952.

NINTH STRAIGHT

In checking the Phillies with five hits for his ninth straight victory, the Giants' ace came within one of his best winning streaks — 10 at the start of the 1966 season. He posted a 25-6 record that year but didn't get his 13th until June 21.

Marichal thus far has been San Francisco's stopper. In three-game Giant losing streak or the third time this season. The only run he allowed was a home run to Rich Allen in the fourth, his 11th of the season. Larry Jackson was the loser.

MAYS HITS

Allen wasn't the only power hitter in the game. A guy by the name of Willie Mays applied some wood to the ball for the Giants. Mays belted a pair of triples in four trips.

The triples tied Mays for fourth place on the all-time extra base hit list with Ty Cobb, each with 1,139. Only Stan Musial (1,377), Babe Ruth (1,356) and Lou Gehrig (1,190) have more extra base hits than the great San Francisco outfielder. beating the Phillies, he halted a

Mays greeted his latest accomplishment with a few light remarks. "Musial, Ruth, Gehrig and Cobb" he said. "What are they? How many did Gehrig have? I'll get that next year."

HE'LL HAVE TIME

Asked if he kept abreast of the many records he set and new milestones he reached, Mays replied: "I'll have enough time when I quit to worry about those."

In a more serious tone, Mays said records are made to be broken. "Someone will break mine, but it's always good to be among them (record holders)."

Mays said all he wanted to do was rest. Marichal appeared in a hurry to run to the mound to try for number 14—a paradox in victory, these two.

A Time For Veteran

But when the situation calls for a cool veteran, he looks for Floyd Robinson.

He looked for the 32-year-old Robinson last night with Oakland and the Baltimore Orioles tied 3-3 and the bases loaded in the seventh inning — and Kennedy got exactly what he wanted.

DOUBLES

Kennedy said he wanted a man at the plate who wouldn't swing at a bad pitch. "The pitcher has to get the ball close to the plate for Robby," he said.

That's where Baltimore reliever Roger Nelson put the pitch — and it resulted in his first loss in two decisions. Jim Hunter, 6-5, allowed eight hits and three runs, none earned, in going the route for the victory.

"I'd rather be playing every day," Robinson said after the game. "But if pinch-hitting is my only chance to play, I'll take it that way."

YOUTH

He usually sits on the bench while Rick Monday, 22, Reggie Jackson, 23, and Joe Rudi, 22, play the outfield.

Early in the season Robinson emerged from the dugout in the ninth inning of a game against New York. His pinch-hit home run beat the Yankees. Several other times this year his timely hits have paced Oakland victories.

Jim Hunter survived three Oakland errors in the first two innings when Baltimore scored all their runs.

"I had trouble with my control in the early innings," Hunter said. "I didn't know where the ball was going but I had good stuff."

MOMENT OF TRUTH

The moment of truth for Hunter came in the seventh when hard-hitting Frank Robinson was at the plate with the score tied 3-3 and the potential go-ahead run on first.

Kennedy hurried to the mound to talk to Hunter.

"He told me I was out of the

Watch Those Crackups With That Golf Cart

TEE SHOTS — Only one mishap marred the Meadow Club's Invitational Golf Tournament at the Fairfax course last weekend. Norm Marks of San Rafael, guest of member John Greene, suffered a broken leg as their electric cart overturned when Greene swerved to miss a chuckhole. Luckily, Dr. Doug Ramsey, the noted orthopedic surgeon, was nearby to administer emergency first aid.

Well, that wasn't the only major mishap. Tourney Chairman Jim Fahrner reports the Fairfax club ran out of beer Saturday night "for the first time in club history. That's how hot it was."

Marin Medical Society's recent pro-amateur tournament at the Meadow Club netted $1,202 for the Marindale School for Handicapped Children and congrats to the divot docs.

Hoping For Celebs Tourney

Harvey Ward, the former two-time National Amateur champion, hopes to inaugurate a celebrity-type golf tournament at Napa's Silverado course within the next year.

Harv says it would be patterned after the defunct Marin Tournament of Stars, discontinued last year when hard-working Bill McDevitt resigned as general chairman and an adequate replacement could not be found.

Recommended viewing this Sunday: The second annual Marin Tournament of Champs. A good chance to see six of the county's best players in action on the county's newest course, picturesque and demanding San Geronimo National.

Leach In Western Juniors

Novato's celebrated Ray Leach, who holds more junior titles than you can shake a putter at, will be shooting for the Western Junior Championship starting next Tuesday at Stanford University golf course. Ray is listed by the Western Golf Association as a "threat."

This is the tournament in which San Rafael's Ron Cerrudo, now a touring pro, placed runner-up in 1966. Other Western Junior grads who since have made it big on the pro tour are Jack Nicklaus, Phil Rodgers, Mason Rudolph, Tom Weiskopf, Jim Wiechers (who beat Cerrudo 1 up in the 1966 finals), Marty Fleckman, Labron Harris Jr., Ben Hogan, Sam Snead, etc., etc.

Can Retire On Hole-In-One

Some wise old computers have estimated the odds against making a hole-in-one are 84,575 to 1, but if you happen to get one in the right place at the right time you can practically retire.

Here, for example, are some prizes offered for aces in tournaments: Harrah's Invitational at Lake Tahoe — $19,000 Rolls Royce; Nugget Classic at Sparks, Nev. next week — An electric golf cart, mink coat, home entertainment center AND your weight in silver; Celebrity Classic at Castro Valley Sept. 22 — FOUR Lincoln Continentals, one each for the ace-maker and the other members in his foursome, worth a total of $36,000.

Shipes Wins By Knockout Over Jose Valenzuela

Shipes, 147½, Oakland, landed a smashing right to the chin from long range. When Valenzuela, 145, Los Angeles, went down at 1:31, referee Tony Bosnich halted the one-sided contest.

No. 1 junior middleweight Freddie Little, 159½, Las Vegas, Nev., scored his 26th knockout when he stopped Willard Wynn, 160, Los Angeles, in the third round of the co-featured 10 rounder.

Little floored Wynn two times in the second round. When he staggered his opponent in the third, the uneven match was halted at 1:56.

Little, who is scheduled to fight champion Sandro Mazzinghi for the junior middleweight title in Rome in September, has a 41-4 record.

In preliminaries, Charley Robinson, 136, San Francisco, took a split decision from Leo Agbulos, 141, Stockton, and George Torres, 142, Los Angeles, won an unanimous decision over Dave Mark, 142, Los Angeles, in six rounders.

Two One-Hitters Highlight Marin's DiMaggio League

A bunt single was the only hit given up by righthander Paul Dillman as he hurled Toby's Truckers to a 10-2 victory over the Presidio at San Francisco. Dillman, a junior righthander at Marin Catholic High School, struck out 14 batters and was supported by Bill Wilson's 360-foot, two-run triple and Mike Parnow's two run-producing singles.

At Novato, meanwhile, burly righthander Glenn Holsclaw set a league strikeout record of 17 as Novato downed Drake 8-2. In pitching his one-hitter, Holsclaw was just wild enough to be effective as he walked six batters and hit two with pitched balls. Novato's leading batters were Tom Zechlin, Holsclaw and Ed Herrnberger with two hits each, and Wally Campbell and Dee Fedrick with two runs-batted-in each.

Results of the Redwood-Tamalpais game were not available.

Boxer Still Hovering Near Death

COLOGNE, Germany (AP) — Jupp Elze, Germany's middleweight boxing champion, hovered close to death today, eight days after collapsing during his bid for the European title.

A hospital bulletin said his blood circulation was moving towards normal after a disruption which caused doctors to summon his wife Helga to his bedside yesterday.

But the bulletin added: "He is still in a state of deep unconsciousness, and his condition continues to be serious."

By mid-day the 28-year-old boxer had not regained consciousness since collapsing in the 15th and last round of his attempt to take the title from Italy's Carlos Duran.

Elze was rushed to a hospital for a cranial surgery because of cerebral bleeding.

As doctors fought for Elze's life in the Cologne University Neuro-Surgical Clinic, Hans Loehring, his manager, denied some German press claims that the German champion may have taken drugs to beef himself up for the fight.

13,641 Fans On Hand To Watch Soccer Tilt

The largest Kansas City crowd of the North American Soccer League season—13,641—showed up last night and Eric Barber gave them their money's worth by scoring four goals as the Spurs trounced the Dallas Tornados 6-1.

Barber booted in one goal and scored another on a head shot in the first six minutes to get the Spurs off to a flying start. His other tallies came in the second half.

The victory enabled Kansas City to increase its Gulf Division lead to 14 points over Houston. Winless Dallas has lost 13 games and tied two.

In other NASL action, Baltimore blanked Atlanta 2-0. New York and San Diego played to a 1-1 tie as did Cleveland and Boston, while Los Angeles and Oakland battled to a scoreless deadlock.

In the Oakland-Los Angeles deadlock, goalie Malcolm White of Los Angeles posted his fifth shutout and third straight. He has helbnthe opposition scoreless for 272 minutes in a row.

Two-Way Tie In NCAA Golf

LAS CRUCES, N.M. (AP) — Grier Jones and Allen Miller, studying toward business degrees, put a little of their schooling to work on the golf course—saving strokes.

Jones, a 22-year-old Oklahoma State money and banking student, and Miller, 19, an insurance major at the University of Georgia, went into today's second round of the NCAA Golf Championship tied.

Their golf was hotter than the 98-degree sun rays beating on the New Mexico State course yesterday as each fired NCAA record-tying 65s—six under par.

One More Winner

Peter Behn of San Rafael Swim Club won the boys' age 8 and under 50-meter breaststroke and placed fifth in another event at last weekend's Santa Clara Swim Club Class "A" championships. His name was omitted from a list of winners published in yesterday's Independent-Journal.

Machette Wins Tennis Match

Mike Machette of Belvedere was the lone Marin County survivor today in the Pacific Coast Junior Tennis Championships at Berkeley following the elimination of San Rafael star Sharon Walsh in yesterday's action.

Machette ousted Steve Stefanski 6-3, 6-3 in the Boys' 18 singles, but Miss Walsh was ousted by Kathy Jraft 3-6, 6-4, 6-0 in the Girls' 16 singles.

Senate Committee Has Track Feud Dumped In Lap

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI)—The key to placing a permanent lid on the old, boiling controversy between the U.S. Track and Field Federation and the Amateur Athletic Union is in the hands of a U.S. Senate committee.

In a telegram issued at the conclusion of its first of a two-day annual meeting in Des Moines last night, the USTFF Committee for a "joint meeting of a predetermined number of AAU and USTFF delegates for a final effort to resolve the problems which have perpetuated a 60-year dispute."

The dispute stems from alleged charges by the USTFF that its members have been barred from foreign competition by the AAU because they have competed in a USTFF meet not sanctioned by the AAU.

In announcing the action, the Rev. Wilfred H. Crowley, S.J., Los Altos, Calif., retiring USTFF president, told newsmen if the proposed committee action fails, the federation "might" file suit against the AAU for violation of the antitrust laws.

"A brief for such a purpose has been presented by our attorneys to the Justice Department," Crowley said. "There's a violation of the antitrust laws where you interfere with the right of the athlete to compete in the organization of his choice."

Commissioner William Reed of the Big Ten Conference said an opinion of the sports arbitration board appointed by Vice President Hubert Humphrey and issued in February was "not considered an acceptable, equitable or effective solution."

The report by and large found in favor of the AAU in the sanctioning of athletic events controversy, which has not only been between the AAU and the USTFF, but the AAU and the National Collegiate Athletic Conference as well.

A's Reggie Jackson Needs Seasoning

OAKLAND—Often is heard a disparaging word about the state of major league baseball in these parlous times; especially in the press box of the Oakland Coliseum, which, by the way, may be chosen as the site of the 1972 Winter Olympics. The press box, that is.

It's not the chill exposure of the press box that leads its hardy occupants to insist many American League performers "belong in Triple A ball." Observing inefficiency on the field below is sufficient to support that claim. One hates to use the word "incompetents" in connection with fine young athletes. But in a major league sense, many are.

On a larger scale, the major leagues themselves are incompetent. Expansion has dissipated the level of play. You've heard that all before, so there's no need to elaborate here.

BUT IT IS FITTING to talk about one of the A's "Triple A" ballplayers, 22-year-old Reggie Jackson. Describing him thusly is not to demean this lad's potential. Three or four years from now he could be one of the game's stars. I mean superstars. Not if he's kept with Oakland in 1968, however. He must be farmed, trained, matured, treated as a rough diamond that some day will have estimable market value.

Reggie Jackson could become the A's Willie Mays. He's heard this for some time, which isn't helpful, and is trying to fill that role too soon, which is very disasterous.

THE LAD'S RECORD only partly substantiates the need to farm him. He has, for instance, struck out once in every four trips to the plate. Through his first 60 games, he had fanned 64 times. He was barely batting above .250, but not many "major leaguers" are these days so the average is unimportant. The strikeouts are. They damage the psyche. And this boy needs confidence.

He was an All-America selection in both football and baseball in high school (Cheltenham, Pa.), and those who have lived with relatively great success, are greatly troubled by little failures.

The strikeouts are just one failure. There is the occasional misuse of a fine arm from his right field position. Through midweek, Reggie had five errors, as many as alternating first basemen Ramon Webster and Danny Carter combined . . . one more than ALL other outfielders on the team combined. Disheartening of course; to Reggie and to the fan who wants oh so much to cherish this boy.

THEN THERE'S THE matter of baserunning. We were informed early in the year that Rick Monday, Bert Campaneris and Reggie could "run on their own" — not be dictated to by the coaches. And this Jackson has done, unwisely and not well.

There was one pathetic situation among several involving Jackson as a baserunner that occurred here May 24 in what turned out to be a rain-washed tie game with the league-leading Detroit Tigers.

The A's were trailing 2-0 in the third when Reggie banged the first hit, a single, off sturdy Earl Wilson. The next Oakland batter, Joe Rudi, slapped a deep drive to left. Reggie took off from first and rounded second by a few feet, a correct move on the assumption he could — with his blazing speed — return to first if the ball were caught. Willie Horton did indeed make the catch after a long run, and Jackson headed back for first but WITHOUT touching second. It's an elementary rule that steps must be retraced in such a situation.

REGGIE SIMPLY forgot—for a few feet after ignoring the bag, he doubled back to touch up. By this time, shortstop Ray Oyler had taken Horton's relay in short left. He cocked his arm with the thought of throwing to second in case Jackson tried to tag up and advance.

Oyler didn't throw. He was stunned to see Jackson heading back to first. The thought struck the Detroit shortstop that he might have a double play chance. He threw to first and got the D.P.

Sheer embarrassment. Sure, it could have happened to Reg in the minors. But let it so that the same thing doesn't occur in the majors.

THERE'S NO DOUBT Reggie is playing regularly because Oakland has nobody else. From that point of view, one might say management is making a "team" decision. But there should be more to it. There must be more to it, such as the establishment of one man as an excellent baseball player. For his own good, Reginald Martinez Jackson, recipient of a reported $80,000 bonus from Charles O. Finley, should be farmed.

Carlton Hurls One-Hitter As Cardinals Win Again

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

"I can't let Nellie get ahead of me," Steve Carlton said last night after he had pitched a brilliant 4-0, one-hit victory for the St. Louis Cardinals over the Chicago Cubs.

The win gace Carlton an 8-2 record and pulled him even in wins with teammate Nelson Briles, 8-5, who shut out the Cubs 1-0 Tuesday night. It was Carlton's fourth shutout this season.

Manager Leo Durocher of the Cubs agreed that Carlton pitched a great game as Chicago extended its scoreless streak to 37 innings.

Glenn Beckert was the only Cub to get a hit — a clean single in the top of the fourth inning. "Beckert hit a fast ball," Carlton said after the game. "It was a good hit, although I thought the pitch was a ball."

Orlando Cepeda's three-run homer in the bottom of the third got Carlton an early lead and he was never in trouble. No runner reached second base as Carlton pitched the first one hitter of his major league career.

It was the Cardinals' fourth straight victory, enabling them to maintain their 5½ games lead over Atlanta.

In other National League games, San Francisco defeated Philadelphia behind the five-hit pitching of Juan Marichal 5-1; Pittsburgh won its eighth straight game, 2-1 over Los Angeles as Bob Veale tossed a six-hitter; Jerry Koosman won his 11th game for the New York Mets, pitching a five-hitter to beat Houston 8-2, and Ron Reed fired a four-hitter to beat Houston 8-2, and Ron Reed fired a four-hitter for Atlanta's 3-1 victory over Cincinnati.

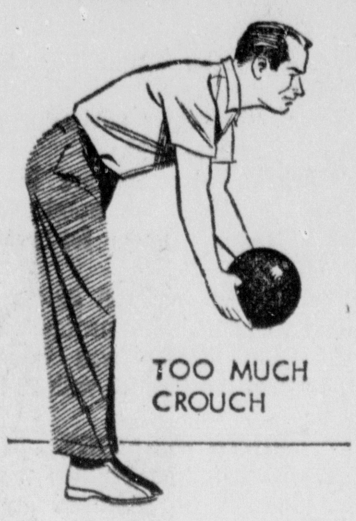
BOWLING TIPS

By MARION LADEWIG



At address, stand fairly erect — a slight crouch may be acceptable — with the ball held in front of the body with both hands. A deep stoop or crouch has to throw you off balance, for the ball's weight will tip you forward. Your delivery will then be way off its mark also.

STEVENS

Simplification is another word for efficiency, so let's applaud the proposal of the Department of Fish and Game to adopt a policy which would provide permanent opening days for most of our major hunting and fishing season. The Fish and Game Commission discussed the proposal at its May 31 meeting and will consider it again July 26 in San Diego.

The proposed policy states: "Where and when practical, hunting and fishing seasons will open on a Saturday. In order that vacations and other plans can be scheduled well in advance, the following are designated as opening dates for the named species and will be adhered to unless there are strong reasons why the commission should deviate or the resource is in danger."

THE PROPOSED opening dates, by species, are: Trout—general season, Saturday closest to May 1; northwest season, Saturday prior to Memorial Day. Deer—early season, first Saturday in August; late season, Saturday closest to Sept. 23. Pheasant — Saturday before Thanksgiving. Quail and Chukar—Last Saturday in October. Dove — Northern California, Sept. 1; Rabbits—Early season, first Saturday; late season Sept. 1. Tree-squirrels—early season, first Saturday in August; late season, Saturday closest to Sept. 23. Special Mountain Quail and Sierra and Ruffed Grouse—Saturday, closest to Sept. 23.

A QUICK summary of local fishing follows: Salmon trolling in ocean waters has been a bit better than fair with the average fish per rod around 1½. Stripers still reluctant to cooperate, ditto sturgeon and flounders. The word from the Delta region is fair to good on stripers but most are rather small.

Catfishing has improved in the Delta region and most action seems to have been in the deeper holes in the main rivers and tributaries. Reports, or rather the lack of reports, indicates that bass fishing in the Sacramento river areas is slow. The shad fishermen have to work much harder to garner a good mess. Predictions are that the annual run of shad is nearing its end.

Still lots of action on crappies in Clear Lake, but not very much with black bass. The phase of the moon over the weekend combined with a spell of windless days should see a much better report.

AMERICAN LEAGUE ROUNDUP

Strange Equation, Winning Formula

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

A baseball equation: 1,000 plus 100 equals six. At least that was the formula used by the Minnesota Twins.

Harmon Killebrew singled home Minnesota's first run—the 1,000th hit of his big-league career—and Dean Chance pitched a three-hitter for his 100th major league victory as the Twins beat Washington 4-0 last night for their sixth straight triumph.

In other American League action, Oakland topped Baltimore 5-3, California nipped the New York Yankees 3-2, Boston outslugged the Chicago White Sox 3-1.

Killebrew's hit drove in Ted Uhlaender, who had doubled, in the fifth inning, and the run was all Chance needed in running his record to 6-8 with his second shutout and sixth complete game of the season.

The veteran right-hander struck out 10, walked none and allowed just two runners as far as second in sending the Senators to their eighth straight defeat.

Uhlaender homered and Jackie Hernandez singled in two more runs for the Twins in the seventh.

California gained its victory on Steve Barber's wildness, a double and an error. With one out in the ninth, Barber issued his 10th walk to pinch hitter Woody Held. Pinch runner Tom Burgmeier then scored when Vic Davalillo doubled and right fielder Andy Kosco fumbled the ball.

Leo Rodriquez singled home two California runs in the third. Joe Pepitone homered in the fourth and Jake Gibbs in the seventh off winner Sammy Ellis to tie it for the Yankees.

Ken Harrelson's hitting overcame five Boston errors and led the Red Sox past Detroit. Harrelson singled home a run in the first and put Boston ahead 5-4 with a three-run homer, his 15th, in the seventh. The Red Sox added three unearned runs in the eighth.

Luis Tiant registered his 10th victory against five losses for Cleveland by setting the White Sox down on three hits.

Russ Snyder and Tony Horton broke a 1-1 tie with RBI singles in the Cleveland seventh. Chicago had taken a 1-0 lead on pitcher Bob Priddy's homer in the fifth, and Cleveland tied it in the sixth on a walk, a wild pitch and Duke Sims' double.

Turtles, Brandon Softballers Win

Two Turtles and Brandon Tire teams scored victories last night in the San Rafael "B" softball League's double elimination playoff tournament at Albert Field.

Jerry Norman pitched and batted Two Turtles to a 3-1 victory over the Potentials, allowing five hits while striking out seven and walking none. He hit a solo home run to aid his own cause.

In the second game Marlin Olsen also starred on the mound and at the plate in leading Brandon team to a 6-2 victory over Cain's Tires. Olsen pitched a three-hitter and personnally matched that total at bat. Jim MacDougal had a bases empty homer for Cain's.

'Officer Made Mistake,' Says Jimmy Brown

"The police force evidentally made a mistake," Brown told newsmen yesterday after a hearing was continued until Sept. 20 so he can make a movie in Spain. "I did not push an officer."

Because he is leaving the country, his bail was increased in municipal court from $1,250 to $10,000.

Authorities say Brown pushed a sheriff's deputy called to investigate reports of a disturbance at Brown's apartment June 9. Brown was accused of assault with intent to commit murder after a 22-year-old model was found injured beneath his balcony, but she refused to sign a complaint.

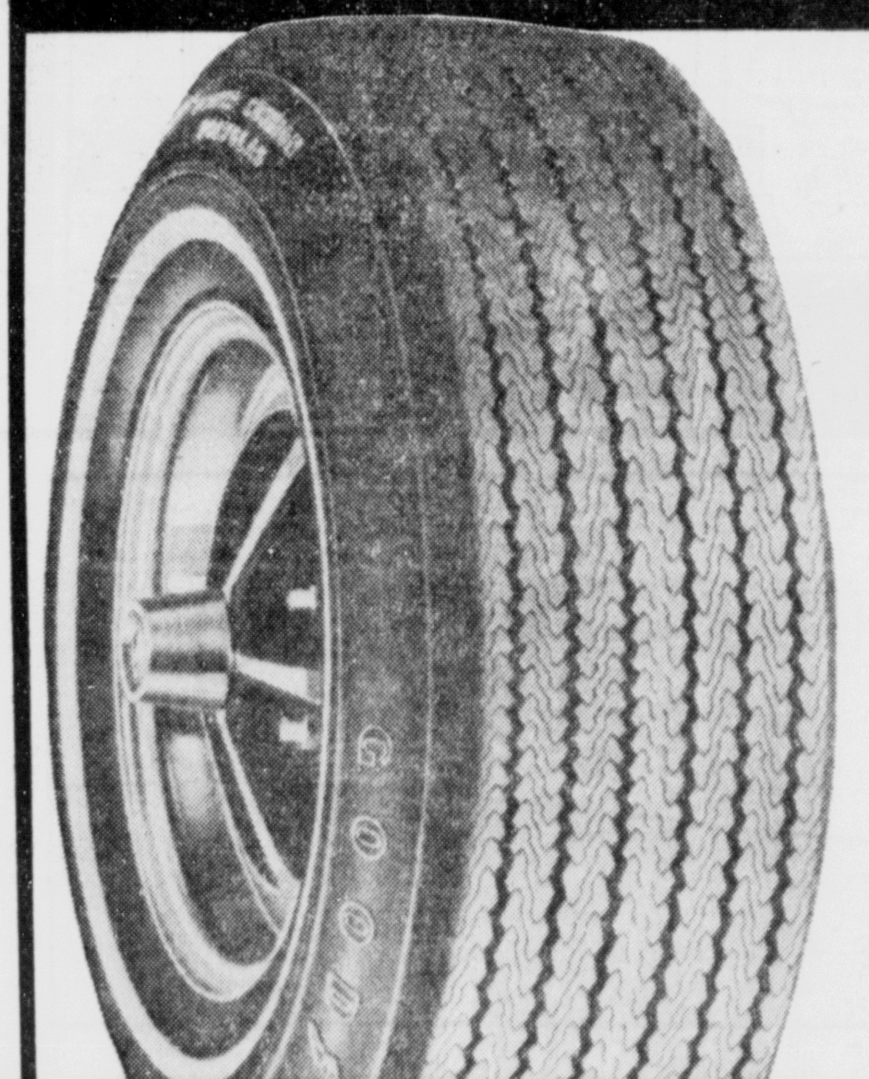
FIBERGLASS
The Goodyear Fiberglass Belted Tread
Doesn't Stop at Good Looks!!



It's twice as strong and wears more than twice as long as the tires that come on most new cars.
It's more than just another pretty face!

READ THIS:
The real beauty of the Goodyear Power Cushion Polyglas Tire is in its performance.

I said it was twice as strong and will wear twice as long as most new car tires.

The secret is in the construction!

The tread is beefed up with belts of fiberglass. Two strong flexible belts of fiberglass that run under the tread, around the tire. This reduces scuffage, which is the greatest cause of rapid tire wear. The sidewalls are built of reinforced Polyester Cord, the finest and newest improvement developed for tires yet.

Consequently, these two factors give the tires great form and allow no tread squirm. Because there is less rolling resistance where the tread meets the road, you get less stress and better gas mileage plus the two to three times greater tread life.

The Goodyear Power Cushion Polyglas packs a lot of heft, too. They are 15% heavier than most new car tires.

Put some of these broad shouldered brutes on your car and have a couple of fiberglass belts. I like to say a couple of "Safety Belts for the road."

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Bidding Stylish, But Never Stake A Slam On Just A Simple Finesse

Bridge is not a rich man's game: there are millions of poor players. For example, take the fellow who played today's hand at six hearts.

QUITE STYLISH

The bidding was quite stylish. North could afford to bid four diamonds on the way to four hearts. If South happened to be interested in a slam, he would be interested to learn that North had the ace of diamonds and strong heart support.

Both features interested South, and he jumped to slam without asking any further questions. He might have asked whether he was the right person to play the hand.

Declarer took the first diamond, drew two rounds of trumps, cashed the king of clubs and tried a finesse with the jack of clubs. This lost to the queen, and South eventually lost a spade trick as well. Down one.

FORCED LEAD

After drawing trumps South should cash the ace of diamonds, ruff a diamond, lead a trump and ruff the last diamond. Then South takes the ace of spades and gets out with a spade.

If East held the king of spades he would have no safe return. A club return would give dummy a free finesse; any other lead would give South a ruff-and-sluff.

As it happened, West had the king of spades and could lead a club through dummy. Declarer could play low from dummy, and East's queen would be trapped.

GOOD POSITION

Even if East had the ten of clubs, South would still be in position to try a finesse with the jack of clubs. South would go down only if West had the king of spades and East had both the queen and ten of clubs.

DAILY QUESTION

You have opened with 1-no trump, and partner has responded three spades.

You hold:
♠—Q 2

♦—A K 7 3

What do you say?

Answer: Bid 3-no trump.

Partner's jump asks you to show spade support if you have three or more spades; lacking such support, you are supposed to bid 3-no trump.

New Approach To Engineering

BERKELEY (UPI) — Graduate engineering students at the University of California are getting on-the-job training this year.

The new approach to engineering education puts students to work on actual design problems at the sprawling institution. The program applies case-study methods—long the backbone of teaching in law and medicine—to engineering. The Ford Foundation has alloted $110,000 for the project over the next four years.

ALMANAC

Today is Thursday, June 20, the 172nd day of 1968 with 194 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning star is Saturn. The evening star is Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1967 the American Independent party was formed to back George Wallace of Alabama for President.

A thought for the day: Roman playwright Platus once said, "Patience is the best remedy for every trouble."

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce, United States Coast Geodetic Survey. Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden Gate):

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Some Alternatives For Extra Income

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am middle-aged, single and working only part time because of illness. When I retire I will have no pension, just Social Security and dividends, so I would like to get all the income possible from my stock holdings. I have owned for about 10 years the following issues: Bank of America, Central National Bank, California Water, PG&E, Pacific Power & Light, Pacific Northwest Telephone, Purolator and Rockwell. Should I sell any of these? C. G.

A. Your list falls into two rather distinct categories: income and moderate growth holdings. If you do not need additional income at this time, I would keep the list as it now stands, since your four lower-yielding issues should continue to enhance your capital. However, if your part-time salary is not sufficient, then I would suggest accepting profits in Bank of America, Central National Bank and Purolator.

As replacements I would purchase equal dollar amounts of higher-yielding Lorillard, Ohio Edison and CIT Financial. PG&E common could be switched to the 6 per cent $1.50 preferred for a $60 annual increase in income.

Another possibility would be a high-yield bond such as Bell Telephone of Penn. 6¾ of 2008 of Houston Light & Power 6¾ of 1998. This would increase your return by close to $700 yearly. However, capital would remain fixed.

Q. I would like your opinion on American Cyanamid bought at 40. I can afford to hold. Should I? —J. R.

A. Since you can afford to wait it out, I feel you are wise to do just that. Some earnings recovery was reported in the first quarter and further gains are expected in the balance of the year.

In the 1850s, steamship passage from Ireland to America could be had for as little as $10, according to Collier's Encyclopedia.

Market Dips As Stocks Rise And Fall

NEW YORK (AP)—Gains had a wide margin over losses as the stock market closed in active trading today.

American Telephone, off ⅛ at 51⅛; Virginia Electric Power, up 1⅝ at 31; Great American Holdings, up 2 at 54; Great Western Financial, up ¾ at 21¼; Hooker Chemical, up 1⅝ at 64⅜; Xerox, up 5⅛ at 313⅞; IBM, up 5½ at 352¼; Eastman Kodak, off 2¼ at 81; and Control Data, up 3⅛ at 163⅛.

Volume for the first four hours was 12.54 million shares compared with 9.48 million Tuesday.

Pent-up demand from yesterday's market closing was cited as a reason for the big increases in volume, but it was not as large as last Thursday—which also followed a market recess—when a new record of 21.35 million shares was posted.

Due to weakness in some blue chips, the Dow Jones industrial average showed a loss, but the broadly based New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,200 common stocks posted a good gain. In the over-all list, gains outnumbered losses by about 300 issues.

Among other active stocks, American Telephone, up a fraction, continued to pace a rally by utilities which have been favored lately due to hopes that the tax increase would be passed.

Up a couple of points in active trading were great American Holdings and Nooker Chemical. Virginia Electric Power rose more than a point on big volume.

Great Western Financial paced savings-and-loan holding companies in a rally based on a report that the savings and loans had a net savings gain of $736 million in May.

WANTED — George Michael Gentile, a convicted murderer charged with extorting money while posing as a police officer, has been added to the FBI's list of 10 most wanted fugitives. Gentile, a native of New York aged 66, is described as 5 feet eight or nine inches tall and weighing 150 to 160 pounds. He has a medium build, brown, greying hair, blue eyes and fair complexion. He should be considered very dangerous, the FBI says.

Fireman Wins Chief's Role In Marinwood

Fireman Albert F. Anderson was promoted to chief of the Marinwood Fire Department last night by the Marinwood Community Services District directors.

At the same time, directors accepted the resignation of former Fire Chief James W. Cameron and hired three new men to bolster the staff to a total of five men including the new chief.

PAY SCALE

Anderson will get $714 from today and $750 from July 1. In six months he will be eligible for $788 per month. As fireman, he had been getting $586.

Chief Anderson has been with the Marinwood department for 10 months and was public safety officer in Sunnyvale for six years before that. He lives with his wife, Leah, and their three children at 99 Trish Drive in Novato.

Anderson, who had submitted his resignation from the department to become a Novato police officer, said today he has withdrawn the resignation to accept the fire chief's job.

OTHER HIRINGS

Newly hired as of today is James W. Jackson, 20, of San Rafael, a volunteer fireman in Marinwood since 1965. He will get $531 to start, $572 from July 1, and will be eligible for a $601 monthly salary in six months.

The other two new firemen, who will start next month, are Ronald Christiansen of Novato, who worked for the Marinwood department about a year before going to the Mare Island Fire Department a year ago, and Harvey Rapp, who has four years experience with the South Lake Tahoe Fire Department. Christiansen will start at $631 a month, and Rapp at $601. Directors decided that Anderson's basic work week will be 40 hours instead of the present 52 hours for the chief.

The Marinwood Community Services District Directors also:

NEW TIRES — Authorized purchase of four new tires for the fire truck at $118, and a muffler and tail pipe for $10.50.

STREET LIGHTS — Agreed to review street lights on Opalstone Terrace because of complaints that the street is too dark.

STUDENT HELP — Approved a work study agreement with College of Marin for using two students for the summer. The district will pay $400 of the $2,000 cost, with the college paying the rest.

PARK COMMISSION — Received a letter from Mrs. Duncan Gordon of 628 Blackberry Lane, who expressed interest in serving on the Marinwood Park and Recreation Commission.

ADJOURNED MEETING — Set an adjourned meeting for 8 p.m. June 26 at the community center to continue budget discussions.

Spock Conviction Ripped In Hanoi

TOKYO (AP) — The North Vietnam Lawyers' Association says a Boston court's conviction of Dr. Benjamin Spock and three others for counseling young men to avoid the draft "contravenes morality and law," Hanoi's Vietnam News Agency reported today.

"The verdict is a new proof of the Fascist policy in the United States," said a protest issued by the association.

The conviction, the association said, "added infamy to the Johnson government, an administration which has stopped at no brutal and dirty acts to hold to power."

Land Switch Made For School Access

The Marin County Committee on School District Organization last night agreed to a transfer of 10.4 area of underdeveloped land in Reedland Woods, to allow children easier access to Kentfield School, according to Mrs. Rachel Conner, chairman.

The transfer of land from Ross School District to Kentfield School District was requested by boards of trustees of both districts.

Children now have to go past Kentfield School to reach Ross School.

The transfer will also have to be approved by the board of supervisors and the state Board of Education, Mrs. Conner said.

The committee heard a report from Raymond J. Ahearn, county senior planner, on a report being prepared by the planning department on population projections for the county, based on census figures. Ahearn promised to bring in specific figures at the Aug. 21 meeting, Mrs. Conner said.

The committee will not meet in July.

Terra Linda Rec Budget Of $68,295 Wins Approval

The Terra Linda Recreation and Park District directors last night approved a 1968-69 budget of $68,295, slightly more than this year's $64,100. The tax rate will remain the same at 50 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Lawrence Wolfe, recreation supervisor, reported that a Fourth of July celebration will be held all day at Del Ganado Park with food, concession and games.

The directors approved a rock concert at Oleander Park on Saturday from noon to 4 p.m.

They also approved a work study contract with the College of Marin to hire two or three students for summer work. Of the $8,000 total cost, the district will pay $1,565, with the college paying the balance with the help of federal funds.

Honorable Mention Award Goes To I-J's Jim Kean

Independent-Journal photographer Jim Kean today won an honorable mention in the annual Associated Press California-Nevada newsphoto contest at Stanford University.

The entry, "Asphalt Anguish," earlier this month won Kean the $200 first prize in the "spot news" division in the annual California Press Photographers Association contest.

Today's award also was in the "spot news" category. First prize went to Reggie Sellas, San Bernardino Sun Telegram; second to Richard Drew, Pasadena Independent Star News, and third to Thomas T. Enomoto, Santa Ana Register.

Humphrey Seeks Reexamination Of Old Policies, Old Promises

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey called today for reexamination of the "old policies" but Republican Nels A. Rockefeller charges both Humphrey and GOP rival Richard M. Nixon want to relive the past.

And Nixon says the only way to bring change if Humphrey is the Democratic presidential nominee will be for Democrats, Republicans and independents to join Nixon, "marching under a Republican banner."

Humphrey, ending his campaign moratorium since Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's assassination, called for the policy reexamination in prepared National Press Club address.

He said the next president faces a new period in history in which "the old premises, the old policies, all the old way of doing things are being brought into question."

The vice president said "the status quo when it sustains hunger, injustice . . . or subjugation of one man by another" will not be accepted—but he did not say the old policies should be cast aside wholesale.

"There is nothing less in this," he said, "than the need to reexamine—and to change where necessary—our national priorities, the allocation of our resources, the structures and framework in which we work."

Humphrey said he means to rally Americans "to do whatever is necessary to make this Democratic system of ours bend and shape to new conditions as it always has before."

But New York Gov. Rockefeller said Humphrey would "live the last four years all over"—and he said Nixon, his opponent for the GOP nomination, advocates "the leadership that failed eight years ago."

Rockefeller made the direct, naming-names attack in Cleveland and said he had read newspaper reports Nixon would not accept his challenge to a debate.

"This is no time for coy evasion," Rockefeller continued. "I say this is the time to confront the great problems, not to hide from them."

WAY TO CHANGE

"If as generally expected Hubert Humphrey is the Democratic nominee," Nixon said, "there will be one way that those Democrats who want change can get a change"—voting for Nixon.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, Humphrey's Democratic opponent, was celebrating his decisive New York primary delegate victory—and said he will press for a share of the 65 additional delegates to be named later by the Democratic State Committee.

With some contests in New York's Tuesday primary still undecided, McCarthy had 52 of the 123 delegates at stake, allies of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy 25 and Humphrey 5, or possibly 6.

ROCKEFELLER DELEGATES

Rockefeller had 71 delegates automatically, plus two more in the 11 other contests in which his backers were challenged by those of Nixon. Nixon has two delegates.

Third party presidential candidate George C. Wallace, joining the debate over who can bring change, said in Jacksonville, Fla., that electing a Republican president would be "just changing horses, but not changing directions.

The Gallup Poll, meanwhile, showed Wallace leading both Nixon and Humphrey in five Dixie states.

EDUCATION SYMPOSIUM CHARGE

American Schools Producing Anxious, Manipulable People

By GLENN ANDERSON

American schools were attacked yesterday at a symposium in San Rafael for being "purely interested in the production of anxiety" and of "persons who are manipulable."

The charge was made by Peter M. Marin, director of Pacific High School in Palo Alto, a private school which frees students to choose their own activities and courses of study.

Marin was participating in a five-member panel discussion in the third day of a five-day symposium at Dominican College for 200 elementary and high school teachers, titled "Today's Youth: Growing Up Absurd?"

He charged that schools produce anxiety in disciplining students, the aim being to "get their energy" for use in commerce and industry.

He said his school, instead, is used "to give kids permission to do what they want to do" whether it be travel, working in a child care center or reading.

Students choose the activities they want to engage in or the classes, mostly small discussion groups, they want to take.

H. Leonard Richardson, headmaster of the Katharine Branson School in Ross, defended traditional formal education.

While allowing that "young people have something to say" and "schools should establish a dialogue," he maintained "one of the principal conditions for learning is listening."

Rev. William Burns, assistant pastor of St. Anselm's Catholic Church, the only non-teacher on the panel, said schools should transmit one generation's values to the next.

He said, "The question comes down to whether you believe we have the right to inculcate our value system in the young. I do."

Marin countered, "You do not have the privilege of calling anything the wrong path for someone else." He contended schools should leave students free to arrive at their own values.

Siding with Marin, was James Herndon, teacher from Daly City and author of "The Way It Spozed To Be," which tells of his experiences in schools in predominantly Negro areas of San Francisco — schools which, he said, failed to communicate with or benefit their students.

He described modern schools as "really custodial" and said, "Anything tried or true in today's schools has one purpose — to teach kids not to learn."

Herbert H. Williams, anthropology professor at San Francisco State College, said youngsters should be treated in the same manner as adults, not as a separate class to be disciplined and shaped into adults like their parents.

He said educators "have to treat youngsters not as people to do things to, but for."

Chamber Proposes July 4 Cleanup

The Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce yesterday adopted a resolution urging Corte Madera and Larkspur residents and merchants to "clean up and spruce up" the two cities for the joint Fourth of July celebration.

Copies of the request will be sent to merchants, chamber officials said.

The chamber elected Donald Beacock as the Corte Madera chamber representative on the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau board, replacing B. A. Sill, who is now a county chamber director-at-large.

Donald Gills and Harry Meharry were names to fill vacancies on the Corte Madera chamber board of directors, Richard Taricco was elected first vice president to finish the term of Robert Brant, who was transferred to another area.

Marin City Teen-Ager Denies Burglary Count

Innocent plea to a burglary charge was entered in Marin Municipal Court Tuesday by Kelly Sanford Walter, 19, of 383 Drake Avenue, Marin City.

Preliminary hearing was scheduled for 9:30 a.m. Tuesday. Walter is accused of burgling a building occupied by James Lowell O'Brien of 311 Coloma Street, Sausalito, on Saturday.

545,600 Population For Marin By 2020

Marin will have a population of 388,000 by 1990 and 545,600 by 2020, according to projections by the Bay Area Simulation Study (BASS), a computerized mathematical "model" developed over the past six years to forecast trends of population, economics, employment and land use for the nine Bay Area counties.

The BASS study was prepared by the Center for Real Estate and Urban Economics, Institute of Urban and Regional Development, at the University of California at Berkeley.

The projected 1990 population for the nine counties is 6,952,000.

The forecasts for Marin are considerably lower than one made in 1966 by the Association of Bay Area Governments, which predicted 450,000 population by 1990.

The BASS computer also cranked out these predictions for Marin for 1990 and 2020: single family dwellings will increase from 55,696 to 129,448; multiple housing units will rise from 15,479 to 44,586; land in residential use will rise from 18,435 acres to 51,133 acres.

Land in commercial use will rise from 744 acres to 2,420. Land in manufacturing and wholesale uses will rise from 292 acres to 2,593, and land in public and recreation use will increase from 83,470 to 112,657 acres.

These increases will come from agricultural, mining and construction land, which will shrink from 94,408 to 59,689 acres.

Marin employment will rise from 5,121 to 40,420 in wholesaling and manufacturing, from 8,675 to 28,815 in retail trade, from 26,131 to 90,321 in service jobs, and from 16,132 to 43,745 in military and other employment not classified. The total employment pegged at 56,060 in 1990, will reach 203,301 in 2020.

Search, Not Quiz, Led To Arrests

Search of a car rather than questioning of two Fairfax men, as reported in a Monday Independent-Journal article, resulted in the finding of a parcel containing what police believe to be marijuana.

The pair, Gary Vernon Scozzafava, 20, and Lawrence Michael Lenhart, 19, was arrested last Thursday by San Anselmo police and have been arraigned in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of marijuana possession. Plea entries are scheduled for 1:30 p.m. tomorrow.

The article also erroneously said that another supply of the substance was found in Lenhart's possession while he was being booked at county jail. Booking officers said they found more than $700 and a supply of plastic sandwich bags on Lenhart.

MOBILE HOME ON THE WATER—Room and relaxation is the secret to houseboating's popularity. Large, relatively calm bodies of water and rivers, such as California's 1,000 miles of delta waterways and Lake Shasta, are favorite cruising grounds for devotees. Most units are outboard powered and feature all the comforts of home. Popular boating areas have houseboat rentals.

Modern Houseboats Meeting Many Needs

Boating has the answer for those who dream of owning an island for get-away-from-it-all vacations. Meet the modern houseboat, the portable island with all the conveniences of home and all the potential to lull passengers into the mood of the South Seas.

Room, not speed, is the essence of houseboating Houseboats run from 18 to more than 50 feet, and selecting the best model for a particular family is similar to choosing a summer home.

The "typical" houseboat has private bedrooms, toilet and shower, complete galley (that's a kitchen, landlubbers!), a heating unit and a deck-patio for sunning and outdoor entertainment.

The houseboat-island is particularly suited for fishing and swimming. Large lakes and rivers offer the best water for houseboating. The quiet coves are ideal parking places, as are the sandbars along the rivers.

Hunting One Of Nation's Traditional Fall Sports

Call it the oldest instinct — atavistic, the dictionaries say. Label it "Man Against Nature" — survival of the fittest. Color it autumn; chalk it up to frost on the pumpkin.

But, whatever the name, or the inspiration to over 16 million Americans each fall hunting assumes the role of more than just another sport.

What is it that urges a man to take to the woods, the fields, the marshes with gun and dog; to give up his warm bed to face the frosty morn, hunkered in a duck blind or trudging the side hills, always searching, searching? The quest's answer continues to elude absolute definition to any save the hunter himself; for he feels rather than examines it.

Hunting is, of course, one of the few traditional sports that still tie us, in an active participation sense, to our pioneering forefathers of an earlier, more romantic age. It's also a fine way of getting outdoors, close to nature, closer perhaps than by any other means.

In a sense, too, it's a study — consciously or subconsciously — of the obvious and the subtle things of which some vestige of modern man still yearns to belong.

Yet, citing all that hunting is, it's perhaps most of all . . . fun. Such fun used to be strictly part of the males' domain. But no longer. Today, more than a million women hunt, and each year the number grows.

Nor does the hunting urge bow to boundaries. Urban and suburban dwellers vie with ruralites in enthusiasm. And such programs as "Father and Son Hunting Seminars" have helped turn many a metropolitan dad and youngster duo's gunning dreams into joyful reality.

Despite public hunting land shrinkage, no one need forego the outdoor recreational pleasures of hunting.

Thanks to commercial hunting preserves, even the metropolitanite can get a crack at matching wits and skill with hard-flying pheasants, quail, chukar partridges, and mallards during a season that runs for six months in most states.

Big game hunting also is offered at many preserves, where all the thrills of stalking trophy animals are duplicated within a short drive of the big city.

With so many others enjoying hunting, there must be something to it. Why not try it yourself this fall?

Don't Overload Your Automobile

Soon will come the first morning of your long-awaited vacation. So will the thought that you just know you've forgotten something. Make sure that forgotten something isn't a safely loaded vehicle.

Overload your car and you can expect the worst. Heavy trunk loads dangerously alter steering and headlight aim. Before departing for the wild blue yonder, cast a roving eye over your load, assuring yourself that its weight doesn't exceed the weight your tires can carry safely.

BUILT FOR WESTERN WATERS

All Luhrs fiberglass boats utilize a modified deep-V hull which planes quickly, yet rides smoothly through rough open seas. Outstanding in the new line is this 33-foot fiberglass sedan cruiser with flying bridge and dual controls. It is available through Seaway Marine in San Rafael.

Backyard Now Should Have Pool Table

NEW YORK (UPI) —Just in time for spring and summer—

A backyard pool—not for swimming, but for outdoor billiards. A new kind of indoor-outdoor pool table has moved the popular game outdoors for the summer, to patio or beside the swimmpng pool.... Although the new tables play like the professional slate-bed type, actually they are built like a boat hull and are designed to be at home under the blazing sun of desert resort, in the rain of a jungle military rest camp or in recreational areas anywhere. A snap-on canvas cover saves shoveling snow, or raking leaves.

$15 Billion Home Improvements Seen

The Home Improvement Coordinating Committee predicts that soon — perhaps this year — American families will spend $15 billion on home improvements.

In recent years, there has been a distinct trend toward outdoor living, and this trend is now reflected in some areas of home remodeling, the American Gas Association, Inc. reports.

The most common add-on outdoor remodeling project is the patio. It improves property value while providing family fun by creating a vacationland right in your own backyard.

The moderately handy homeowner can build his own patio with a variety of materials that are available. Tasteful gardening and landscaping further enhance the backyard, while outdoor lighting adds a new dimension to property.

Like baseball, outdoor cooking has become a national pastime . . . a perennial favorite for family fun and relaxation. With recent developments in equipment, the advantages of a park can be right in your backyard.

Just as outdoor lighting lengthens day into evening, gas infra-red patio heaters extend the outdoor season. Infra-red heat warms solid objects but not the air around them, thereby concentrating the heat where it's needed. You and your guests stay warm, yet you aren't forced to heat the whole outdoors!

The best thing about bringing the great outdoors to your own backyard is that you don't have to do it all at once. It's a continuing project in which you assert your individuality while keeping in step with those who enjoy gracious living.

OVER THEIR HEADS—Two examples of how children can become home pool accident victims if basic safety rules are ignored. A young non-swimmer (top left) relies on inner tube to keep him afloat in deep water. He's in trouble when the tube suddenly deflates—top right. After riding tricycle through unlocked pool gate, youngster enjoys poolside ride alone — bottom left. Partially submerged trike — bottom right — is mute reminder of tragedy that can strike when children are in pool area without close supervision.

10 Tips Given To Aid In Home Pool Safety

Most of the victims will be children. Most will die needlessly.

The home pool has no waves, tides, or motorboats to worry about. Yet, despite certain safety advantages over the lake or shore, pools too often are the sites of unnecessary accidents.

A two-year-old boy was riding his tricycle in the back yard as his mother watched him from the living room window. Her attention was diverted by a telephone call. While she talked "for two or three minutes" her son rode his shiny red tricycle into the family's swimming pool and drowned.

This tragedy occurred because the boy's family violated the first two rules on this list of 10 "musts" for home pool safety:

1. In-ground pools should be fenced by high vertical wooden slabs with pointed tops or chain link fences with inwardly slanted tops of some sharp material such as barbed wire. Gates to permanent above-ground pools should be kept locked and ladders to plastic above-ground pools should be removed when pools are not in use.

2. Watch children closely. Lack of supervision is the largest single cause of toddlers' drownings. An occasional glance from a house window is not enough. You must be outside with your child.

3. Under no circumstances should a child who cannot swim be allowed to use inflated toys. Such playthings are not lifesavers but potential killers. They may tempt young swimmers to try feats beyond their ability.

4. Your pool skimmer can be used to fish drowning swimmers out of the pool. Keep it handy at all times, along with a complete first-aid kit.

5. Post safety rules, emergency procedures, and first aid instructions on permanent signs near the pool. Keep emergency telephone numbers next to the phone.

6. Bottles, glassware, food, and barbecue equipment should be kept away from poolside—and barefoot swimmers.

7. Construct poolside pavements of roughly textured cement or use an abrasive paint to prevent slippery surfaces.

8. Mark the depth of in-ground pools with permanent paint and divide shallow and deep sections with buoy lines.

9. Be sure the water is deep enough for the height of your diving board. Depth must be a minimum of eight feet for a "low board." For boards 10-16 feet high, the water depth shouid equal the height of the board.

10. Allow only a professional electrician to install and repair wiring, pumps, and lighting fixtures. Keep portable electrical equipment 10 feet from the pool to reduce the danger of shock.

Boat Range

In numbers that have more than doubled to some 100,000 over the past decade, smaller open-cockpit sailboats ranging up to 24 ft. in length will be seen this summer traveling the nation's highways on trailers behind the cars of vacationing families. With wives and children for crew on the two or three-person small boats, the vacationing sailors will usually be en route to major regional or national regattas staged annually by the largest sailboat classes.

Put It On Tape

When your family maps out summer vacation plans which includes the wheres and when but also what to take and what to leave behind, a helpful tip is to carry along a small, battery-operated tape recorder. Coupled with a little ingenuity, the tape recorder can capture new adventures and sounds to serve as remembrance of your trip.

Desert Is Proving Ideal For Vacations

Desert vacations can be fun.

In the colorful desert, a traveler finds rest and relaxation as well as, if he wants it, recreation in many forms.

Poking around ancient cemeteries can be interesting.

In and around the desert lie numerous old ghost towns inviting your exploration. For reliving the wild days of the Old West, nothing beats a visit to these deserted but truly historic sites.

Then there are those who like to wander around desert canyons.

Each is pretty much of a rock hound. Carved in all colors of the rainbow, these canyons prove an exciting source of semiprecious stones. Experts, if you will, discover samples of onyx, hyacinth, agate, and amethyst too.

Some also take advantage of all that gold free for the panning.

With one click of the camera, a photography buff adds still another shot of the spectacular new vista. Natural wonders that flourish in the desert aren't to be found anywhere else.

Resembling a festive bridal procession that moves with dignity, those creamy-white yuccas sway gently in the wind. Captured on camera, the plants stay with you as a picture that brings bright memories for the rest of your life.

Bury all unburnable refuse (cans, bottles, foil, etc.) away from your campsite. Get the youngsters to help. Blow the whistle for a scavenger race. Award a prize or treat for whoever brings in the most litter.

'Track Of The Cat' Call Lures Many Vacationers

"Track of the cat."

That pleasant mountain air fills your lungs as you drive leisurely along the winding road taking you to higher, then still higher altitudes. All at once you spot those tracks in the dust. There's no mistake about it. These are the tracks of the mountain lion.

California hosts two subspecies of this, the largest member of its feline residents. Living in the southeastern deserts of California, the Yuma mountain lion is distinguishable from the California mountain lion by the fact that the former is pale yellow in color and the latter is gray. The California mountain lion roams over the mountains and brushlands in most of the state.

You'll find the big cats ranging over an area of about 20 miles, with the males covering much more territory. To teach her cubs the things young lions must know, the female confines herself to a smaller area.

Breeding at any time of the year, mountain lions usually give birth to their young during the summer months. Like house cats, born with their eyes open, the cubs in the first weeks of their life measure about one foot in length and weigh about one pound.

What a difference from their parenst who measure from six to eight feet in length from nose to tip of tail. While the females seldom weigh over 110 pounds, the males can weigh as much as 165 pounds.

Another special feature separates the newborn from their parents. Cubs display black markings spotted throughout their coats, these markings disappearing by the time the kittens reach their first birthday. It is then that they leave their mother, carrying enough weight, about 50 pounds, and becoming skilled enough to stalk their own prey, but small prey.

Adult lions prefer deer, their principal food, and so live in the same range as deer. But the wild, big cats prey on almost any animal that comes within their reach.

They usually get within a short distance of the luckless victim and capture it in a sudden bounding attack. Big animals they bite near the base of the skull to kill. To save the remainder of a kill for a future feast, mountain lions attempt to cover it.

If you've a mind to track the cat down, it takes quite some doing. Chances are you won't succeed. But listen for this call of the wild, the mountain lion's call sounding somewhat like a bird's. Don't expect the big cat to scream. He rarely does. Understandably, he does frighten people with his deep, menacing growls, his habit of spitting explosively.

$15 Can Provide Novice With Suitable Beginning Fishing Gear

Manufacturers have taken most of the mystery out of fishing equipment so that even a novice can be well-equipped for a fishing venture for less than $15.

Depending on the location and type of fishing, that amount will buy a good serviceable rod and reel combination, a supply of line, an assortment of lures, hooks, snaps and sinkers.

Like any other sport, fishing requires some skill, but even a little bit of practice will make the venture more productive and more enjoyable. Most stores which sell tackle also give good fishing locations, types of lures to use, methods and hours for fishing and similar information.

It's a good idea to rig up the rods and reels even before you leave for the fishing spot and — tying on a practice plug or small weight of some kind — make a few practice casts in the back yard.

With small youngsters, you might not want to go after lunker bass on the first trip, though they haven't yet identified a fisherman who would turn down such a prize. Mom and the kids, if they haven't fished much, get as much kick out of fishing for bream, sunfish, perch and crappies — all small species — as they do big fish anyway and it's a good way to break into the sport.

Fishing either in a boat or on shore or dock, it just takes a few moments to rig a line. With the line threaded through the guides of the rod, a small swivel can be attached to the end. The other end of the swivel can be attached to a small bobber. Another swivel can be attached to the other hole in the bobber and a leader attached to this swivel.

A hook is added to the leader and when you add a worm, a salmon egg, a minnow or any other suitable bait to the hook, the outfit is ready for the first cast.

If the bobber doesn't start to dance the first few minutes, you need not get discouraged. Fish are sometimes curious characters and wary of intrusions into their habitat. A little patience and experimentation with different locations will usually land some fish in a few minutes. Generally, when you catch one fish in a certain place it's a pretty good sign that there are more right in the neighborhood, so keep casting in the same area until no strikes are felt for some time.

One of the most common mistakes made by novice anglers is allowing slack to creep into the line after the fish is hooked. This gives the fish a chance to shake the hook and get away.

When playing a fish, the angler should try to keep the rod tip nearly vertical to keep slack out of the line. If the fish makes a run in the water the rod tip will be pulled toward the horizontal and line will be carried off the reel, but as soon as the fish stops his rush, the tip should be brought up again and the line retrieved.

Eventually, the fish becomes exhausted and can be netted or grasped by the gill covers and brought in.

To top it all off, try filleting and cooking your fish over a campfire. Any angler can tell you that the taste of freshly caught fish cooked in the great outdoors is better than anything you could order in the finest seafood restaurant in the world.

Plastic laundry bags with a zippered top are mighty handy for toting all sorts of damp items when traveling by camper. Solves the problem of wet suits from the last swim before heading home.

Fresh Water

A cubic foot of fresh water weighs about 62 pounds, and of salt water about 64 pounds. This difference is enough, however, so that a cubic yard of ocean water contains about 47 pounds of salt. So — take care of your brightwork by washing it down.

Tips For Teaching Fishing Techniques

Teaching your son — or daughter — how to fish can be one of the most rewarding experiences of your life.

Although skill is important, it should play a secondary role when launching a boy or girl onto the path of being a fisherman.

Too many adults overlook the fun aspect of fishing when taking youngsters out for the first time. We lose too many of them because the lessons become boring or dull.

One of the easiest ways of starting a beginner off on the right foot is to show him, step-by-step, how to rig a rod, put the line on a reel, how to set the reel properly on rod handle, how to attach swivel properly to the line, and how to tie the simple fishing knots.

It might surprise you to know such a refresher course may even help you, the teacher.

Just as important in being able to cast a lure 100 to 150 feet, is the necessity of being accurate with each cast.

It would do the beginner no good to be able to cast a country mile, if he can't lay his lure up against some log, or next to some lily pads, where the lunkers hide out.

To help the student angler in casting accurately, have him place a waste-paper basket about 20 feet out and try to cast the practice plug into that basket.

The effort at first will be pathetic. Being persistent will soon lead to hitting the mark more frequently. As improvement increases, keep moving the basket back until it is 50 to 60 feet away.

Outfitting a beginner doesn't cost much. It can be done for less than $15. Such an outlay would fetch a serviceable rod and reel, line, various lures, leaders, and swivels.

Start out slow. Don't harp about making big catches. Let the tyro learn the value and fun of tangling with fiesty pan fish like bluegill, perch, white bass, or bullhead.

Once the beginner makes a few catches, he'll be hooked on this sport just as much as any old grizzled veteran of the waters.

GOOD ANGLERS START YOUNG — There is more to fishing than baiting a hook or dropping a line in the water. Young anglers should get the feel of the rod and learn the value of practice casting but should enjoy the fun aspects of the sport.

Check The Weather Before Vacation

Had any luck controlling the wind and waves lately? Know anyone who can make a storm subside? Or anyone other than He? Fact is, we can't control the weather — but we can control our exposure to it.

So check the weather reports before you go to sea. And if it looks like bad weather coming, say, "We don't sail today." That's why they call you Captain.

Ski Upswing

Government recreation experts predict water skiing participation will increase 114 per cent in the next ten years. On the basis of current participation, this means there could be upwards of 17,000,000 skiers by 1977 and, as the American Water Ski Association says, "That's a lot of people having a lot of fun by any calculation!"

Know State's Laws Ruling Trailer Use

Do you own a trailer or plan to buy one soon? If the answer is yes, you should become thoroughly familiar with California rules governing the use of trailers.

Follow these two basic practices: Increase following distance and reduce speed. Trailerized vehicles take much longer to stop, and remember, in California, the maximum speed limit for pulling trailers is 50 miles an hour.

Professionalism dictates that you drive in the right-hand lane, except when passing or preparing to make a left turn. If you are a beginner, you can still act like a pro.

Vision may become seriously hampered if the trailer or its load obstructs the rear window. Under these circumstances, the law requires two rear-view mirrors, one on either side of the car.

WATER SKIING IN FOUR STEPS — 1. When you are near the water, wet your ski bindings and your feet. Your feet will slide in place easier. 2. Grasp the tow line handle and lower yourself into a sitting position with skis about six inches apart, your knees together and arms outstretched. This simulates the starting position in the water. 3. Have your instructor pull you into standing position, knees slightly flexed. Repeat the process several times. The feeling is the same you will experience when an outboard pulls you to the surface. 4. Repeat 2 and 3 in the water — and hang on.

Learning To Water Ski Can Be Easy

"Learning to water ski is much easier than it looks. In fact, it is not uncommon for a beginner to get up and ski away on the very first try.

The best water skiers in the U.S. reside at Florida's Cypress Gardens. Buster MacCalla, one of the Gardens' top skiers, says: "Learning to ski is easy, and it is the extension of skiing skills into single ski (slalom), jumping and tricks that becomes the challenge."

A sense of balance and a knowledge of such simple fundamentals as keeping the arms straight, knees slightly bent and letting the towboat do the work are about all that is required of the average beginning skier, MacCalla says. And age is no barrier. The American Water Ski Association (AWSA) has skiers on record as young as three and as old as 85.

"A good towboat should be relatively lightweight, highly maneuverable and propelled by enough horsepower to pull an average-size man at least 25 miles an hour along the surface of the water," he advises.

Ordinarily this means at least 50 horsepower, depending on the boat hull, but outboards of less horsepower have proved perfectly satisfactory for simple, around-the-lake skiing.

Wear a life jacket or a life belt when water-skiing. Even a strong swimmer can conserve energy by letting a lifejacket buoy him.

An eye should be kept on the skier, either by a rear vision mirror or by a second person in the boat — a requirement, by the way, of many of a state's boating laws.

Half the battle of balance is won by keeping the tow line taut. When the line becomes slack, the skier loses power and slows down. Beginners often cause this by trying to take up the slack by drawing the bar toward themselves. Don't. Let the boat do the work.

Releasing the tow line is the same as taking your foot off the gas. Power is removed and you stop. The important thing is to gauge where you stop . . . you may glide as far as 20 yards. So never head directly toward shore. You should be towed parallel to it, and then release.

The AWSA, governing body of the organized sport in the U.S., reports last year nearly 10 million Americans water skied. And for those who master the sport, the AWSA sanctions more than 100 water ski tournaments each year.

Its 250 affiliated water ski clubs throughout the country sponsor at least twice that many lesser meets for the growing number of skiers who want to test their skills against others.

Make Careful Checks Of Auto Before Starting Vacation Trip

Vacation travel by automobile can be a completely satisfactory experience for the motorist and his family or a partial or complete disappointment if certain necessary precautions are not taken.

Vacationing motorists should make several precautionary checks of their vehicles to predetermine that needed adjustments or repairs are completed prior to departure so that breakdowns and lost time may be avoided.

Vacation driving is usually not the same kind of driving that owners' vehicles are subjected to during other periods of the year. Only the long distance driver such as a salesman covering a large territory is faced with conditions similar to those confronting the vacationing motorist.

Today's normal driver encounters constant stop-and-go traffic during his daily routines. Vacationing motorists are apt to travel long distances at rates of speed above what they normally would drive in areas near their homes. Also, they may visit the mountains or the desert and in each area of travel find variable conditions which affect the performance of their vehicle.

There are many things which can be done before travel starts which might prevent discomfort and delays which could ruin an otherwise well-planned vacation trip. Attention should be paid to the braking system, the condition of the engine, engine and chassis lubrication, the engine cooling system and tire condition and air pressure.

Brake linings on all four wheels should be checked by a reliable dealer providing reliable brake service who is also qualified to check for correct brake fluids, leads and possible loss of fluid.

An engine tune-up with any necessary replacement or adjustment of spark plugs and distributor points prevents improper functioning of the engine and will add to fuel economy.

Lubrication of the chassis and running parts can prevent breakdown and give more comfortable riding conditions. Lubrication instructions contained in the owner's manual should be followed and oil filters changed when required.

There are three areas of attention to motoring which do not get the inspection they deserve. For some unknown reason we pay too little attention to tires until we discover one has gone flat and we seldom check the water level of the battery or coolant level of the radiator.

Tires with bald spots or uneven wear can result in potential trouble and the possibility of serious accidents. Improper wheel alignment or wheels out of balance can cause uneven tire wear. Uneven tire wear can result in blowouts when temperatures build up while traveling at high speeds. Good tires properly inflated are as important as good brakes.

Radiator coolant levels and battery water levels must be maintained for normal motoring but when traveling through mountainous country or our desert lands, they become increasingly important. In warmer sections of the United States vehicles may have a tendency to overheat unless the cooling system is in top-notch condition.

Battery water can evaporate and if a sufficient quantity is lost, starting problems can result. Engine overheating is more apt to occur in vehicles with air conditioning when operating at low speeds or city stop-and-go driving. If this occurs, a reduction in engine heat can be effected by turning off the air conditioning and accelerating the engine for a brief period.

All belts from the engine drive to the fan, water pump and air conditioning unit should be checked for condition and proper tension prior to any long distance travel, he said, and added that if night driving is planned, all lamps should be checked with special emphasis on properly aimed headlights.

Any vacation travel contemplated with house or boat trailer attached to the automobile requires additional inspection, with particular attention to hitches, tires, brakes and trailer lights.

Proper conditioning of your car prior to long trips will add to your driving pleasure. Of equal importance is to drive safely and make proper use of the safety features built into your car such as turn signals, stop lights and properly aimed headlights and especially use your seat belts and insist that your passengers "Buckle Up for Safety."

Take Games On Trip For The Children

Keeping children amused on a camping trip generally presents few problems, but it's a wise mother who has a few games up her sleeve for those long drives between campgrounds. Crayons and coloring books help pass the time, too. Plan to make frequent stops along the way — at a gas station, a scenic lookout, or for an ice cream cone — to break up the monotony. The driver will appreciate the chance to relax, too.

Rainy days sometimes present a challenge, but they need not. A rainy day box has solved the predicament for one mother. She packs it with puzzles, an engrossing game or two, construction paper, paste and scissors, knitting needles and yarn and model cars. To retain the element of surprise, the box is only brought out when the weather is inclement.

Other families save some of their sightseeing for rainy days. Maps will reveal many tourist attractions — waterfalls, ghost towns, fire towers, museums, etc. The local gas station is a good source of information. Inquire there about sports events, rodeos, art exhibits, and summer theaters. And last but not least, the nearest movie house may have a family type picture you'll all enjoy.

Be sure and have plenty of dry clothes and see that everyone is equipped with raingear.

Change The Normal Routine For A Vacation At Home

While a vacation at home is delightful for most men, women often have to be urged to give it a try. The main trick is to change the normal routine so that the lady of the house is not stuck on the same old round of cooking and bedmaking. Here are suggestions for a memorable home vacation:

1. Get in the right mood: remind yourself that you are on vacation, that you're entitled to a rest, and that it's not sinful to leave the bed unmade.

2. Get some help: hire a teenager for two weeks to help with the children.

3. Stay out of the kitchen: on vacation, you're entitled to go out to dinner every night, go on picnics (sandwiches from the delicatessen) or take a supper tray up to bed.

4. Install central air conditioning in your home . . . a treat you can enjoy for many years to come, and pay for in easy stages, if you like.

With the air conditioning installed, the routine of housework instantly becomes easier. The house stays cleaner, and there's less need for constant vacuuming.

5. Streamline the house: get rid of the clutter so the place will look cool as it feels, and so the housework is cut to the bone. If possible, get your teenager to do the housework, or get in a cleaning woman.

6. Pamper yourself. It's your vacation — so have breakfast in bed, long morning baths, undisturbed manicures — even hairdressing apointments . . . Dress prettily — some women don't feel they're on vacation unless they're in high heels; others prefer the bathing suit approach. Either way, try to dress differently from your usual at-home pattern.

7. Schedule a few special occasions: the theater, an amusement park, an overnight visit to another town. Take the kids on a picnic, or a fishing trip.

8. Catch up on your entertaining: you can actually enjoy a couple of well-planned dinner parties in your newly cooled home — especially if that solid-gold teen-ager keeps the kids out of your hair.

9. Concentrate on relaxing. There's no law against reading a book before lunch, or taking a nap after lunch, or just sitting and watching the grass grow.

10. Finally — don't take your vacation to catch up on things you've been meaning to do, like cleaning the closets or making bathroom curtains. Postpone the constructive chores till later.

Patio And Decks Part Of House

Patios and decks are "outdoor rooms" and should be part of an over-all plan for house and property.

Tacked-on outdoor facilities not only suggest a poorly planned house but shoddy construction — and very likely won't be very satisfactory in use. Patio or deck should carry out and complement the design of the house. In many cases even the same materials can be used.

Location should take into consideration the need for both privacy and view. There should be easy access to it from parts of the house most used in the daytime and necessary to entertaining.

Sometimes the outside facility can improve an unfortunate site feature. It can be built over uneven, useless land, level out a slope or raise depressed terrain. Its size should be appropriate to house and property.

Reflection Note

Hazy sunlight on a white beach or pavement can cause more discomfort than very bright sunlight on green field. It's not the amount of sunlight but the amount of reflection that causes discomfort. In a green field, sunlight is mostly absorbed and little is reflected. On a white surface — snow, beaches or roads, for example —as much as 90 per cent can be reflected.

Cheaper Shopping

If your vacation budget's straining at all the extra things you need — children's playclothes, swimwear, equipment for outdoor living — check your local Gooodwill Industries before despairing. Shops feature a vast selection of bargain-priced, almost-new apparel and miscellaneous items, all repaired and refinished by skilled handicapped workers who restore donated merchandise.

Beach Outings Becoming A Popular Family Outing

Day in and day out, the patterns of urban life seem the same. The pressures of business seem to smother you. It's high time for your big escape.

Your big escape takes you to the ocean, where patterns of life change every eight hours. There you'll go beachcombing, one of the great weekend hobbies. On our California beaches adventure comes with each turn of the tide.

What endless bounty will the next tide toss upon the shore? Finding out should bring you much delight, especially if you should happen across a tide pool at low tide, which may open a whole new world to you, a vast underwater world of sea anemone, starfish, sea urchin, and many more.

Arising from the popular interest in collecting things, be it stamps or bottle caps, the current trend of inspecting nature's handiwork at the beach draws hundreds to that invigorating combination of smells coming from sea-foaming sands and fresh currents.

Whatever you collect in the way of sea treasures, you'll agree with your comrades that time really does fly. Among elite beachcombers, the conchologists concentrate on seashells and perhaps you plan to do likewise. Recognizing these shells, over 90 per cent of which measure only a half-inch or less in size, takes lots of practice. Sink knee-deep in mud and you might even bring out a shell up to eight inches long, a corkscrew-shaped periwinkle shell. Better still, you might locate a rare shell that differs from others of its kind, being perhaps twisted in reverse.

In case you want to use a bit of the old imagination and seashells don't stir it, try hunting for worthwhile pieces of driftwood among the helter-skelter scatterings of all sizes and shapes on wide, windswept beaches. Ingenious souls mold driftwood into lamps, paperweights, or hat racks. Do with it what you will.

Magnificent beds of pismo clams lie on various beaches too. But wait for a low tide before trying your hand. Without that willingness to get wet, you can't expect to meet with success. And don't forget that you need a clamming fork to dig up those delectables.

Interested in a more unusual delicacy? In some parts of California, gourmets uncover small octopuses by turning over exposed rocks at low tide. Rocky beaches also allow for a novel way of fishing without reeling, called pokepole fishing. Catch your fancy? Then use a long heavy pole with a short heavy line tied to the end and you'll probably lift out some eel, sea trout, cabezon, or perch.

Where there's good pokepole fishing, there are probably also pebble beaches containing jade, agate, jaspar, and other fine beach-polished stones. If you're careful in the attempt, you'll have a good chance of discovering some pretty gemstones too.

"Rough it" — but not your hands. For campfire clean-up, wear rubber gloves — especially for the pan scouring.

Summer Is Go-Go Time; Keep Auto In Condition

Summer's the go-go-time of the year. It's go for a drive . . . go to the beach for the day . . . go to the country for weekends . . . go on vacation. And every expedition, no matter how small calls for carting something or other, be it no more than a change of shoes.

One of the greatest gifts to goers is a new double-wall quilted plastic bag. It has the sturdiness needed to tote other than featherweight objects . . . side gussets that let it accommodate odd shapes . . . lack of static cling which enables whatever's destined to be stowed, to slip in easily.

Since your car represents home base for most of your summer sorties, stock the glove compartment with a supply of all three sizes . . . quart, 2-quart, and gallon-size bags. Hang one of the large ones on the dashboard where it will stay staunchly open to welcome litter and help keep America beautiful. The large size will also accommodate the damp swim gear.

If fishing is the purpose of the outing, the day's catch will keep smells to themselves when stored in a quilted bag.

When preparing for the weekend trek or a two week's vacation, here are a few ways to perk up your packing.

Use the gallon-size bag in place of shoe bags which you never know quite where to store between trips or how often to launder. Stow stockings in the small size bags to guard them against snags. Bag your bottles and your packed wear will never reek from a leak. The bags' quilting provides protective cushioning for breakables. Haircare accoutrements are always handy when corraled in a quilted bag and the sweet scent from hair spray can't permeate the suitcase. If you prefer washing with a workmanlike piece of soap instead of the miserly sliver provided by most motels and hotels, pack a cake in a bag.

And pack a couple of empty spares in your luggage too . . . the large size preferably for the return trip home.

Lock Belongings

Plan Your Outdoor Menu Minus Too Many Calories

Pity the poor picnicker who already has too many bulges. That sizzling hamburger, by itself, is practically harmless, but put it on a bun and serve with all the other picnic goodies — potato salad, baked beans, chocolate cake — and the diet is shot. Or is it?

Not if you plan your summertime menus so you can really enjoy those picnics without worrying about adding weight. Such tasty items as fresh fruits and vegetables, together with formula dietaries, make the planning easy, delicious and nutritious.

When you plan the menu and pack the picnic lunch, be sure to include plenty of carrot and celery sticks, both for you and the non-dieters. Or, if you prefer a hot lunch, you can heat soup while the children are grilling their cheeseburgers and hot dogs.

Picnics don't have to be fattening, and dieting is easy when you use calorie-controlled formula dietaries that provide proper nutrition. You and your family will both have the best summer if you will join in the fun, but not in the calories!

SPECIAL EQUIPMENT FOR HEAVY TOWING

This Oldsmobile Vista-Cruiser is equipped with heavier shock absorbers, heavy-duty engine cooling and an extra high voltage ignition system for towing large trailers. An important rule to remember, whenever you're going: Never tow anything heavier than the car you are driving.

Safety Rules Easy To Learn When Towing A Camping Trailer

After a little practice, there's nothing especially difficult about towing or parking a camping trailer. Get the feel of your trailer behind your car a little bit before you start and keep these helpful pointers in mind:

Starting from a dead stop with a trailer calls for slower and more even acceleration than ever. Also give yourself more clearance in the traffic flow to provide for your increased length and decreased initial speed.

Stopping safely will depend on your tire condition, brakes, the weather, your speed and the condition of the road. Make a practice "quick stop" early in your trip to learn the effects of the trailer on your stopping ability.

When making turns, remember that the rear wheels will not quite exactly follow the path of the front wheels of your car. Make allowance for this. Leave additional room and clearance by driving a little beyond the turning point before making your turn.

When passing, keep in mind that the trailer will slightly decrease your passing acceleration and you'll need more "clear" highway ahead than usual to pass another vehicle. With your increased length you'll need more room in front of the vehicle you're passing and you'll have to wait a little longer before you can pull back into your normal lane.

Those who want to make a trial run in a camper trailer can rent one by the day or week from one of the estimated 500 rental agencies across the country. Depending on the equipment rented, the rental fee may be $40 to $65 a week.

Some rental agencies permit the renter to apply this to the purchase price of the trailer later.

Campers towing a trailer for the first time should remember that legal maximum speeds are lower in most states with a trailer than without. The trailer must be wired, complete to directional signals.

Most camper trailers do not have their own brake systems, unless their gross weight is more than 1,500 pounds. Frame hitches are better than bumper hitches, and safety chains are a must. Dealers usually can install trailer hitches.

Then, with his trailer hitched and his car pointed toward some favorite vacation areas, the camper scarcely knows the little outfit is following him, at least not until he stops in the campgrounds.

Maintaining An Outboard Easy, Well Worth Time It May Need

Maintaining that outboard — whether it be a small fishing "kicker" or a monster designed to tow a squadron of water skiers — is easy . . . if you follow a few simple service tips.

In the spring, before the winter's coat of dust is wiped off and the starter rope pulled for the first time, a simple program will go a long ways toward insuring trouble-free summer fun on the water.

First check the spark plugs. Remove, clean, inspect and gap them, replace defective plugs and install new gaskets. Next, check the engine's oil level; if you didn't drain and refill with fresh lubricant in the fall, do it now.

Clean the engine surfaces. Check the battery for a full charge, clean the cable connections and cover them with a light coat of grease to prevent corrosion.

About half-way through the boating season, take a short service break. It'll help make the second half of the boating season as enjoyable as the first. (For those boaters fortunate enough to live in a warm climate, these checks should be made every 50 hours.)

Drain and flush the gearcase, and refill it with the manufacturer's recommended lubricant. Clean the fuel filter bowl and replace the bowl's element and gasket.

Again, clean and regap the plugs. Check the propeller for correct pitch; if it's worn, bent or badly chipped, replace it. Lubricate all grease fittings, mechanical steering controls and carburetor and magneto linkages.

WHEN SEASON ENDS

When the boating season is over, and the boats are about to be drydocked for another winter, the motor should be readied for its "moth balls."

If the engine was last run in salt water, be sure to run in fresh water before storing. Then, disconnect spark plug leads, drain the carburetor float chamber, remove and drain the fuel filter bowl and clean and replace the filter element.

Completely drain and clean the fuel tank. Remove and check the prop. Lubricate the propeller shaft. Drain and refill the gearcase.

Finally, wipe the entire outside of the motor with a clean cloth soaked in light oil, and store in an upright position in a dry, well-ventilated room.

Pig Is Taken As Image To Fight Litterbug Problem

NEW YORK (UPI)—The litterbug by any other name would still be the same—but Keep America Beautiful Inc. is suggesting "pig" as an alternate. In a public service campaign to be released this spring to newspapers, magazines and radio and television stations, the national litter-prevention organization is using pigs in littered settings to dramatize the nation's litter problem.

The campaign includes public service print ads showing pigs in "people" situations surrounded by litter and stressing that: "Spreading and living in a litter is for . . . well, certainly not for people."

Boat Ideas

Men who go down to the sea in ships these days usually have wifey along as first mate. The feminine hand is seen in laminated flowers on tabletop and ruffles at the port hole. Another growing feature is the use of carpeting. Acrilan carpeting takes well to the sea since water will not hurt it and it cleans easily.

Card Games

Children become bored quickly on long drives, so stop occasionally for snacks, souvenir-hunting or just plain sightseeing. If you must drive for a long time, have a few distractions up your sleeve. Identification and number games are fun. But when the shouting becomes unbearable, bring out one of their favorite quiet games.

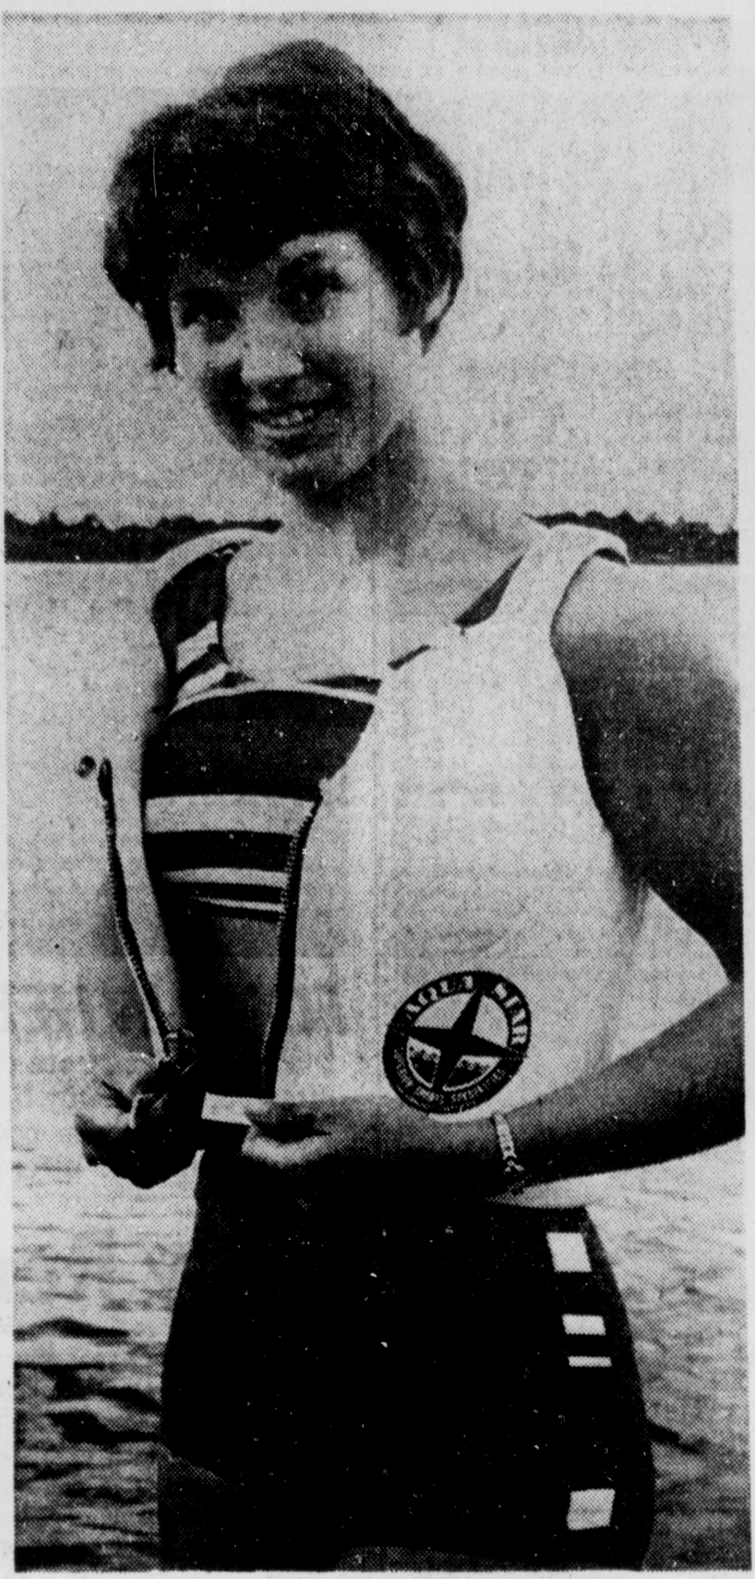
BY LAND OR BY WATER

Versatile conveyance for the woodsman and hunter is the Coot, a new all terrain vehicle, with low center of gravity and four-wheel drive. Like its namesake, the coot or mudhen, it is said to be equally at home on land and water. It weighs only 1,000 pounds and can be loaded on a pick-up truck to be moved great distances. The Coot's 12-horsepower engine gives it a road speed of 20 miles per hour and propels it at five miles per hour in water. In Marin, Mira Monte Marine, Novato, is the appointed dealer.



NEW SKI SAFETY JACKET

Women water skiers are finding this new form fashion designed safety jacket comfortable to wear and more flattering than the standard ski jacket. Called Aqua Star, it is made of foamed Ensolite with a tough but pliable vinyl coating. Padded, adjustable shoulder straps permit securing the jacket snugly to suit the individual wearer.

Catamaran Is Proving To Be Boating Boom

It's really a pair of lightweight plywood pontoons that fold neatly on top of a standard vacation trailer until the owner reaches a boat launching ramp. The floats swing down to transform the trailer into a boat with fore, aft and cabin-side decks, and with the outboard motor in place. Controls are on the forward deck.

The quick change from land trailer to cabin cruiser takes 10 minutes, less time than is often required to launch a conventional boat.

Actually, with its 11½-foot beam, the 22-foot double-hulled craft has deck space equal to that of a 28-foot cruiser. It created wide interest during successful test runs on waterways and highways.

The float attachment will fit trailers up to 18 feet. It is built of marine overlaid plywood with a built-in plastic surface. The pontoons are basically a structural plywood boxbeam of laminated wood filled with foamed plastic floatation material.

Pontoons swing down from the trailer roof and lock into position with their "keels" five inches above ground. The transom, with outboard motor attached, swings into place when decks are locked into position. The trailer, still riding on its wheels, is backed into the water with just its "bow" above dry land.

Final step is to lift the trailer with a built-in hydraulic system until its floor is on a level with plontoon decks. This transfers all weight to the "hulls" and, at the same time, lifts the trailer off the auto hitch.

Pack frozen hamburgers, chops and steaks in your ice chest for camping. They will help keep the eggs, butter and other perishabies cold. Thawing takes place gradually, and they will be ready to cook later. (Meat can be cooked from the frozen state.)

Collect Butterflies

People do really do collect butterflies—and for the serious hobbyist there's a new zippered, chrome-plated net, constructed from the steel shaft of a golf club. The zipper-fitted, detachable bag can be replaced in seconds with accessory bags designed for sampling water insects, plankton and other marine life.

New Recipe For Summer Relaxing—Houseboat Idea

Here's the modern recipe for relaxation: Find yourself a nice cool lake or river. Bring the whole family. Then share adventure and comfort. Go houseboating!

People as a whole don't really know how to relax. They try, but soon grow weary of the usual vacation habitats, longing for a more effective escape from everyday life. Houseboating provides that escape.

But where to escape on a houseboat? Large lakes and rivers offer the best water, in many spots quiet and predictable. Houseboats aren't designed for challenging storm-tossed waves. It's no fun having your food and clothes tossed about helter-skelter.

There's much to explore on the popular Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers, on popular Lake Shasta. In the delta of these inviting rivers lie thousands of waterways, hundreds of interesting little bays and inlets. You can even travel for miles up the picturesque Sacramento River itself.

Featuring ample size and convenience, running from 18 to more than 50 feet in length, outboard-powered houseboats weren't intended for racing or high-speed water-skiing. But they sure don't crawl along at a snail's pace either.

Tired of exploring? So much more than just exploring awaits your pleasure on trips. Take out that trusty old fishing pole and you're in for some real fine fishing. Or dive off the side of the boat and take that refreshing dip.

If these strike you as too energetic, nothing stops you from plain loafing on deck in an easy chair, enjoying the soft summer breezes. Comfort galore surrounds you aboard the modern houseboat equipped with private bedrooms, toilet and shower, complete kitchen, and heating. With television sets and air conditioning, many houseboats seem "just like home."

Sweet potatoes are excellent baked in the coals. Rinse well, then wrap with foil. Allow about 35 minutes — depending on size of potato. To serve, cut slit in top and add butter. Sprinkle with a little brown sugar. Excellent with grilled slices of canned ham and hot applesauce.

Keep your ice chest and picnic jug in the shade while in camp. Your ice supply will last much longer.

Cooking Kit

An emergency lighting and cooking kit is suitable for camping or simple picnic outings. When not in use during recreation times, the kit helps out when you are caught with electrical failures or broken gas mains in your area. Included are a camplight, portable stove and four propane fuel tanks.

Marine Growth

Marine growths and grime can collect on the bottom of your boat and rob it of performance. Whether your boat is in fresh or salt water, check the hull periodically and give it a thorough washdown. Excessive marine growths or grime can cut as much as 30 per cent off top speed.

Easy Rules Help Camping Pleasure

You will enjoy more camp comfort if you observe these five ground rules:

Look for high ground if there's any around. Stay out of gulleys and valleys. Look for a place to settle down for the night while it's still light enough to check around.

Get in a clearing. Tall grass and heavy brush too close can be a breeding place for bugs and insects in the wet season, a fire hazard in the dry season.

Where to do your cooking: During the daytime, winds usually blow off a lake and move toward higher ground. At night, winds usually move toward water.

If the weather's cool, pitch your camper so that it'll catch the last possible rays of the dying sun. And close the flaps at this time to trap all the heat you can inside for the night ahead.

Also, consider where the morning sun will hit — if you can put your camper in it, it'll help dispel the dew, eliminate morning dampness and dry the canvas.

If you're an ardent shutterbug and plan a camping trip in an area where the thermometer pushes 100 degrees, bring along an extra ice chest to store your film.

MODERN SURREY WITH FRINGE ON TOP

Unlike Grandpa's conveyance which relied on one horse up front, this aquatic surrey is propelled by 20 horses in its Mercury outboard motor. There is safety, too, in the jaunty pontoon construction.

GREEN CARPET GREW ALL AROUND

It takes a close second look these days to tell whether the lawn surrounding the pool and recreation areas should be mowed or vacuumed. In this case the latter would be the proper procedure. The turf is a verdant expanse of indoor-outdoor carpeting installed by San Rafael Carpets at the Andrew Szeghy home in San Rafael.

National Forests Offer Camp Sites

It may surprise you to know that you could cross the entire country and camp each night in a different national forest. This fact illuminates the spread of facilities awaiting those who seek outdoor recreation.

But it's not the complete story. Every state in the nation has park systems offering camping sites to families of five for about $2 a day or less.

There is a lot more to the outdoors than just camping, but camping does, generally speaking, imply all the rest — fishing, boating, hunting, hiking and the sheer joy of traveling to the chosen area for a vacation.

Planning for any vacation should start with a definite objective in mind. What will you do when you get there; what do you want to see on the way?

Contacting tourists, fishing and game divisions of the various states, or the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation of the Department of the Interior, Washington, D.C., will get you a wealth of stimulating information.

For those specifically interested in boating and water sports, write the Outdoor Boating Club of America, Chicago.

Your happy hunting grounds — for game or any other outdoor recreation — range from the rock-bound coast of Maine to semi-tropical southern California, from the high mountains of the northwest to the Everglades in Florida.

The huge X thus formed across the map of the country marks America — despite the vast explosion of our metropolitan areas — as a nation with almost unlimited opportunities for outdoor recreation. Coursing in every direction from anywhere along the X, are facilities close enough for a weekend or a day's outing, for that matter.

Consider, as suggestions for places to go, the lakes of Wisconsin and Minnesota in the upper midwest; the TVA lakes of Kentucky, Tennessee and Alabama; or Lake Texoma in Oklahoma for fishing and water sports.

There is the outdoors vacation wonderland of New England, with a lot of history along the way.

Think of exploring the American deserts in Nevada or Utah; the forests of Washington and Oregon; the rugged mountains of Colorado.

The shores of the Gulf of Mexico, the Atlantic or Pacific coastlines where you'll find everything from "roughing it" to luxury resorts, include opportunities for deep sea and surf fishing.

As someone observed recently: This is your country — See for yourself how full it is of opportunities for adventure, pleasure, and for you to enjoy its Great Outdoors.

Heat prostration or heat exhaustion are caused by prolonged heat and humidity, fatigue and excessive loss of body salts and water through perspiration. Buffered salt tablets should be taken to replace lost body salt and to prevent ills caused by excessive heat.

Gaslights Offer New Elegance In Outdoor Living

Outdoor entertaining has gone modern in many respects with one very prominent exception. Outdoor lighting has returned to one of the most elegant periods in American history . . . the Gaslight Era of the early 1900s.

May outdoor enthusiasts have found that the charm of gaslight can not only increase the beauty of a home and its landscape but also adds to the time that can be spent out of doors.

Where gaslights were once used for both indoor and outdoor illumination, most of today's residential gaslights are used on patios, walkways, gardens and driveways. With the subtle glow of gaslights enhancing the beauty of homes throughout the nation, the popularity of the historic light has undergone a tremendous growth.

Modern gaslights come in an almost endless variety of styles and sizes. Some have pilot lights which make lighting them a simple task. One even has an automatic eye capable of turning the light on at dusk and shutting the light off at sunrise.

For the camper, the fisherman or the relaxing resorter who wants to remain informal but dress properly for dinner or an evening out, the new styling trends follow his path.

Tattersall slacks, for instance, are in excellent taste worn with a single color cotton shirt, and the mock turtle is "in." Equally in good taste would be a washable wool sweater or double breasted blazer.

Apply Rent Fees To Summer Retreat

Why not invest in a vacation retreat instead of paying big rental fees for the kind of place they enjoy, they ask the man of the house.

The trouble is women have champagne tastes and beer pocketbooks, say builders.

Whereas the house they've rented might cost 10 times what they can afford to buy, they expect to find the same thing complete with pond, rose arbor, guest house, acres of lawn and perhaps an ocean view, all within their tiny budgets.

There are lots of wonderful buys in vacation houses. But what benefit is it just to find a bargain, if it isn't what you want? A fabulous little place in the woods with a rushing trout stream in the back yard is fine for someone who likes to fish, but not for someone who prefers the ocean and sunshine.

Nor does it pay to buy a house just for comforts and appearance. Paradoxically, that's what many vacation house seekers do. The result is they talk about the cool mountains all the time they are at the hot lake.

The family that decides they must forfeit a house in the area they want because it doesn't have three bathrooms that are necessary to comfort is off on the wrong track.

They should first consider their vacation house from the standpoint of interests—recreation or otherwise. Seashore types may not be happy at the mountains and vice versa. You can't please the skin divers in the family if you bury the family in a thicket on vacation. Some thought must be given to adolescents who need the company of their contemporaries.

If your idea is to choose a spot where you can entertain business friends or relatives on weekends, it should be fairly accessible. If train, ferry or other transportation is limited, you'll be mighty lonely.

A vacation retreat planned with children in mind requires another type of thinking. Will they be underfoot all day, bored to tears, hot and sticky all the time? Or will they be able to entertain themselves and keep cool? Some vacations can be nothing but work for mothers.

When the family decides why they want a particular vacation resort, what is expected of it in the way of fun, and the general location, thought should be given to the budget.

You may strike it rich and find the place that has everything within your budget. You could find that you cannot afford the retreat you'd like. In that case, look for the same vacation interests in a less elegant spot. It may be entirely tolerable given a chance. At least it can keep you interested because of the recreation advantages.

One way to give it a chance is to rent there one season while you size it up, and observe the family reaction. Many a hard-working father has saved for years to buy his family a little vacation cottage only to find his choice doesn't please a single member of the family.

Wood Is Almost Not To Be Found In Boats Today

A far cry from the "wood and caulking" days, modern boats are easier to keep clean, smoother riding and fun for the entire family — especially Mom.

Most of today's boats are a mixture of resins, foam, paint, fiberglass and putty. In fact, you have to look hard, in most cases, before you can spot a piece of wood.

The amazing part is, today's boats have more "floatability" than wood. After the exterior hull — made of fiberglass and resins — is completed in a mold, a thick layer of foam is sprayed inside. This adheres to the hull and is an integral part of the boat.

And boats today are easier to keep clean — and more attractive to Mom. Synthetic-covered, foam-rubber seats and wood floors covered with synthetics that are more washable than wood, make today's boat easy to maintain. Fiberglass decks and hulls are also easy to wash — and best of all, there's no caulking or repainting every season!

Hull design — made possible in large part through the molding of fiberglass — are more varied and smoother-riding.

BESIDE A SLEEPY LAGOON

Families with children make the most of outdoor water sports in the privacy of a closed lagoon at Greenbrae Marina in Larkspur. Other homes in the area with frontage on Corte Madera Creek have direct water access to San Francisco Bay.

Tiny Patio Can Afford Hideaway

Did you ever long for a tiny hide-away where you could get away from the hustle and bustle of a busy family, and yet be at home?

Some architects are giving the heads of the family just such a retreat in the form of a small, screened wood - decked patio opening off the master bedroom.

The floor deck needn't be very large, just enough for a couple of easy chairs or maybe a chaise lounge for dad and mom. It needn't cost much because wood decks are simple and easily built.

To insure maximum privacy, a high wooden screen can be installed around the sides of the deck exposed to the street or to activity in the family yard.

How do you build the deck? Use a sturdy lumber like Douglas fir which will last for years when exposed to the weather. The frame should be of small timbers and the deck can be of 2 by 4s spaced slightly to permit runoff.

The screening fence can be any pattern desired, but a louvered pattern will give good circulation and yet provide privacy.

The deck and screen need not be painted or stained, but can be allowed to weather to a soft silvery color. However, these woods will take any paint or stain with ease in case color is desired.

Fossil Hunting Prime Outdoor Fun

An abundance of prehistoric fossils lie somewhere under the ground just waiting for enterprising souls to uncover the true story behind the formation of life on our planet.

Many rewards have landed in the hands of amateurs who started their hobby simply because they liked the outdoors, but continued to dig up major findings.

Even you can happen across the largest dinosauer ever discovered. You don't have to be a learned scientist at least to have fun in the attempt. But you do need a workable knowledge of both geology and zoology, besides the usual rock-hunting equipment, if you hope to have any luck.

Such a briefing can be picked up in night school, a museum course, or even through private study at the local library. From your studies, and again when actually looking for fossils, you'll learn that the hunt for the remains of the incredible dinosaur proves to be one of the most exciting.

In the western United States, that's where the majority of dinosaur fossilis have been found, simply for the reason that the plains and mountain areas here have less vegetation than the Eastern hills, thus making fossils more easily detectable.

This makes it convenient for you Californians, too, as your own home state makes a good hunting ground, although having only two recorded finds of actual dinosaurs, one in Fresno County and one in Marina.

Should you run across signs of fragmentary fossils, go ahead and dig. Many times nothing comes of such clues. But, then again, it takes only that one special time to come up with something of importance, not necessarily dinosaur fossils but maybe others just as enlightening.

Camel remains, for instance, have been found in some 15 counties of our state.

It might be worth your while to explore the area near Barstow on U.S. 66, where fossils ranging from petrified wood to mammalian bones have brought hobbyists great satisfaction. Then spread out to the Granite Mountains between Barstow and Needles. By scrambling along these cliffs, arroyos, and canyon walls, you, like so many others, have a good chance to hitting upon something of value.

If not, why not try another fruitful spot? Clam and snail mollusks from one to ten million years old turned up in the past at Rodeo in Contra Costa County.

Another likely spot for exploration a mile north of Rodeo, Tormey has interesting fossils beneath its soil, of those belonging to the few brittle starfish appearing in North America anywhere from 10 to 20 million years ago.

For a twofold purpose, that of enjoying the outdoors and at the same time perhaps adding further evidence to the story of prehistoric life, try hunting for fossils.

Things To Remember When Launching A Trailer Boat

It doesn't take a bottle of champagne to launch your outboard. Better use is made of a keen sense of direction and a guide standing at the rear of the trailer to call out instructions. Here's how to do it:

1. Back slowly at a right angle to the launching site. Remember that when you want the rear of the trailer to turn one direction, steer your car the opposite way.

2. If the site is natural or unimproved, pick a sloping spot hard enough to give your tires a lot of traction.

3. When you are a few feet from the water's edge, remove the rear-tie-downs from the boat. Tilt the motor up and unlock the bow winch, but keep the boat snubbed tight.

4. Back again until the trailer wheels are an inch or two in the water. Set the hand brake and put the car in gear, ignition off. Now give the boat a firm push down the trailer.

Don't be one of those landlocked sailors who scuttle their boat before they get it to water. Be sure your boat, trailer, and car are matched and that you have an adequate well-designed hitch.

GOLF COURSE HAS COUNTRY OUTLOOK

Ranches, horses and cattle add a rural touch to the scenery around the Indian Valley Golf Course in Novato. The 110-acre course, now 11 years old, is noted for its challenging combinations of hills, valleys, trees, water hazards and sandtraps. It's one of Marin's outdoor attractions.

FOLDING FOOD WARDROBE

Easily hung from a tree or tent support, this compact folding cabinet keeps food safe from insects and animals on camping trips or picnics. Made of plastic, the unit has a full length zipper closure, ventilation panels and three shelves. It is manufactured by Gloy's Inc., Larchmont, N.Y.

Patio Not Needed For Outdoor Dining

Dinner out-of-doors is a very special treat a homemaker can give her family. It doesn't require a lot of work and you don't have to own a patio. The smallest lawn, a garden walk or an apartment balcony will do just fine. Pick a spot you can use regularly, set up the basics — a simple plank table top and benches — and leave them there between meals.

When it comes to the trimmings, keep them simple and keep them gay.

For added appeal, vary the usual placemats occasionally with a bright cloth made from that vivid piece of felt or fabric you've been saving, or that leftover roll of wallpaper.

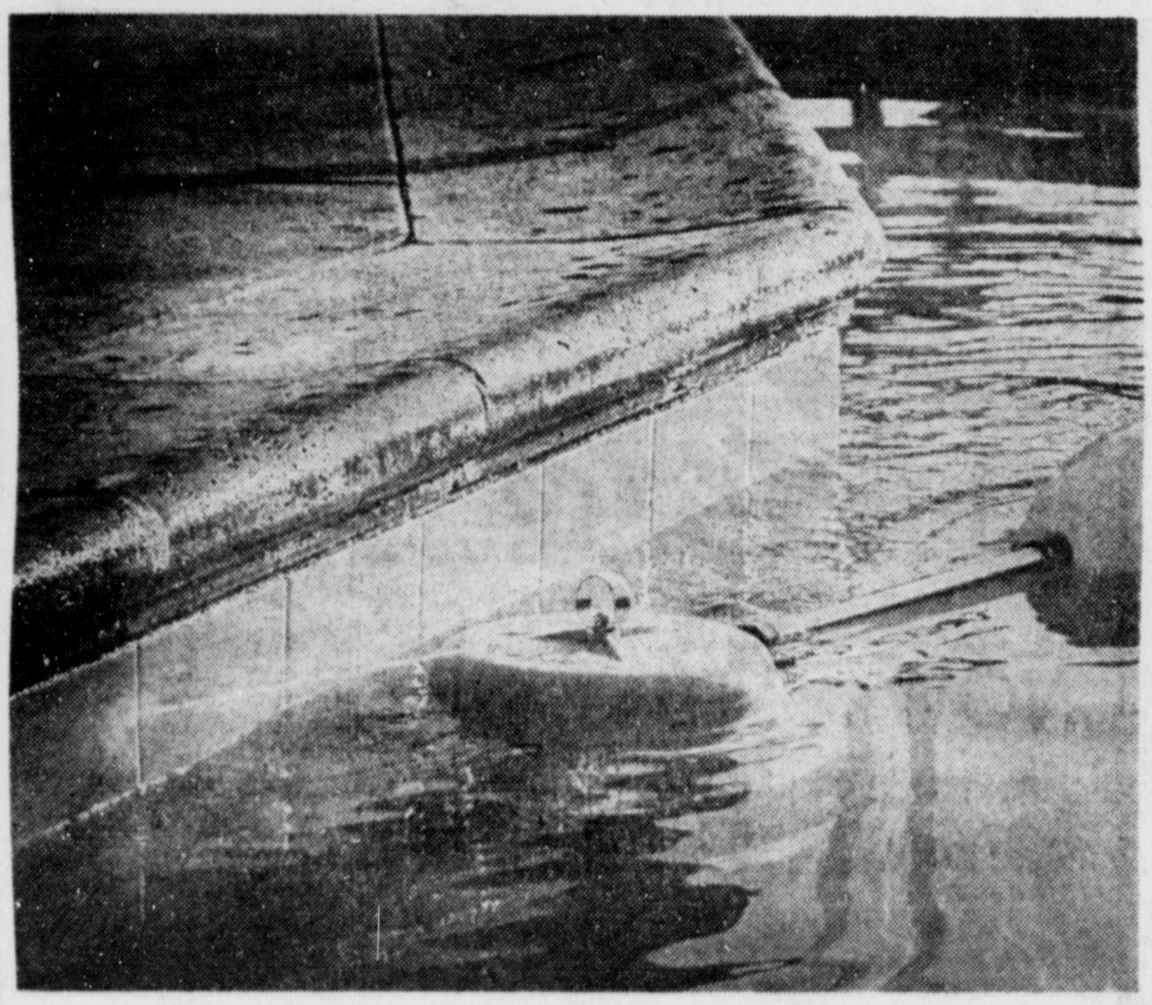
If your chosen location is necessarily close to the neighbors and you'd welcome more pricacy, make a casual folding screen of plywood covered with a decorative adhesive paper or splashy textile print.

A container deep enough to hold mossy earth is the start of an elegant centerpiece. The moss keeps flowers from the garden fresh without much attention. A random arrangement looks natural and is easily repaired (without a complete redo) by replacing wilted blooms with new. Or, if you've a vase of blossoms in the house, borrow that at mealtime.

Keep the menu lighthearted, too. Some cooling surprises that go over big outdoors on sultry days: luscious fruit salads topped with iced sherbet; heaped-high portions of old-fashioned strawberry shortcake.

Rained out? Never mind! An indoor picnic's fun, too, especially when there are plenty of franks, mustard, pickles and potato salad.

A whisk broom is a handy addition to your camping gear. It will be useful in tidying up the floor of your tent and removing pine needles and leaves from sleeping bags and tarpaulins.



SWIMMING POOL PERFORMER

Working out quietly when there is no audience, this pool-sweep manufactured in San Rafael by Arneston Products, Inc. uses jet action to scour the surface, bottom and sides of the pool without the pool owner's attention. Dirt washed down in the water is corraled by sweep hoses and directed toward the leaf trap, then into the filter.

First Aid Kit Is Important Item For An Angler To Carry

Cullerton, fishing advisor for Johnson Reels, recommends that every fisherman should know first aid techniques, to be able to treat minor injuries.

He also feels that every fisherman should have an emergency kit with him at all times.

A basic kit should include, says Cullerton, a flashlight, a small set of signal flares or whistle (to signal for aid), side-cutter pliers, insect repellent, sun tan lotion, light rubber pacs (to keep feet dry in case boat ships water), sunglasses, first aid kit, a couple of candy bars, and a couple of cans of your favorite soft drink.

And very important, since nothing can be more frustrating than a motor that starts missing because of faulty firing, is having a couple of dry packed spark plugs in the kit.

The flashlight, a most important item, can be used as a light beam at night to draw attention to your area in case your boat has capsized.

It can pinch-hit as a light to lead the way back to the dock if lights on boat fail; to light up a dark path as you return from your fishing hole in the dark.

Signal flares are good for day or night use to direct attention to your area in case of trouble. In case of a boat upset, your whistle would be better and lounder than trying to call for help.

Pliers will come in handy many times. They can be used from trimming a barb point off a hook which has pierced an ear lobe, or thumb, to removing a hook from the jaws of a northern pike — which has teeth like spikes.

Insect repellent can help to makes your day on the waters more pleasant and enjoyable. Take along plenty!

Last of all, be sure to protect your eyes from harmful ultra violet rays of the sun by wearing dark glasses. Water reflections can produce some painful eye burns too. And be sure to get the best you can afford.

Veteran anglers never head out onto the waters unless their gear contains an emergency kit. Why should you?

Driving today's boat is easier than driving an automobile. Electramatic throttle and shift controls, eary-to-view instrument panels and glare-reducing safety glass are usually standard fare.

It is wise, when touring to stop frequently to fill the tank. Seasoned tourists make it a point to do so whenever the gauge reaches the half-full mark. These stops can serve other purposes, such as offering a chance to stretch one's legs and an opportunity to give the kids — if any — a break.

One Of The Most Important Boat Rules Is Courtesy

Courtesy is the first rule of boating, and one reason why 40 million Americans enjoy fun afloat. Simply stated, it's nice to be with nice people.

Don't be a nautical hot rodder. There's no room for the show-off in boating. Avoid running fast into a pier or float. Keep a safe distance from swimming areas and anchored boats.

Share the waterways. Let other people have room to enjoy these favorite activities, whether it's fishing, water skiing or skin diving.

When anchoring, leave adequate room between boats so lines will not be snarled or the boats bump together. When tying up at a pier, leave room for other boats. Unless you have permission, avoid tying up at private piers.

Offer assistance when someone is having trouble. This has been an unwritten law of the sea for hundreds of years. Someday, someone will return the favor, and you'll see how important this rule of courtesy is.

FENCE DESIGN GIVES PRIVACY AND VENTILATION

This attractive fence around the home swimming pool was made by alternating grooved siding panels on two sides of the framework. Surfaces facing the poolside were painted alternately orange and off-white. One panel is hinged to serve as a door. Three-inch overlap in panels permits air circulation.

YEAR-ROUND SPORT — Through the clay target games of trap and skeet and their limitless variations, the thrills, skills and satisfaction of wing shooting have come to be enjoyed by many outdoor-minded families.

Clay Disc Shooting Becoming Popular Year-Round Activity

Most outdoor sports are ruled, unfortunately, by seasons. When the snow melts, the skier must hang up his skis; when the water chills, the skindiver has to shelve his snorkel; and who but the hardiest camper refuses to fold his tent and silently steal indoors when the mercury dips below freezing?

Yet there is one brand of outdoor sport that defies the seasons and offers continuous leisure-time fun all year. It's called recreational shooting and it includes as much variety as a fire sale at the general store.

Just about any form of gunsport — in which a sporting firearm is used to discharge ammunitiion at some sort of target — can be classified as recreational shooting. More properly today, however, the term has come to be virtually synonymous with shotguns and clay target games.

The main objective of these fun-filled games — of which, incidentally, there are almost as many possible variations as there are shooters — is to shatter a fast-flying clay disc about 4½ inches in diameter.

A shotgun is used which fires a cartridge, or shell, containing hundreds of pellets, known as shot. Since these shot disperse into a pattern roughly 18 inches wide at average shooting distances, hitting a moving target is not as difficult as the uninitiated might suppose.

Trap and skeet, the most formal clay target games, offer the challenge of achieving a perfect score (25 out of 25) in a prescribed course of fire. At public and private installations around the nation, trap and skeet provide outdoor shooting sport for countless men, women and youngsters right around the calendar.

Personal instruction and illuminated fields, which make possible the added thrill of shooting at night, have attracted scores of new enthusiasts across the country.

And whether a planned activity or simply an impromptu change of pace, a clay target shooting session will provide a lively supplement to the family's enjoyment of a full day outdoors.

Club Or Rental Planes Cheapest

While many thousands of families do own their own aircraft, a far larger group of pilots takes advantage of rental or club plans. Airplanes can be rented at most airports, usually for an all-inclusive hourly flying time charge. Typical rental costs on a four-place single-engine airplane that cruises at 135 mph would usually run from $16-24 per flying hour. Divided between two couples, the cost-per-mile is very reasonable.

By belonging to a flying club that divides the fixed cost of aircraft ownership among the members, a pilot can take advantage of much lower rental rates, since most clubs are non-profit organizations.

SOME GOOD RULES

Clear Pond Takes A Lot Of Upkeep

NEW YORK (UPI) — Who, shopping the real estate ads, is not attracted by mention of a "lakeside setting" or "garden with lily pond?"

It also can be filmed with a pea soup scum, brown with underwater slime and wafting an obnoxious odor over the land. It can, but need not be, with a little care.

The culprit in the latter picture is algae, primitive plants which have no true roots, leaves or flowers but reproduce by means of minute spores.

Familiar pond scums made up of long hair-like strands are called filamentous algae and begin near the bottom of shallow water areas. Others occur as millions of tiny, single, floating cells which form a thick mat as they increase. Some of these single-celled algae give pond water a bad odor or taste and a few kinds produce poisonous substances which can kill fish, birds and livestock.

Mechanical methods — cutting, raking and digging out weeds and algae—can be used with success but, more often, chemical control is recommended. And, most commonly, copper sulfate is suggested. The bright blue crystals, available at seed and hardware stores, are a safe and inexpensive chemical.

1. Copper sulfate concentrations of one-quarter, one-half or one part per million should be used — preferably in solution sprayed over the pond by means of a portable tank spray although the crystals can be strewn in the water as is.

2. To determine the amount required, Phelps Dodge explains, find the volume of the pond in acre feet by multiplying the surface area by one-half the maximum depth. Rule of thumb for one-quarter part per million is to use 1 ounce of the chemical per one-tenth acre feet. For one-half part per million the figure is doubled, etc. It is important that only the required amount be used.

3. Ponds should be treated when algae and weeds first appear. Shallow, unshaded areas should be checked constantly for appearance of algae.

4. The copper sulfate solution should be sprayed evenly over the pond surface from a plastic, stainless steel, enameled or copper lined container.

5. On large ponds, treatment should be in sections, rather than treating the entire area at one time with larger amounts of the chemical.

6. Treatment is more effective when water temperature is 60 degrees Fahrenheit or higher.

7. Repeat treatment may be necessary because no permanent way of controlling algae is known.

8. Some areas require a permit before a pond may be treated. Check with your health department.

Snakes Usually Fear You, Too

California has her snakes, but most people don't realize that snakes dislike humans just as much as humans dislike snakes.

When you're in very hot and dry country, watch for snakes — but don't be unduly afraid of them. Most snakes aren't dangerous and the few that are poisonous are very rarely seen.

If you're hiking, you can protect your legs by wearing boots, and you should also avoid grabbing at rocks and underbrush without first looking. Keep to trails and you're unlikely to see a single snake on a full day's hike. When snakes hear you coming they tend to slither away.

Although bites from poisonous snakes are fairly rare, anyone going into areas where snakes are prevalent would be wise to learn how to treat bites. Knowledge of first aid can save a life in an emergency.

NATATORIUM CONSTRUCTION UNDER WAY

Indoor swimming pool and recreation center for Mariner Green Townhouses, Corte Madera, is scheduled for completion this summer. The area is being lavishly planted with annuals, olive trees and shrubbery.

COMPACT STOVE

A cup of coffee can be made anywhere by the sportsman, camper or hiker who has this 12-ounce alcohol stove. With no moving parts except for folding supports, its combination burner and fuel department is filled with asbestos-like material which releases the alcohol as it burns. Produced by Gloy's Inc., Larchmont, N.Y.

SPARE ROOM FOR SMALL FRY — A lightweight extra tent is the answer for stretching camp facilities and giving both youngsters and adults more privacy. The "extra room" can be located close by the main camp.

Wardrobe Ideas For Girl Tourist

The most comfortable shoes for driving are flats — loafers or slippers — not thong sandals which may slip off.

Bring wash and wear suits of the new wrinkle-resistant blends with skirts not too tight, but also have a dressy over-blouse and dress shoes for special restaurants.

Make-up, an extra pair of stockings and a rain hood should be kept handy. It is also helpful to keep a moist wash cloth wrapped in a plastic bag in the glove compartment.

A Tent Of Their Own Can Delight Children

Camping is a family affair and some of the most enthusiastic campers around are junior-size. In fact they've taken to camping so wholeheartedly many youngsters have their own tent set up beside their parents'.

If you've ever wished you could stretch the size of your pick-up camper, camp trailer or tent trailer, you might follow suit. Unlike adding more space to a house, an "extra room" is easy to come by at the campsite.

A lightweight, compact, easily stowed tent for two is the answer and the perfect camping accessory to your present camping facility. If any of your campers are on the sunny side of their teens they'll want to claim this spare room as their domain.

The ideal tent for your "extra room" is a "Pop-Tent" which pops into shape. A ten-year-old can set up the tent and strike it by himself.

This small tent is seven feet in diameter and can be set up in less than two minutes. It can even be moved after it is up.

Youngsters like to be by themselves once in awhile, and a tent of their own adds to their enjoyment of camping. Actually there are so many refinements to camping nowadays with well-equipped trailers and campers, youngsters often feel short-changed in the getting-close-to-nature department.

Now they can have the best of two worlds. They'll be snug and safe only a few yards away from your camper or trailer, yet they'll have the feeling they are camping out alone.

Recreation Vehicles Prove Real Blessing

Whether you want to reach a remote hunting or fishing site, some extra muscle to pull a heavy boat or trailer, the ability to explore the desert or climb mountain trails, to go camping at the water's edge of your favorite lake, or to live in a fully equipped vacation home on wheels, there are recreational vehicles available to handle your special brand of outdoor activity.

Most such vehicles can be placed in one of three basic categories: compact utility vehicles — usually with four-wheel drive; "super" station wagons — designed to pull heavy boats or trailers while carrying sizable amounts of cargo; and pickup trucks — generally used for carrying insert-type or chassis-mounted camper bodies.

The "go anywhere" compacts are ideal if you have a yen for tackling the rugged back country. In addition to four-wheel drive, they have very short wheelbases. While this does not provide the smoothest ride in the world, it helps these units to explore otherwise unreachable terrain.

Four passengers is about top capacity for any utility compact. If your offspring are beginning to resemble the Green Bay Packers in numbers or size or both, a super station wagon will probably be more suitable for your family's transportation to the outdoors.

Built on truck chassis, super station wagons can be specified with power trains capable of pulling trailers weighing 6,000 lbs. or more and measuring 20 feet or longer.

The third category of recreational vehicles covers camper-oriented pickup trucks. Sleek lines, comfortable and attractive cabs, smooth handling, and a host of equipment items specifically for carrying camper bodies are features.

Insert-type camper bodies can be mounted inside the pickup body for a weekend trip or longer jaunts, then stored in the garage, freeing the pickup for duty as a second car until the next outing. Even roomier camper bodies are designed for permanent mounting directly to the pickup chassis.

Outdoor Eating 'A Movable Feast'

Although keeping the family well fed is mother's job inside the home, watch dad become king of cookery when it comes to eating outdoors. Smart wives encourage this because it gives the men pleasure and the women a change of pace.

Smart outdoor cooks know they can learn from their wives, especially in making preparations for their outdoor cookery. Here are some things women can tell them:

A day or so in advance, fill some milk cartons with fresh water — and freeze! Put them in the chest. This helps keep contents cool and also furnishes a ready supply of fresh water.

Outing kits of vacuum bottles help a lot, too. For instance, if cool or rainy weather is anticipated, use one or two for hot soup. New wide mouth vacuums make it possible to carry hot stews and chili — cold salads, too.

Remember pots, and skillets — the latter for your fresh caught fish, expecially. One of the pots can give you hot water for instant coffee, tea or cocoa. No need to take a coffee maker.

Need for can openers is almost eliminated — by today's convenient packaging of soft drinks. But such cooking utensils as spatulas (for breakfast bacon, fish, etc.) and utensils for eating have few, if any, substitues.

Sleepyheads who want a cup of coffee the minute they open their eyes will welcome this timesaver. Make extra coffee at dinnertime and pour it into a vacuum bottle for early morning enjoyment.

A New World

Underwater swimming opens a whole new world to the fisherman, photographer or family member who enjoys the water. And it's not as difficult as you may think to get to this "new world" outdoors.

Diving within what is known as the "single atmosphere zone" — within 33 feet of the surface — is also the safest diving area. There you'll find:

Make Backseat Driving Helpful Rather Than Bad

Time and again you've been warned against telling the person behind the wheel how he should drive. Leave him alone to make his own decisions. Behave in any other manner and you'll only irritate him, perhaps to such an extent that he finds himself nervously driving right into a serious accident.

Why not offer him valuable assistance instead? There definitely are certain measures you can take to ensure a safer trip.

Give the driver an extra pair of eyes, yours, by reading the map for him, by staying on the alert for highway markers as well as for traffic signals.

But don't get all excited if he goes off the wrong exit ramp. And never reproach him for it. This might shake him up, quite a detriment to his keeping all his faculties about him in emergencies.

Be a good timekeeper. Keep track of the time remaining before the driver must stop for his much-needed rest. Urge him to get out and stretch at least once every two hours.

Take the role of baby-sitter away from the driver. Younger children horse around too much, thereby distracting him. So interest them in any one of a number of quiet games.

See to it that your kids fasten on their seat belts, which, besides increasing their safety, prevent them from roaming.

There, you see? You job's cut out for you in furthering the cause of road safety. Backseat nagging only hinders it.

Though many outdoor recreationists do not realize it, they are valuable direct contributors to the Land and Water Conservation Fund. The fund is supported by revenues from all Federal recreation area fees and by revenues from the sale of surplus federal real property and the motorboat fuels tax.

Sharp Eyes Can Detect Favorite Fish Hangouts

Fishermen are notorious for their firsh-that-got-away yarns. But on second thoughts, if all those whoppers got away, they must be hiding somewhere now.

Here are a few tips as to where those prize fish-that-got-away might be lurking.

Every fisherman knows there's more to a lake then meets the eye. Take a look at the shoreline. If It's steep and rocky you can expect deep water and a boulder-strewn floor. It's a fish's haven.

Look at the colors in the lake. The darker hues usually mean deeper water. Try to locate a reef by dropping a sounding weight. This is a good place to find fish. Many flats have sharp drop-offs too. Finding these also requires a bit of probing, but once you've found a drop-off you're almost guaranteed to find fish too.

Ask around in the area where you intend to fish, keep your eyes open, and you might be lucky enough to lure back one of those fish-that-got-away.

Check Safety Before Going On A Cruise

Recreational boating is one of the safest outdoor sports. There are few accidents and even fewer serious injuries and fatalities. But since there is still an element of risk, no matter how small, California boat owners are reminded to conduct a safety countdown before each cruise.

See to it that the anchor is ready to go and that it is well secured to the boat.

Have you all the fuel and oil you will need?

Good Gardening Often Is Easiest Gardening

Do you like to do things the easiest way possible? With an absolute minimum of fuss and bother? If so, you'll want to try these tips from gardening experts:

1. Organize your gardening activities around a centrally located work center. Provide a counter and shallow shelves for supplies. If wall is available, hang small tools, after cleaning blade, between row of nails with the blades up and handles down so that they are available at a glance and ready to use. Tool care prevents excessive rusting, maintains sharpness and saves effort. The larger, less frequently used equipment can be stored in a less handy area.

2. Get duplicates of those tools you use often and keep them close to their various points of employment. Then you can grab them whenever a job needs doing.

3. Store extras of the small items you use for minor garden repairs or adjustments in attractive containers on porch or terrace and near other doors leading to the garden. Use decorative baskets, boxes, or copper bowls. Include twine, plant ties, shears, trowel, wrench, spray nozzle, and small rolled-up paper bags for carrying away pest ridden twigs.

4. Run sprinkler hoses through shrub borders and leave them there for the season. Saves dragging hoses, especially in new plantings that need frequent soaking.

5. Keep a two-gallon watering can near potted plants; arrange for both to be near a faucet.

6. Attach a siphon-type applicator to your hose so you can feed plants when you water them.

7. Simplify lawn care with a good fungicide. Apply regularly and before rain during periods when disease can be expected on such plants as peonies, hollyhocks, and horses. Load another duster for insect pests.

9. Use a square of canvas or painted plywood to catch the soil removed from planting holes. It makes a good surface for mixing in soil improvers and simplifies cleaning up later.

10. Weed when weeds are small.

11. Eliminate plants that require a lot of care. With hundreds to choose from, there is no need to put up with weak plants that are messy or attract pests.

12. Half of the fun in gardening is in the ability to see progress that has been accomplished and in viewing the whole effect created. Stop between your work, to rest, contemplate and plan for new jobs to improve the overall picture. These periods of refreshment are some of the greatest rewards.

Racket Weight

In tennis, the player today can find a racket of the weight he likes to swing and the new low-pressure balls stay lively through numerous sets of play and are not affected by the atmosphere in high altitude areas.

No need for Dad to miss his mid-morning coffee break just because he's on vacation. A vacuum bottle will keep extra breakfast coffee hot for hours.
